1974

Coming back to Grimsley—it was the same, and yet, somehow, it was different this year.

Delayed remodeling of a crucial area—the restrooms—failed to detract from the cheery colors of new cafeteria furniture, the comfort of smoothly laid tile, and the glow of fresh paint from old classroom walls. By October, friends could again meet to gossip and primp in the bathrooms without confronting workmen or piles of commodes.

Hot humid afternoons interrupted by daily bomb scare breaks resulted in grass stains, bee stings, and sun-burned noses.

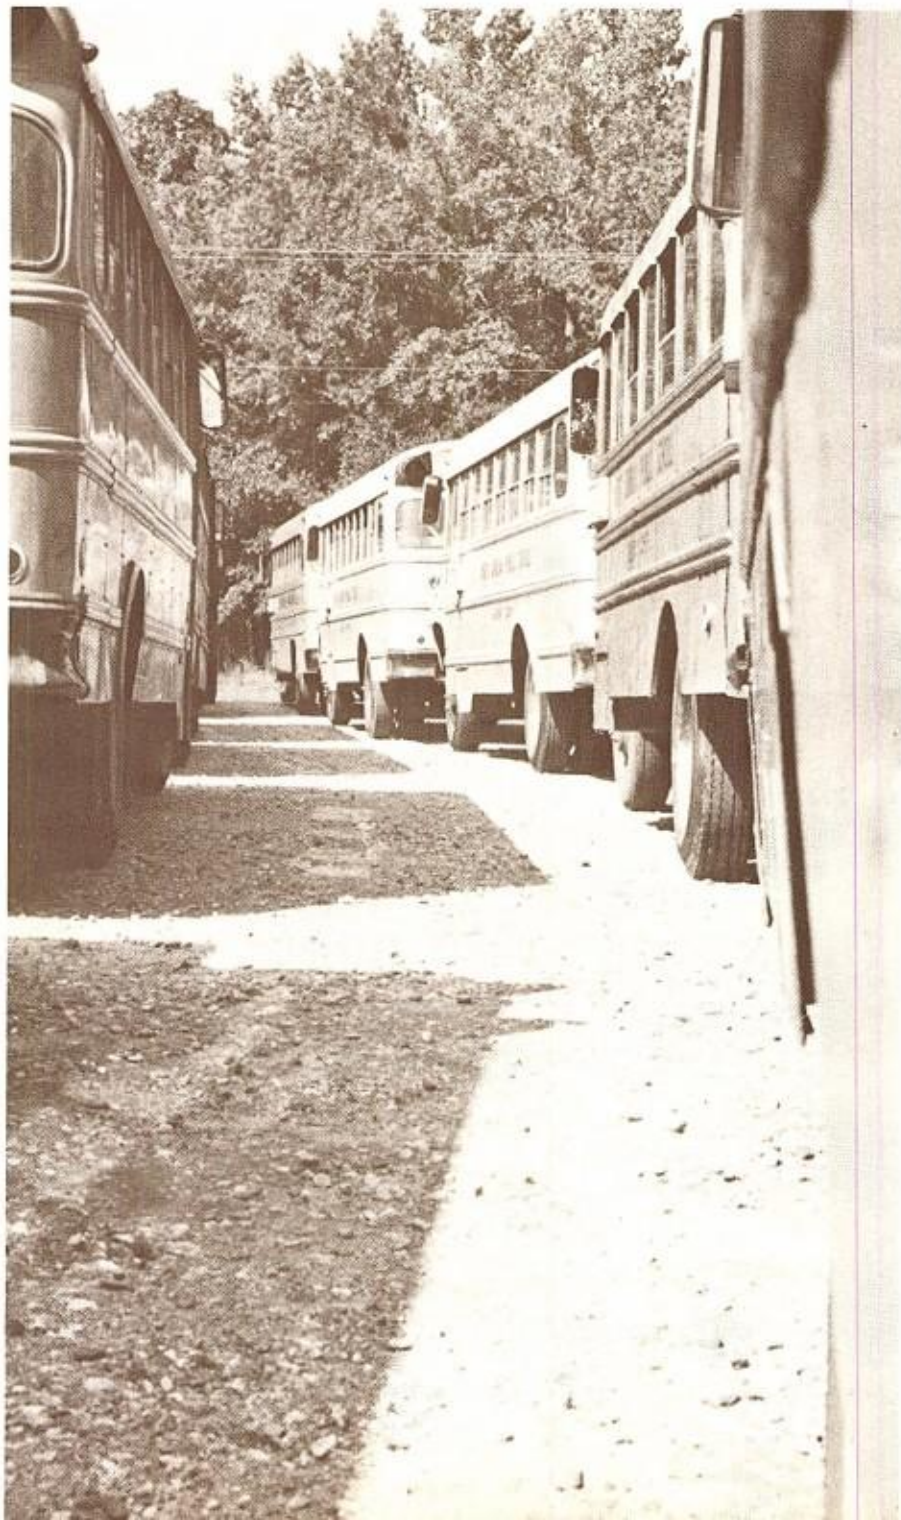

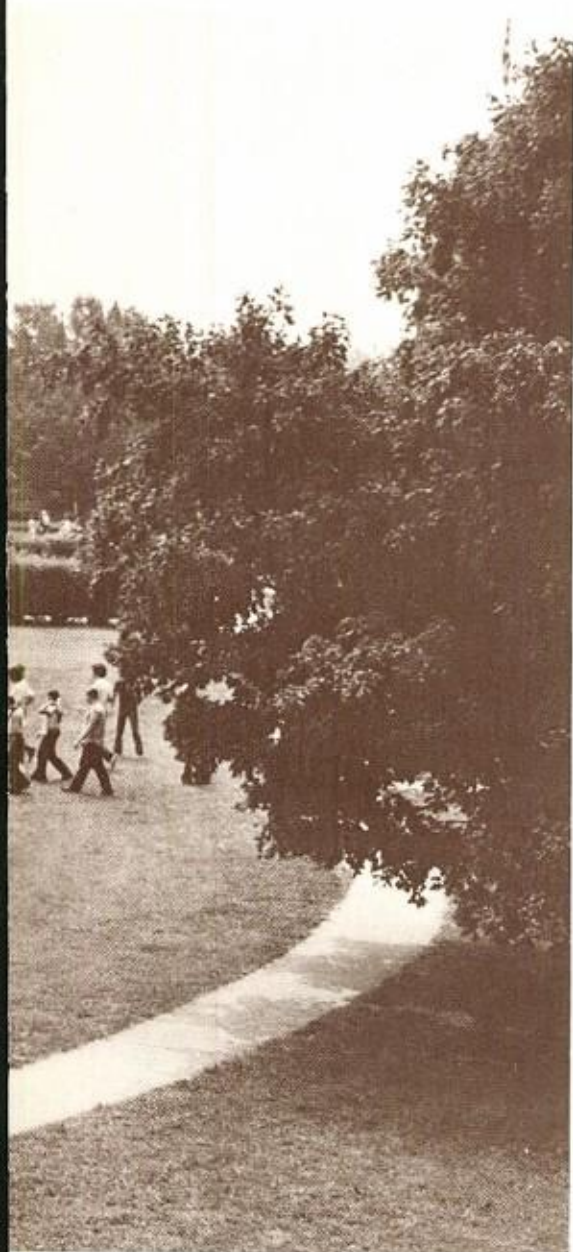

Filling out endless forms, enduring locker lines, and concentrating in spite of upper ninety degree weather occupied the first hectic days. Hordes of students jammed guidance, complaining of schedule troubles. Novice sophomores stumbled headlong into Grimsley life, but under the critical eyes of upperclassmen, survived the opening days with a minimum of disasters. At last, students shouldered their work resignedly, with renewed efforts to increase their knowledge.

But by now, most individuals realized that the deepest difference lay within themselves.

It was and it wasn't; students begin a long, paradoxical school year

Nature's color guard, the Grimsley campus, erupted with vibrant tones as the belated fall season finally made itself apparent. Lazy Indian Summer days prolonged warm breezes, and made themselves loathsome to those who would have enjoyed a chilly Friday night football game. By the time the last dry leaf had fallen, GHS'ers too were well settled in their positions.

What better way to enjoy the fragrance and blossom of fall chrysanthemums than Grimsley's mid-October Homecoming? Front lawn projects for this annual event evoked a more spirited following of our Whirlies, and by the time these inventions were cleared away, it was generally felt that activities and social life would be buzzing for the remainder of the school year.

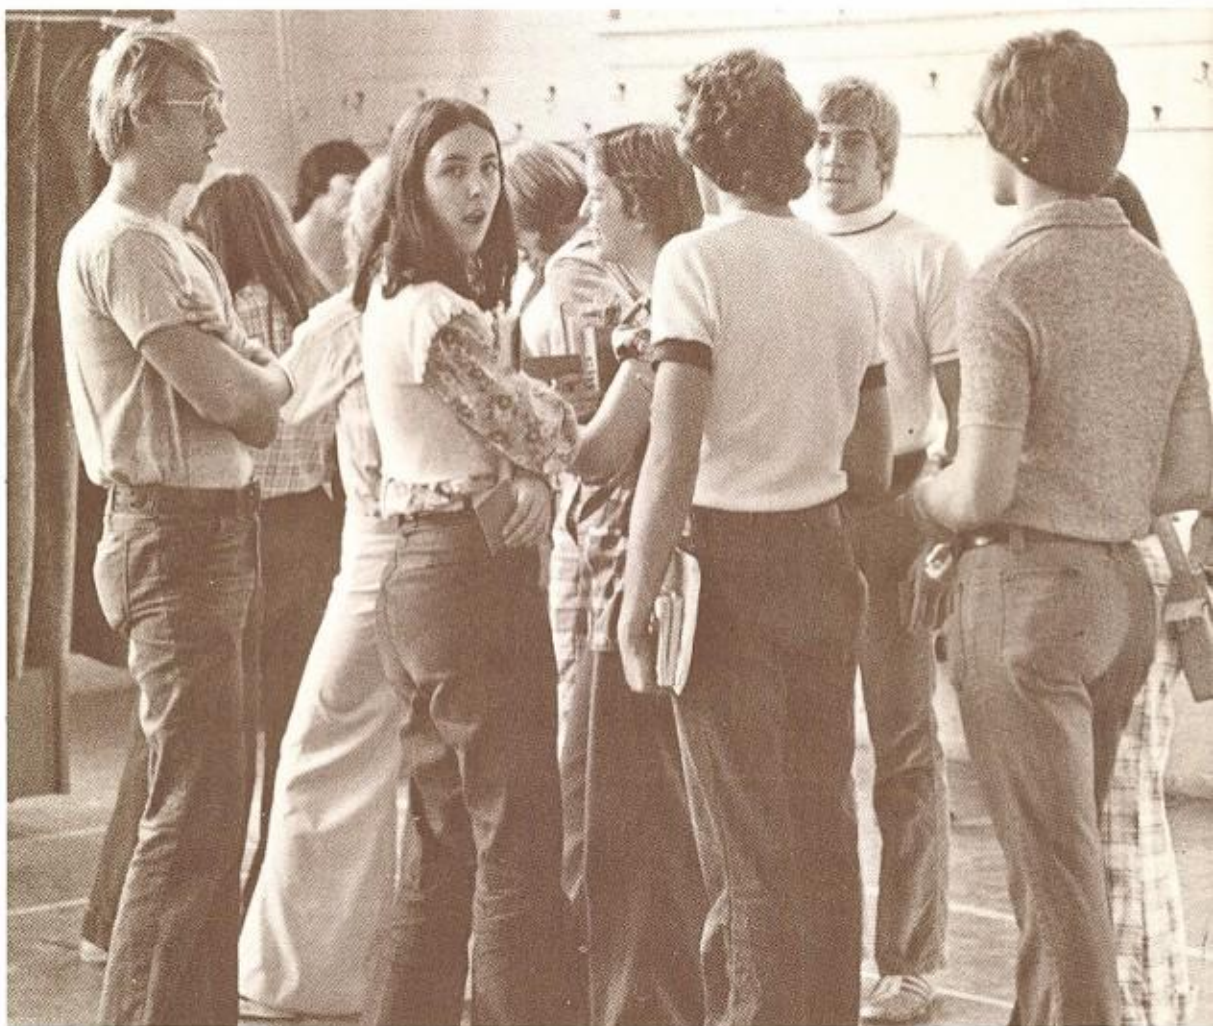

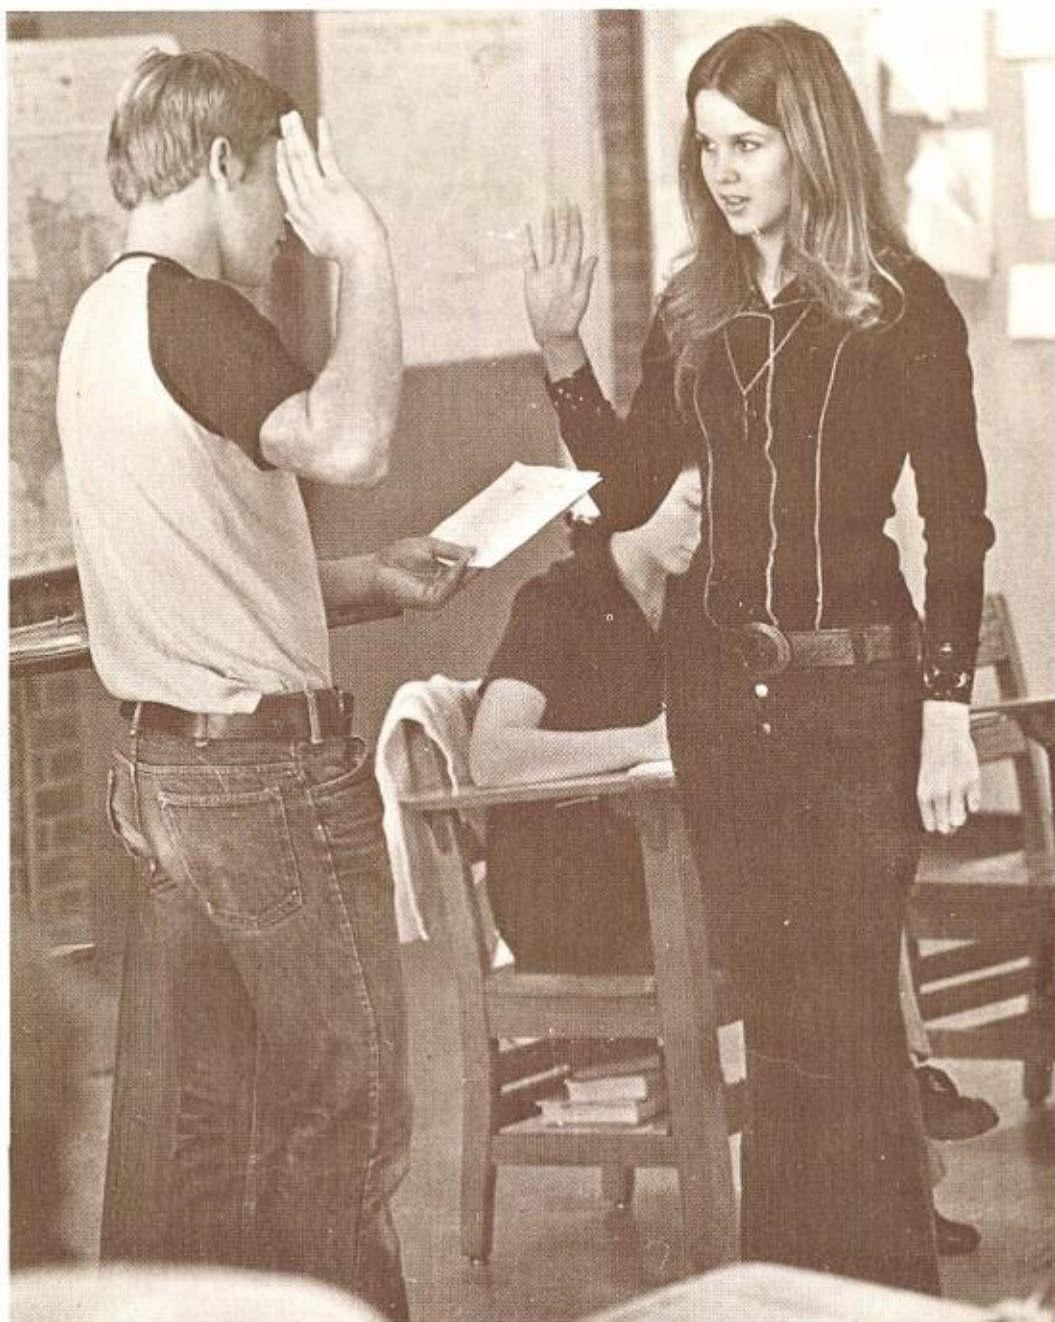

There was an interval during which it was difficult to determine whether spring was approaching or summer's days were numbered. The weather was uncomfortably warm and homework seemed insurmountable, when congenially nipping breezes and the moderation of homework implied that autumn had settled upon us.

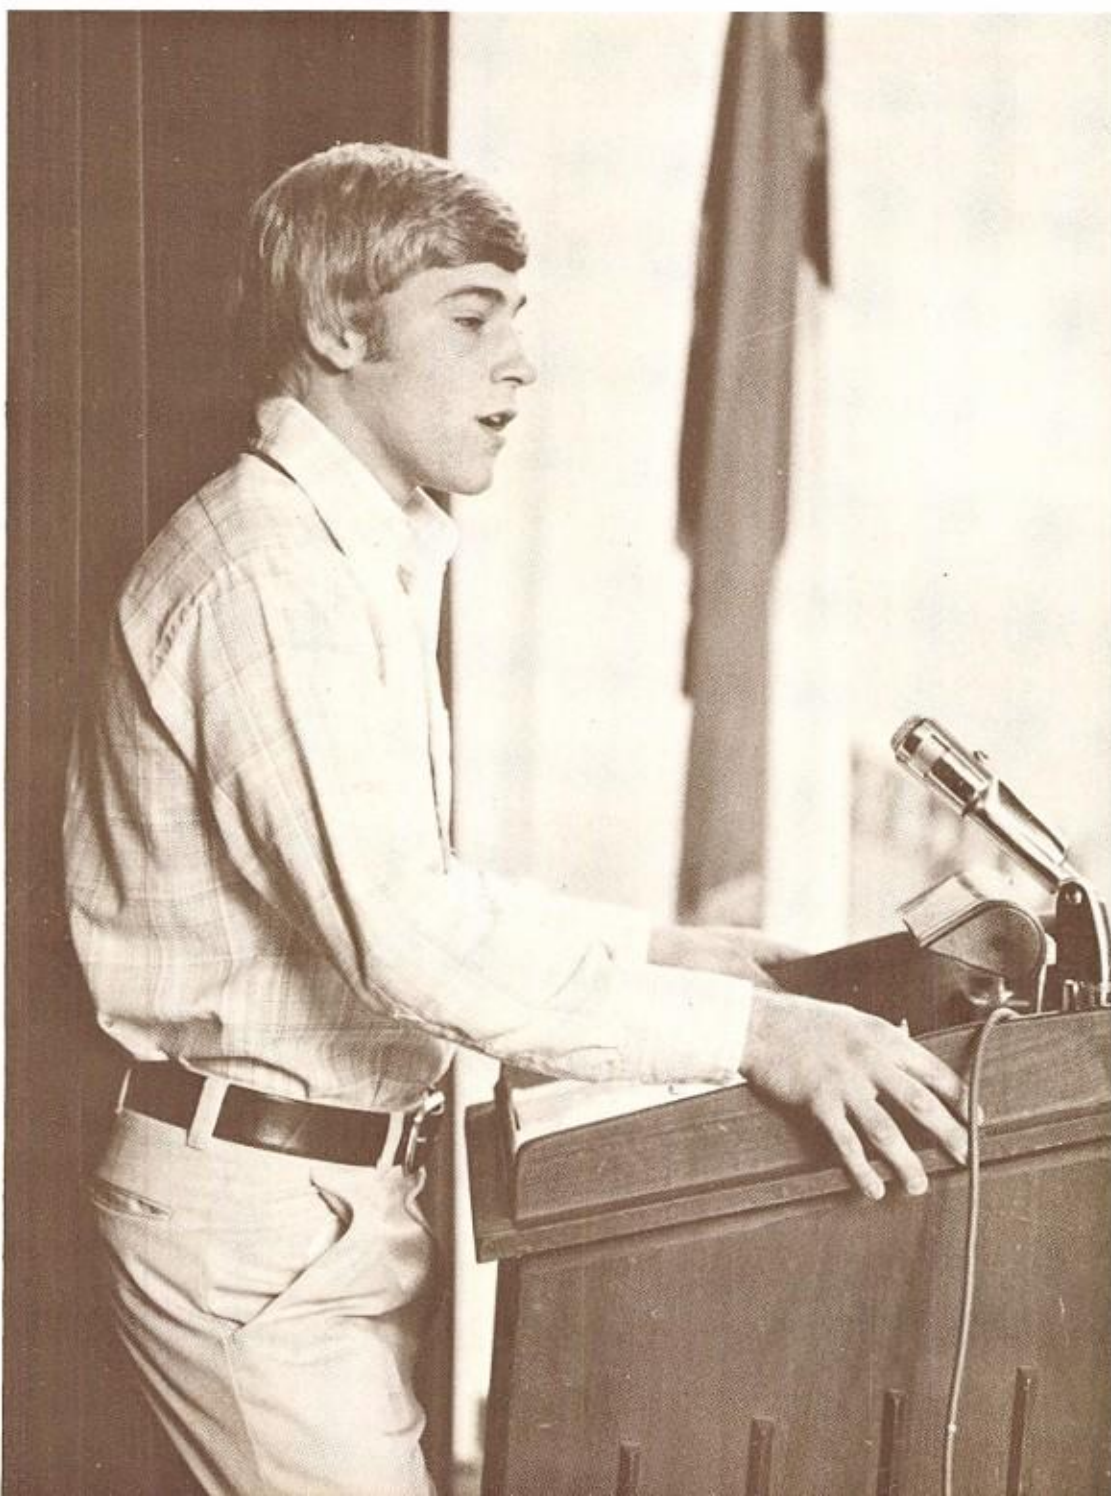

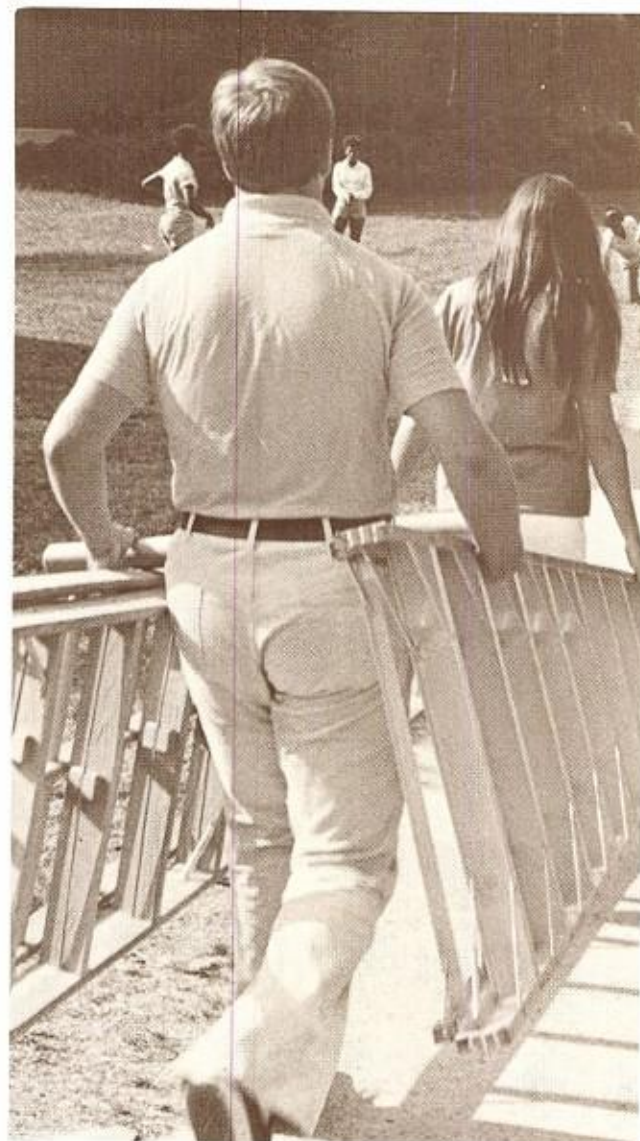

For three days Grimsley retained a facelift. Campaign posters were hung, and those who noticed them caught some of the spirit of the upcoming elections. A broad sprinkling of personalities, many unknown or unheard of, were brought into the "I care how Grimsley is governed" limelight.

Despite valiant efforts on the part of those candidates running in the October elections, few students showed at the voting machines. Likewise, few machines showed for the students. By far, the busiest one was the one marked Senior, while the Sophomore machines were practically untouched.

Most of the positions were decided before anyone voted. Either few people had a first period study hall, or few took active interest in the government of GHS. At any rate, most of the tickets were lacking in contenders. Such apathy only mocks those who complain that student government is a biased popularity contest.

Learning marches on; grammar, composition, literature

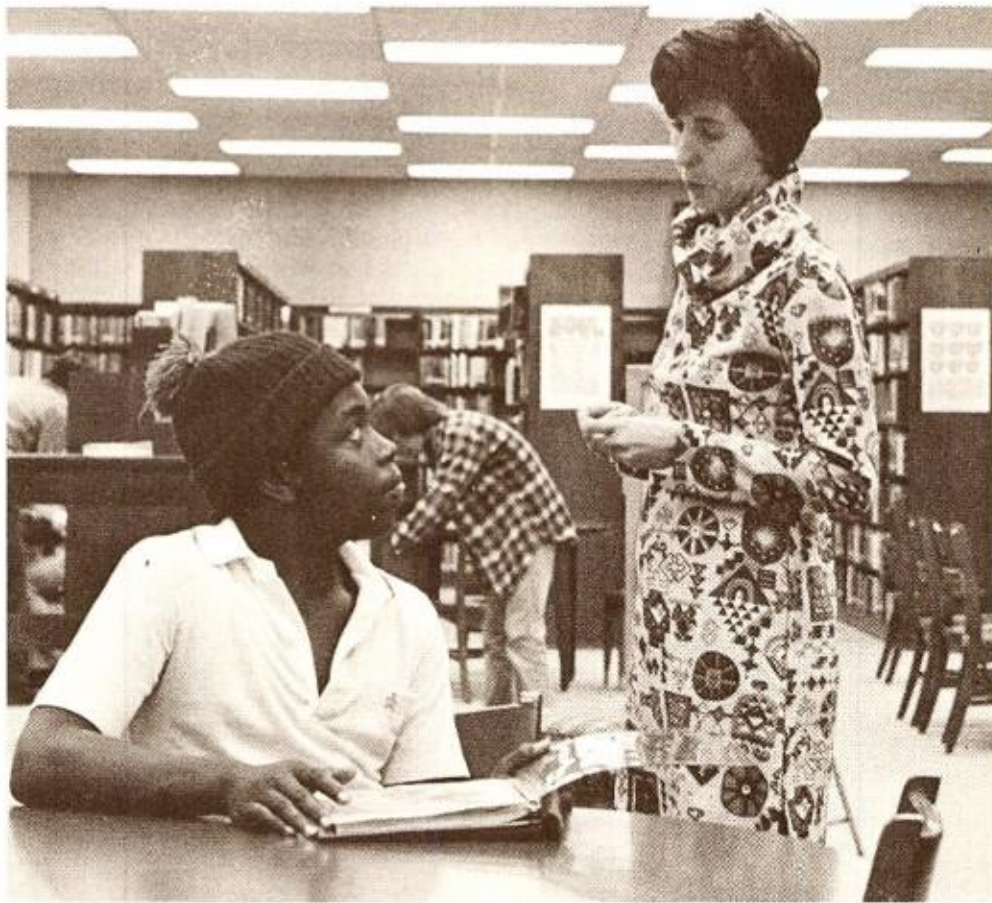

"English? Oh, you must mean Creative Writing! Sure, I take it!" Grimsley's English Department, changing with new trends, worked to excite students with their subject.

For the first time, all incoming Sophomores were allowed to enroll in the semester elective English program. Advanced Reading was added to the new familiar course list laden with a wide variety including Advanced Composition, Humanities, Literature of the Bible, and Shakespeare. For the first time, there were two classes of Advanced Placement English, and the Drama Department launched its first attempt at a big musical, South Pacific.

Many things have changed under the new curriculum, but students still found themselves faced with vocabulary lists, critical analyses, and difficult poetic passages. Under the guise of interest-capturing titles, learning went on—the traditional grammar, composition, and literature, as well as the imaginative activities that can make our English classes an enjoyable experience.

(Top) Short Story class combines smiles and frowns into a learning experience. (Above) Advanced Composition student piles books as well as concentration upon desk. (Right) Abbra-Kadabra, a scratch and a smile, makes English class seem interesting and lots more worthwhile.

Something for everyone—that's what the History Department offered this year. For students who prefer a current and conceptual Social Studies program, there were innovative semester courses with such enticing titles as Comparative World Religions and American Social Problems. Traditional survey courses in American and World History were restored for those students who favor a more conventional approach, complete with emphasis on events and dates. Along with A.P. European History, a new Advanced Placement course in American History was offered for the first time for academically talented Juniors and Seniors. To insure that GHS students would have a hand in planning future Social Studies Curricula after Thanksgiving, Department Chairman Mrs. Hutton supervised a committee in which students aired their views about future history courses.

Nights without slumber and days of whispered secrets converged into one climactic dawn that found a bevy of bleary-eyed club members scurrying purposefully across the front lawn. Like a magical morning mist, Homecoming 1973 had arrived!

Projects lovingly prepared stood in the sun for all to see. The "Whirlie Meat Market," Exchangette brainchild, was chosen number one.

The night was crisp and clear—perfect Homecoming weather. A Mother Goose mistress of ceremonies transported GHS'ers back into childhood. Anxious committee members watched plans become reality.

Carried by behind-the-scenes elves, a giant shoe took the field at halftime, soon to emit court members and escorts. Finally, the announcement so long awaited was imminent: Who would be the queen?

Kisses and hugs, shiny cars and bouquets, crown and tears—a collage of emotions stamped itself on the spectators and suddenly the climax was over. Could Homecoming 1973 have gone so soon?

Crowds, individuals, frenzy and serenity— Grimsley offers all

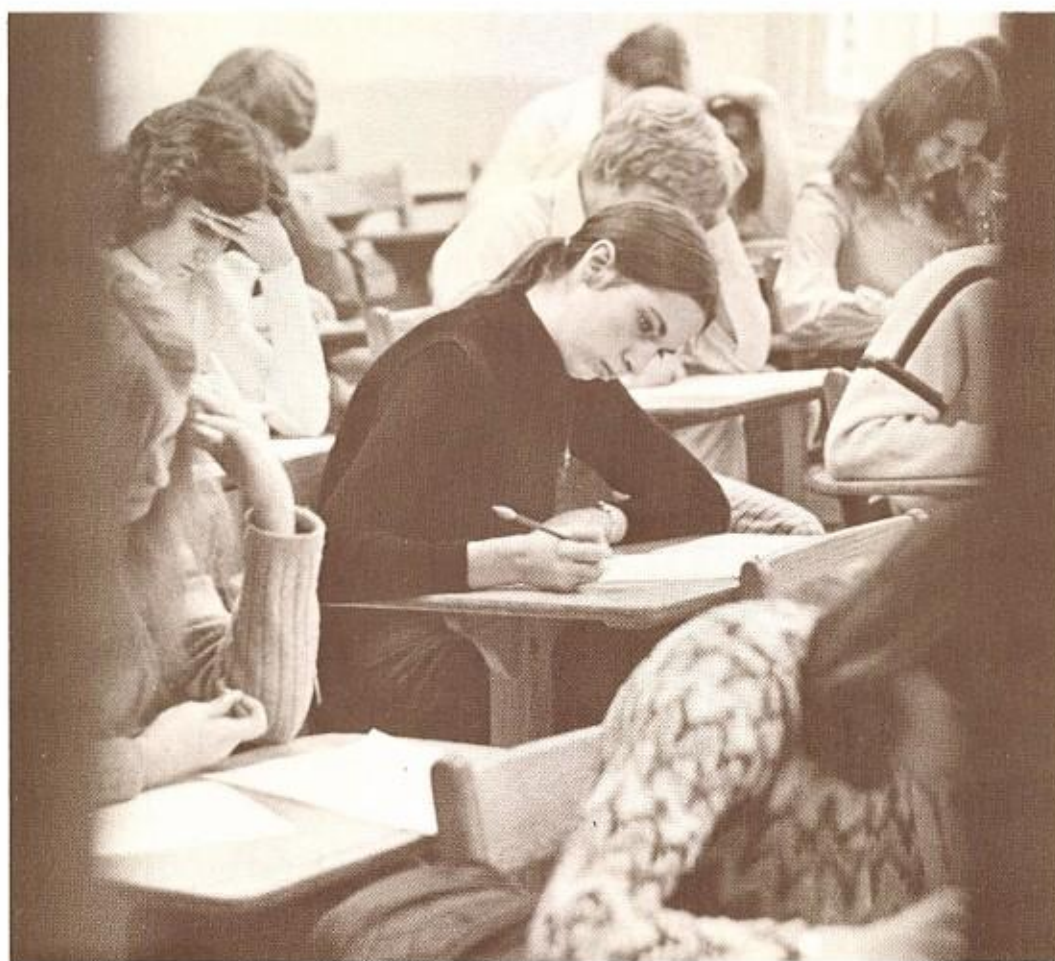

A quiet walk across the tree-lined campus, a rare but welcome break from the daily routine, the pageantry of a football half-time show—small everyday events are the essence of life at GHS. The normality of routine overtakes us, and yet, there is always the unexpected—from a mid-afternoon fire to a surprise A on a test. As the year drags on, we are often lost in piles of papers and miss the beauty of small things—the first buds of spring or a friendly smile in the midst of a sea of strange humanity.

The painful loneliness of a crowd—the comfortable self-togetherness of being alone—a myriad of moods make up the mass of students. Each face is a canvas; each body, an easel; each expression, an original of worth.

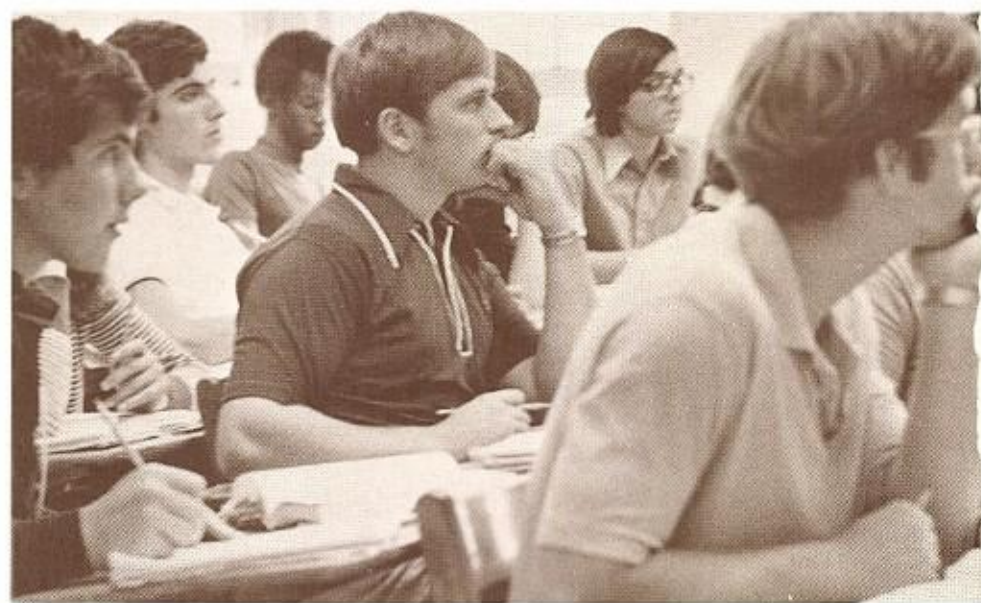

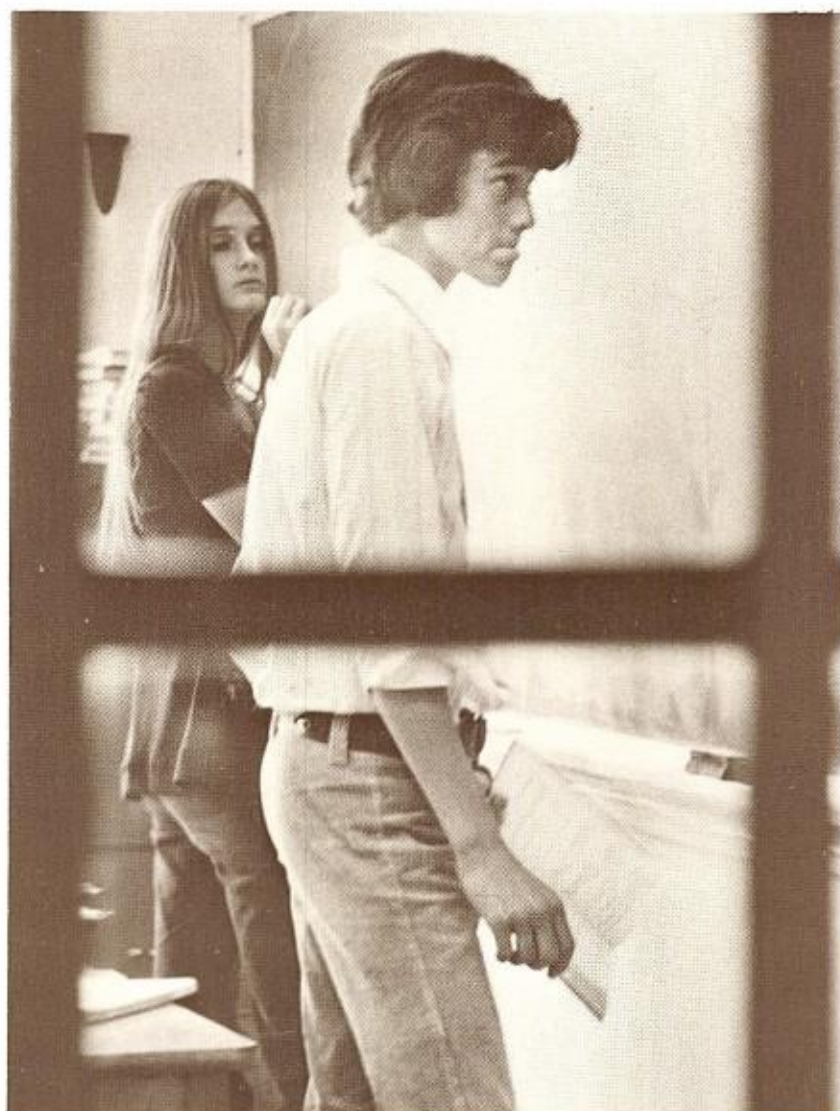

Often it takes a few days off-campus for one to realize the indelible stamp that Grimsley has etched on our souls. Whether we like it or not, we are a part of Grimsley, and it will forever be a part of us.

Befuddled minds, confused identities, and uncomplimentary relationships—characteristics of the Math Department—perpetuate the time-honored tradition that arithmetic is difficult. Mathematics is no longer one of the three “r’s”: such courses as General Math, geometry, algebra, trigonometry, calculus, Business Math, and Data Processing signal innovation and diversion from conventionality. The discriminating math student need no longer be bound by a negative approach. The broad variety allows him to select a course which is proportional to his ability. By coordinating the two—course and ability—he can better divide his time among other subjects.

The most common difference of opinion among math students lies in the subject’s applicability. Whether such things as the Perpendicular Bisector Theorem and the Ruler Placement Postulate are ultimately relevant has been a subject of constant debate. Many devoted algebra students question the practice of requiring a geometry course between Algebra I and II. Other students begin to wonder how they managed to pass basic arithmetic.

Sophomore biology sprouts into many branches

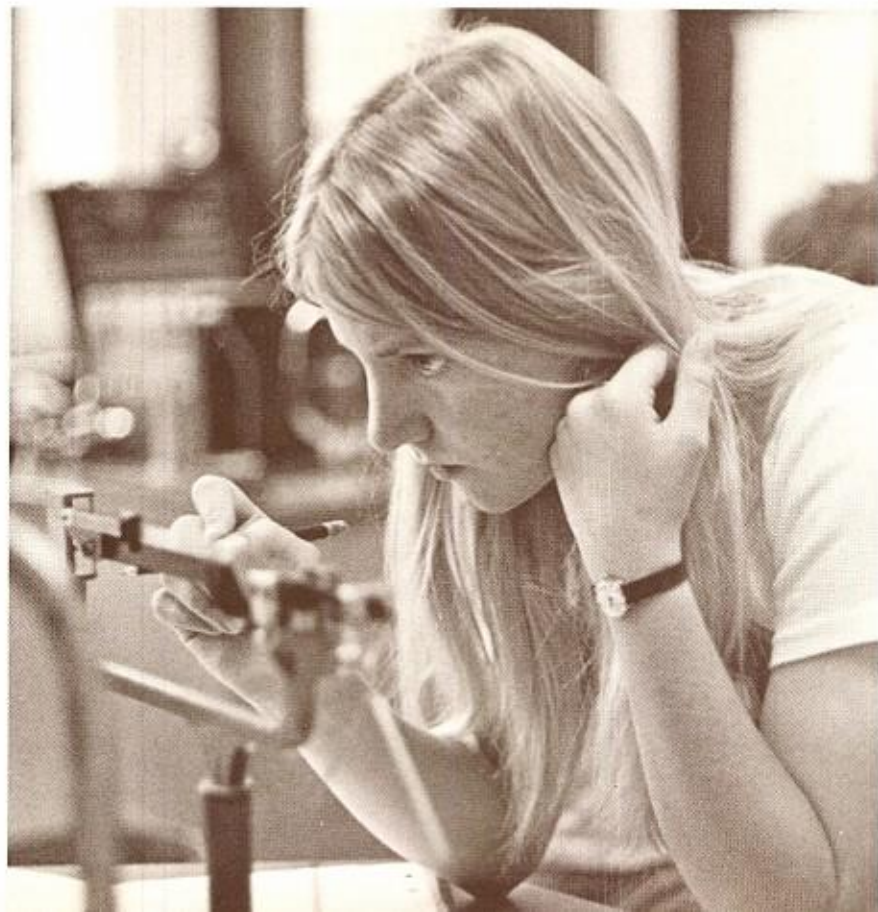

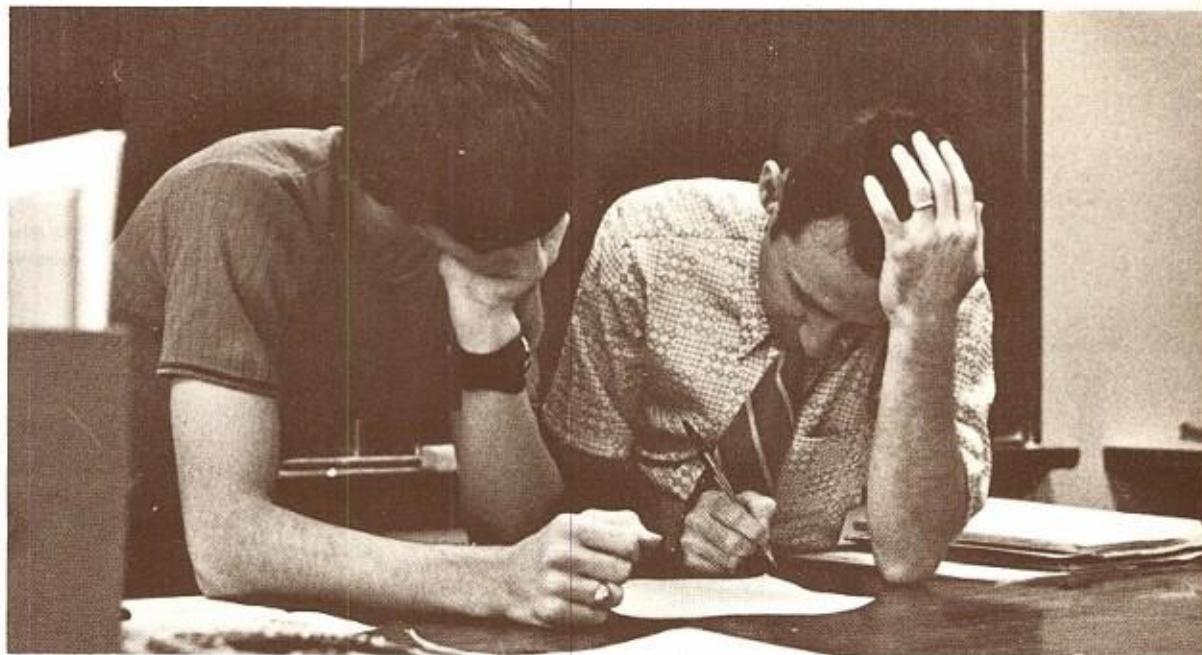

Scientific developments, technological advances, and biological discoveries necessitate increased comprehension of our changing world. Students at Grimsley have the opportunity: biology, chemistry, physics, and Advanced Biology make up a major part of the Science Department. For those interested in pursuing a post-high school scientific career, these courses offer a firm foundation.

Last year the school board announced that plans were beginning for a new science building at Grimsley. Though no building appeared, the delayed construction did not hinder science students, who were as active as ever.

Sophomores enjoyed freedom for the first time in choosing their biology classes. They were able to select two one-semester courses, an arrangement which most found satisfactory.

Chemistry students experimented with vapor pressure, naphthalene, and the law of conservation. A "right" calculation made all the other spilled solutions and torn filter paper seem unimportant.

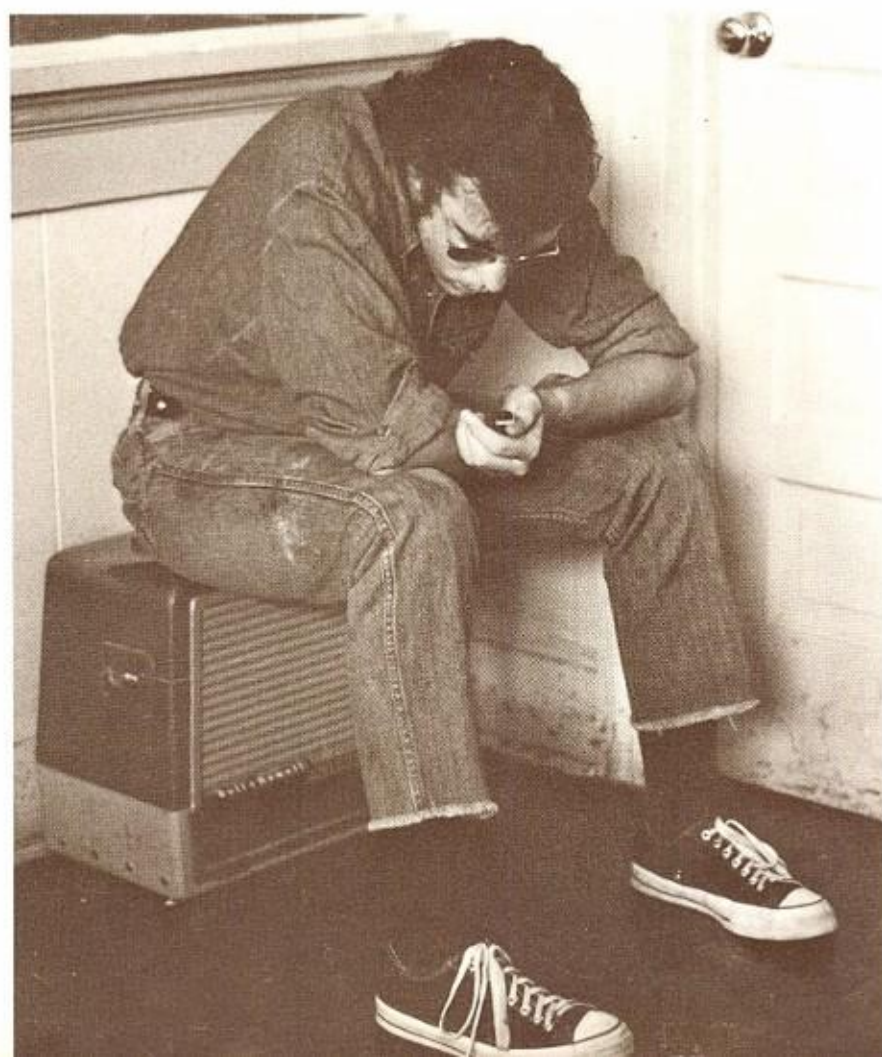

Advanced Biology was characterized by an eight-week outdoor project. Cooler weather brought the honors students indoors to report on their observations.

a mixture of activities
and happy association

Language students count pleasures of learning foreign language

"Parlez-vous francais? ¿Hablas espanol? The Grimsley Foreign Language Department helped promote international understanding by teaching students the languages and customs of other lands. French and Spanish classes thrived, while interest in classical Latin held its own. Besides the necessary drudgery of vocabulary lists and grammar drills, practice conversations, reading stories and experiencing the culture of each particular country added zest to foreign language courses. Five levels of French and Spanish and three of Latin were taught. Students in the lower levels struggled with the basics of their chosen language, while those who reached the upper levels enjoyed the literature of noted foreign authors. When difficult material brings forth complaints, teachers brightly respond, "Can you imagine the trouble the foreigners have learning English?"

Basics, babies, and boys emphasis of Home Ec program

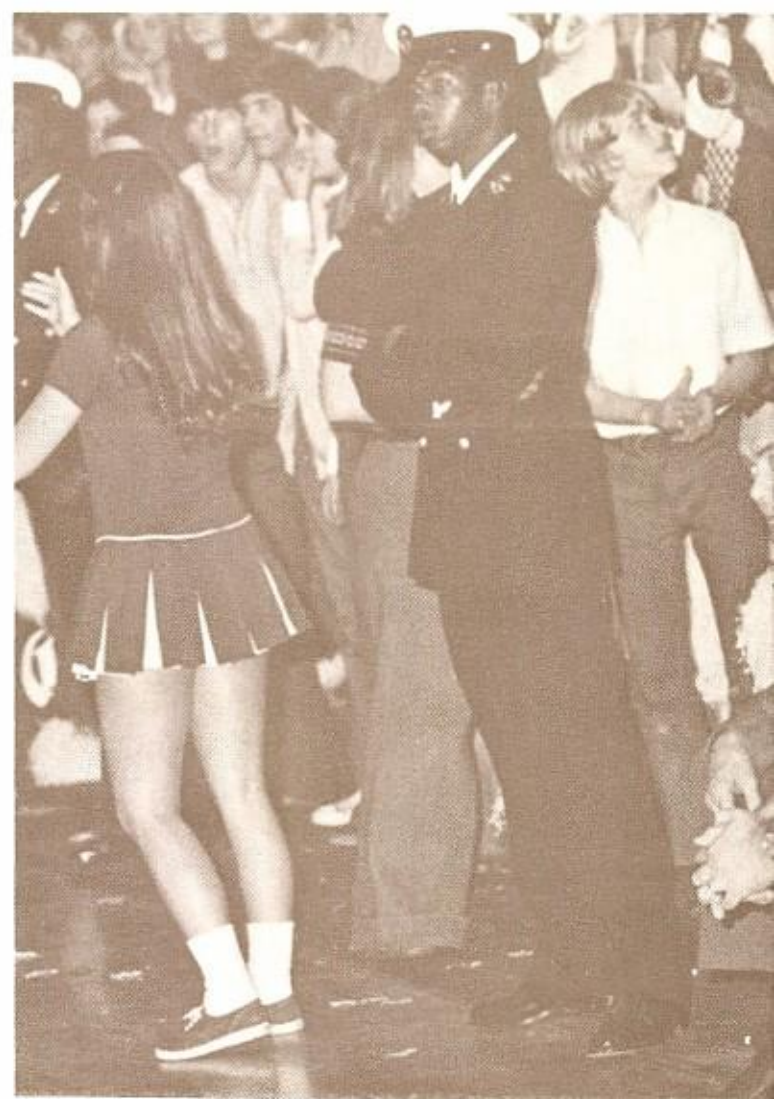

To give students practical knowledge about various domestic subjects—from the care of children to cooking nutritious meals—is the main objective of the Home Economics Department. Besides basic courses, specialized courses in clothing and foods are offered. Many girls enjoy working with the kindergarten children in Child Development and Child Care Services classes. A specially designed Home Economics course is also offered for interested boys. By teaching them basic concepts of cooking, sewing, and child care, this course proves helpful to many boys. Interpersonal Relationships is a popular course open to both boys and girls. In it, students learn to deal with everyday family situations. One of the highlights of the course is a mock wedding, designed to prepare students for future planning.

Adequate preparation for assuming the duties of caring for a home and family is important for success in later life, and the Home Economics teachers seek to teach students these vital skills.

Disguised as Spring, Winter weilded exams to control cop-outs

This year—perhaps sensing the energy shortage—Old Man Winter was lax. April showers and warm May breezes characterized a 1974 January.

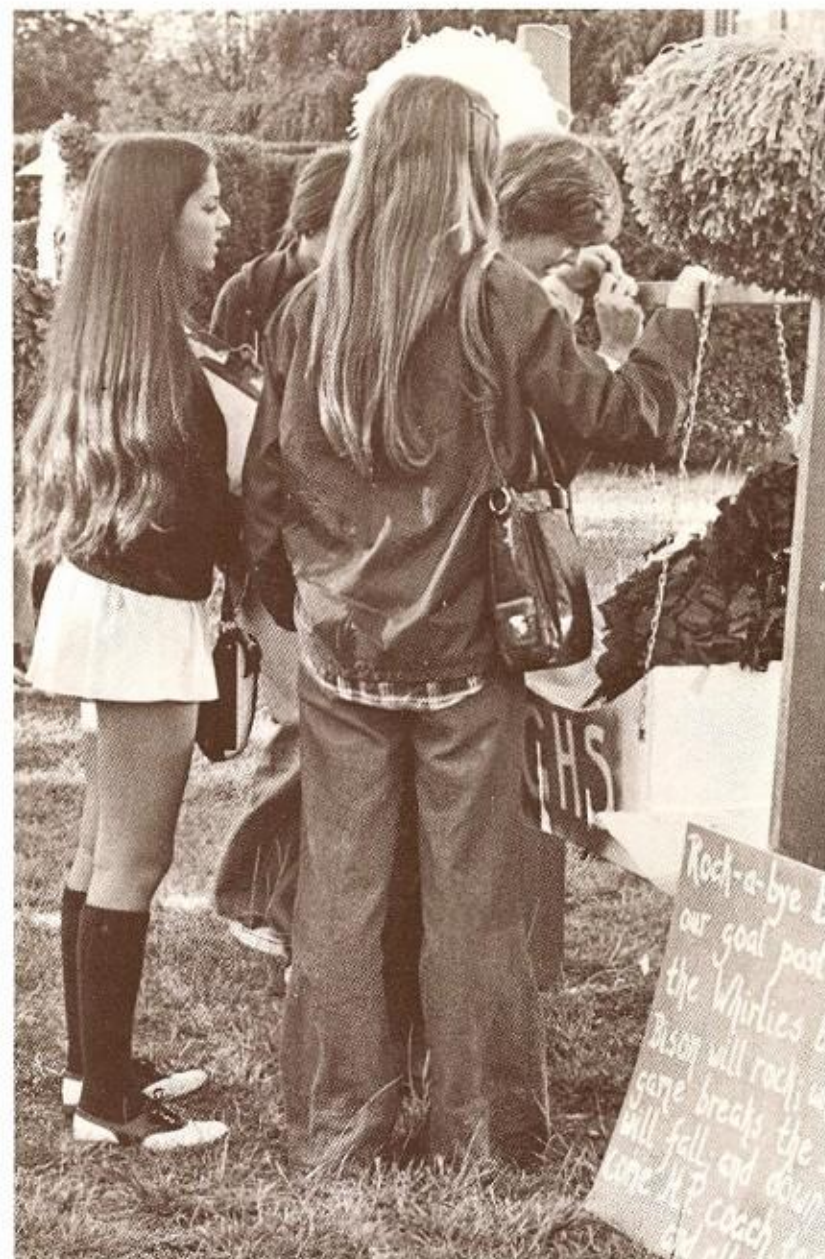

Students missed pre-Christmas school parties because of a surprise snow that lingered a full week. These days added to the ridiculed seven-day vacation proposed made most pupils (and teachers) jubilant.

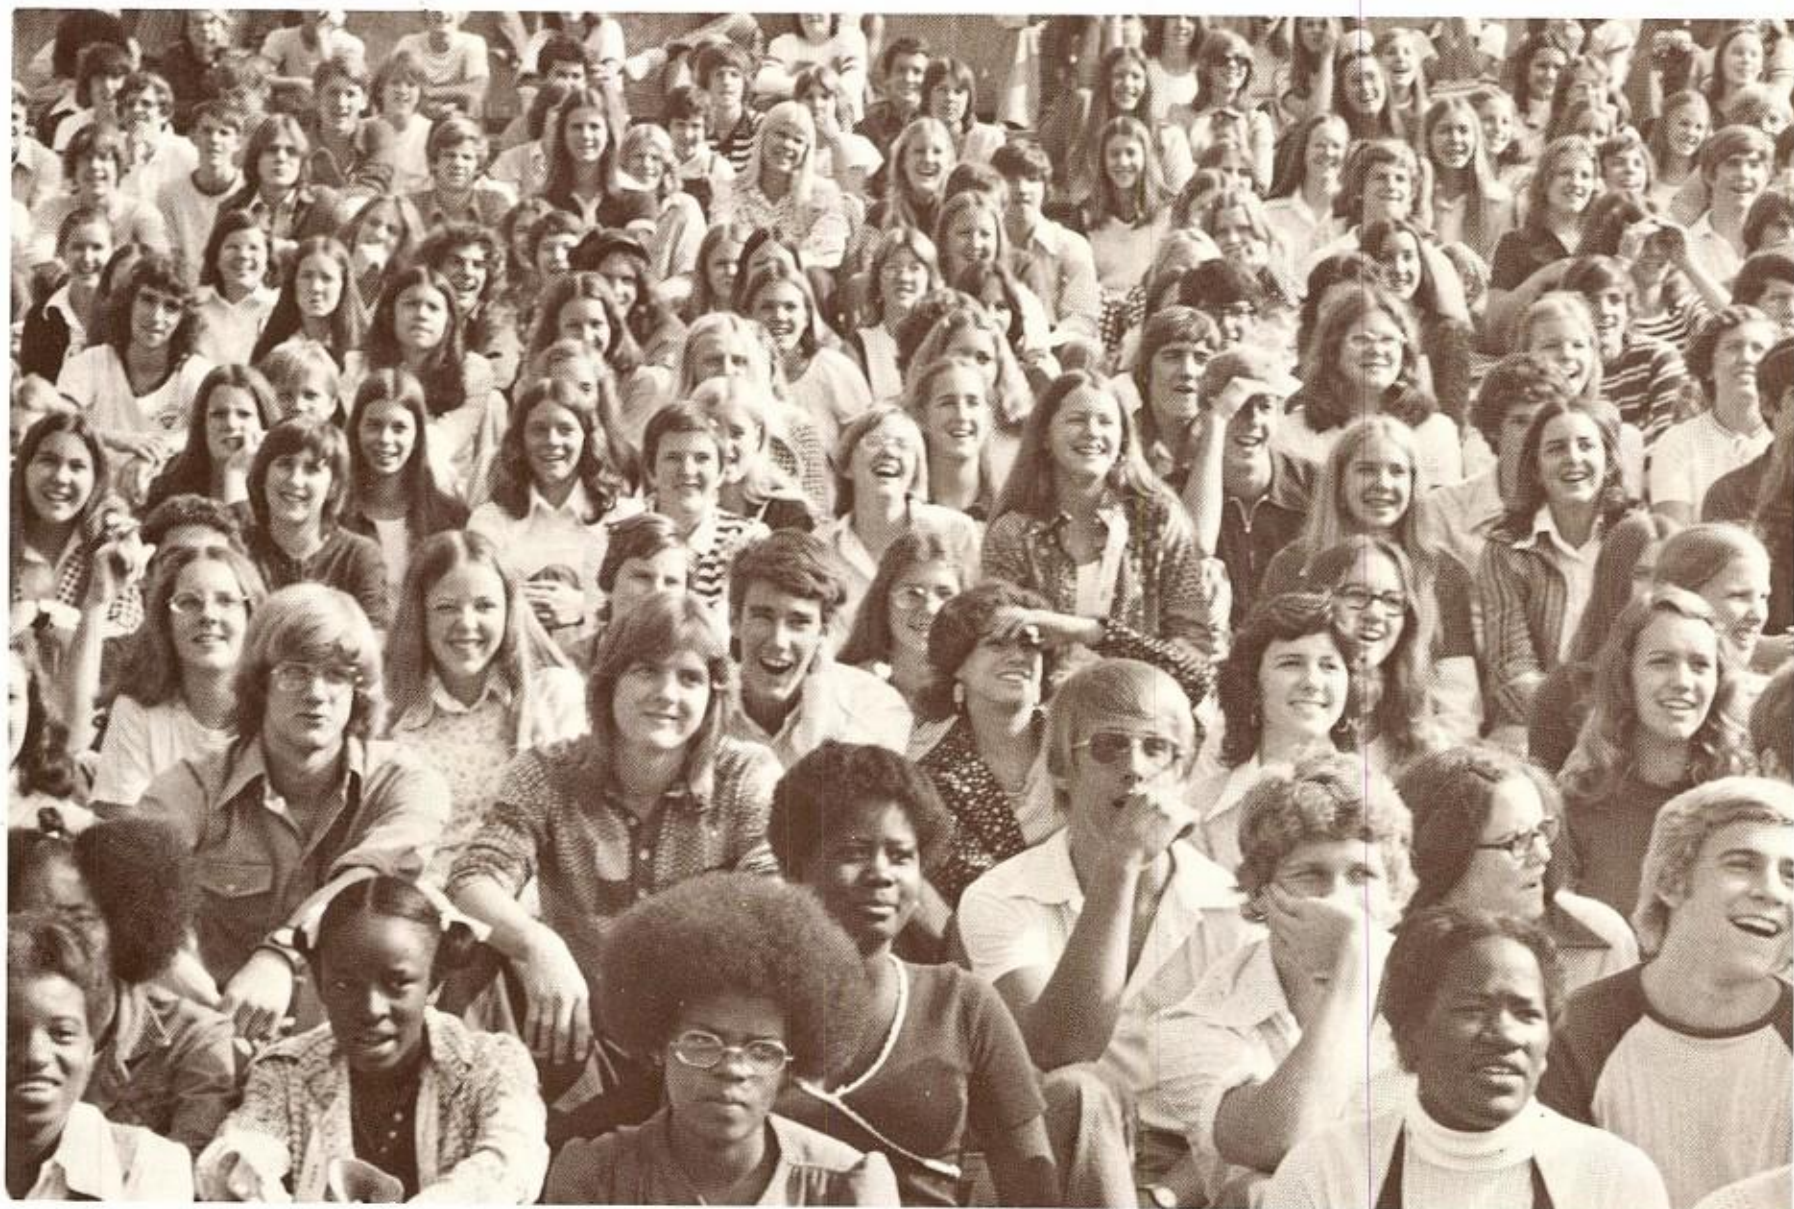

One bright spot on the winter scene, possibly because of its novelty, was registration. Confused and confident, dissatisfied and satisfied, students rushed about to have schedules filled and approved.

Pre-occupation with exams, final grades, and new courses gave way in mid-January to enthusiasm for the Whirlie basketball and wrestling teams. However, the inevitable winter slump crept through Grimsley halls, permeated classrooms, and infected intellects in epidemic proportions, and even Valentine's Day awakened few. Only Spring could cure the malady.

School spirit . . . attempt to define it, and it alludes you. Try to destroy it, and it seethes and multiplies until it absorbs you. Endeavor to boost it, and often it becomes invisible.

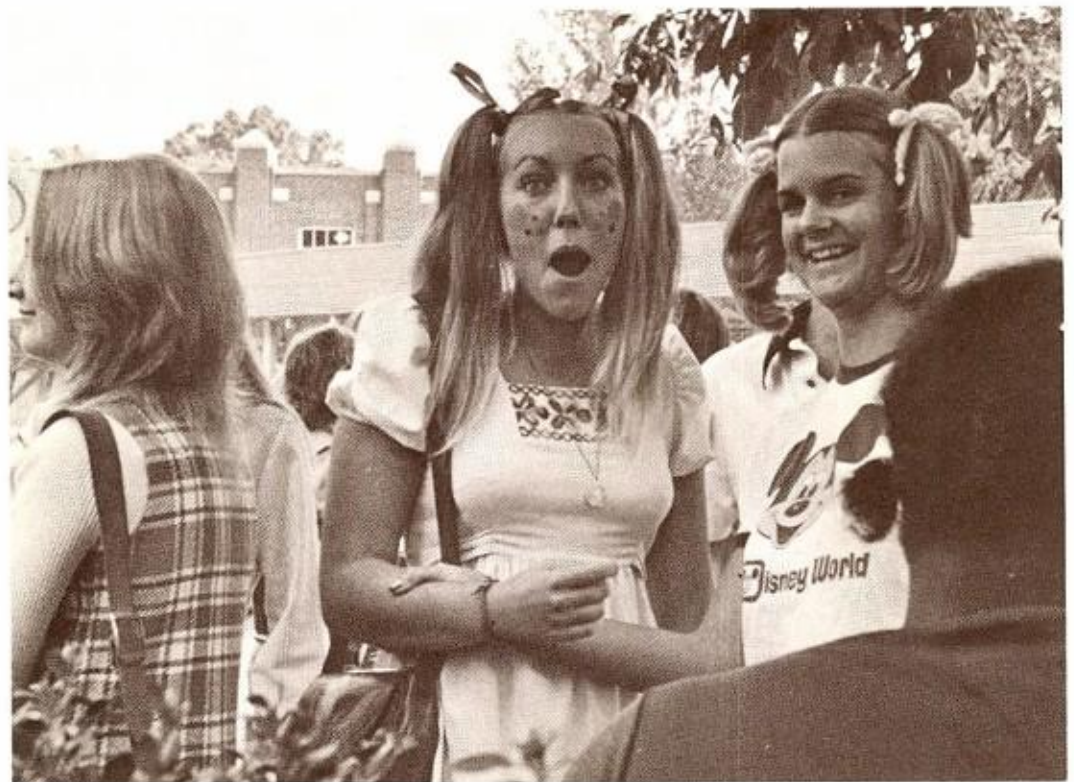

What entails school spirit ranges from private prejudice to mass hysteria. A teacher buys a ribbon and wears it all week, an administrator proudly announces a key win over the speaker; a cheerleader awakens on Saturday minus her voice; a student uses his last dollar to go to an away game; an athlete "pays the price" of finishing the season with the team, regardless of the win-loss column; a father gives up "Monday Night Football" to attend a PTSA meeting on capital improvement to the campus.

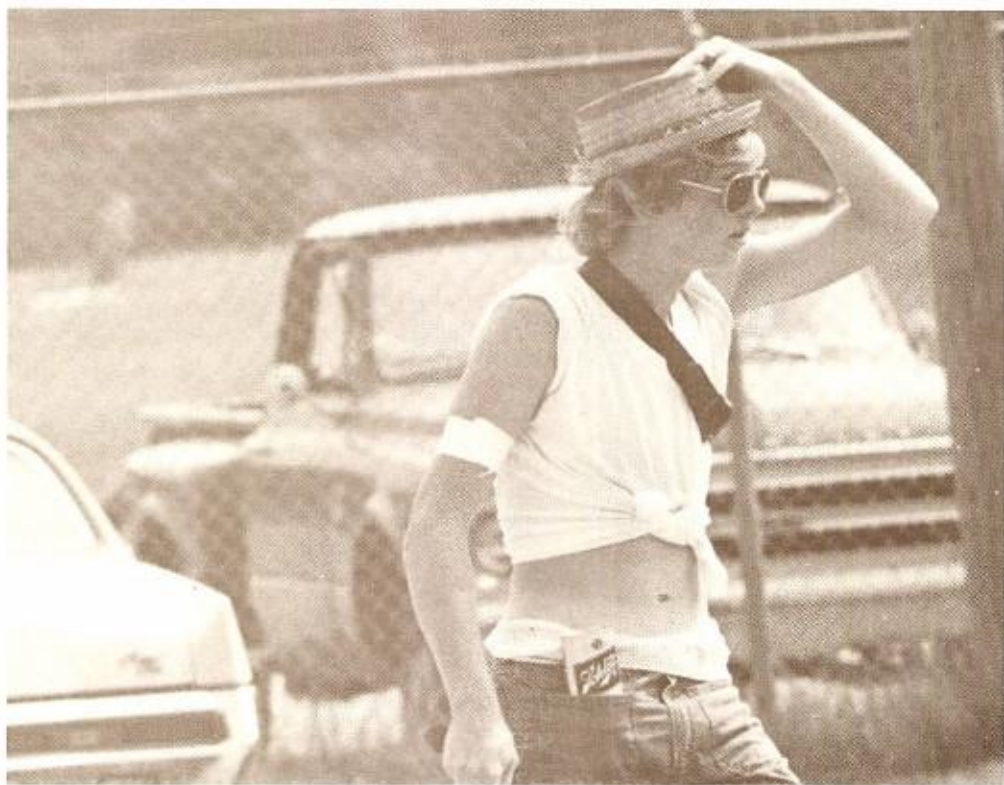

Perhaps the subtlest, yet strongest, spirit emerges from the least likely quarters—an editorial in HIGH LIFE, neatly-tended plot, more trash in cans.

Personal pride, group loyalty, mass togetherness blend into one assertion: "We think Grimsley is the greatest!"

A limbo of lethargy engulfs the masses: mid-semester blues

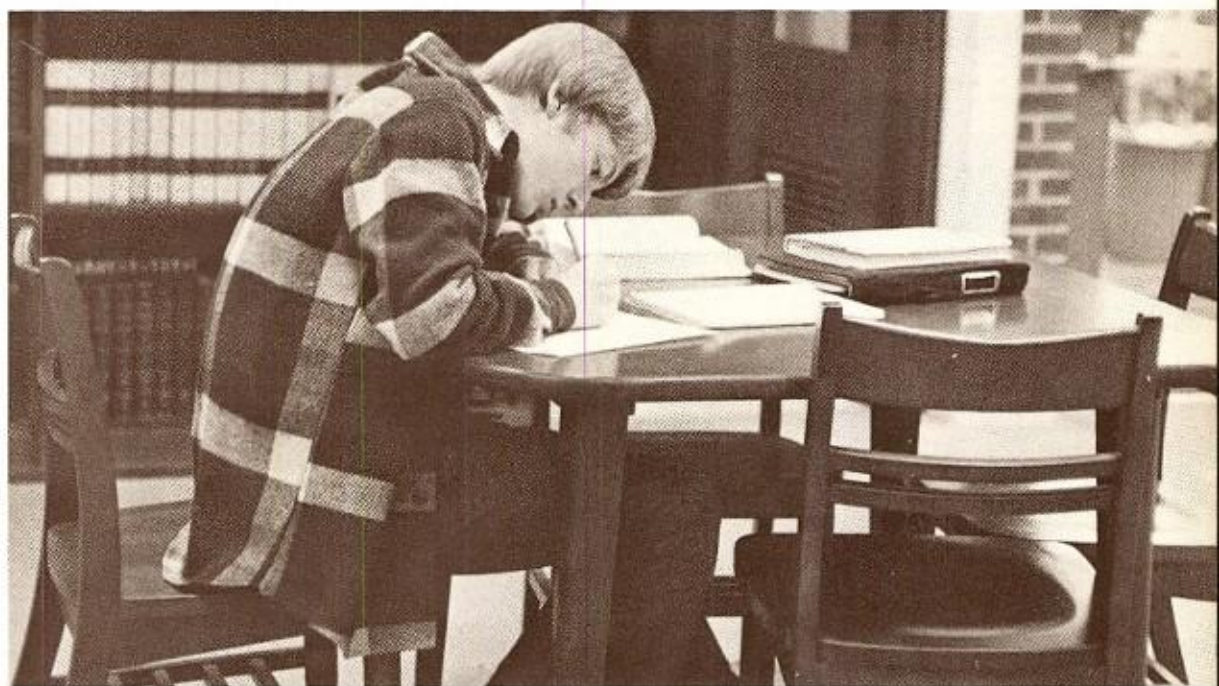

The icy chill of winter begins to abate near the beginning of March. All over the campus, tender green buds burst out, heralding the start of the new season. Life at Grimsley begins the slow shift from hibernating in warm buildings to congregating on the sun-drenched grounds. Another harbinger of spring, the gym closes its doors to the last bounding basketball, while spring track runners can again be seen sprinting around the stadium track. The atmosphere is particularly poignant for Seniors. This is the last leg of their high school days, and admissions news elates or dejects college-bound students.

The end of the year is at last in sight, but its very proximity makes it seem too far away. The first warm breezes blow in an infectious yearning to be outside, and teachers find it more and more difficult to keep a class interested in academic matters. A new excitement invades the air—that indefinable essence that is Spring.

Music building—a ragbag of stripes, strips, and patches of melody

Musically-inclined students found Grimsley's Music Department a haven for the cultivation of their varied talents. Mr. Hazelman and his staff instructed the various bands, while Mr. Hill and Miss Force led the choral groups to another successful round of performances. This year's Marching Band showed its proficiency at football half-times and many went on to participate in the basketball seasons's Pep Band. Many concerts were on the datebooks of music students. Playing in clinics was one of the activities of the bands, while the Choir and choral groups sang for various church groups and social activities.

A new and very successful project launched by the Music Department was the musical production South Pacific. A specially selected 25-piece orchestra played professionally, as other music students performed on stage.

Diversity of art media produces creative variety from art students

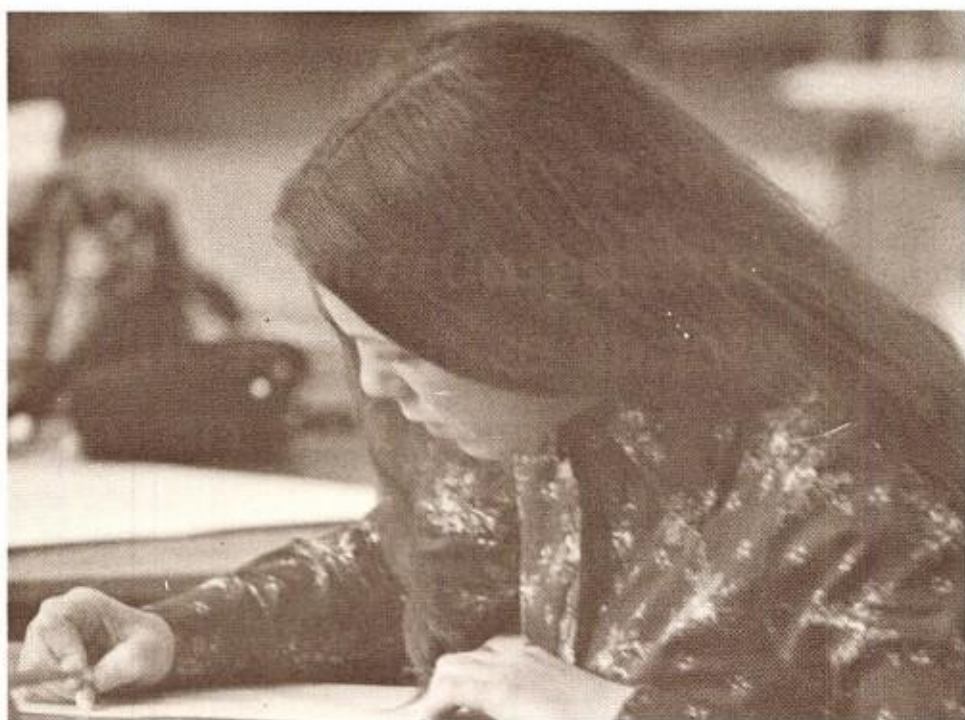

Art and Technical Drafting offer a great opportunity for students to express themselves creatively. Four levels are taught, higher level students experimenting more freely. The relaxed creative atmosphere of the art classroom is a welcome oasis for those who enjoy art. The training in self-expression that the art curriculum offers is helpful to all, not just the future artist.

Under the careful instruction of Mr. Darnell, drafting students can also design imaginative original creation. Armed with the traditional craftsmen's tools—paper and pencil, a triangle and a T-square—a student may create a form for something as simple as a cabinet or as complex as a complete house.

In the Art and Drafting Departments, one has the pleasure of concrete creation and formation of an extension of oneself.

The greatest hazard in a car is the driver

Undetected by the uninvolved, unheralded heroes participate in an uninhibited duty with probable undisclosed problems. The unsung heroes undertake responsibilities which endanger their own lives, yet they are undaunted because of the ultimate good they hope to engender in their students. For the uninitiated few, these men of courage are more commonly known as Driver's Ed. teachers.

Somehow, in spite of panic-stricken shaking novices and overconfident speed demons, every year a new crop of competent(?) drivers is unleashed onto the road. In the classroom segment of the course, Sophomores learn the techniques and laws of successful driving, hoping later to apply them in actual driving experience under the watchful eye and ready brake of their teacher. The final test of their mastery of the course comes when each tries for his license!

Energy is nurtured while stamina is tested in Phys. Ed.

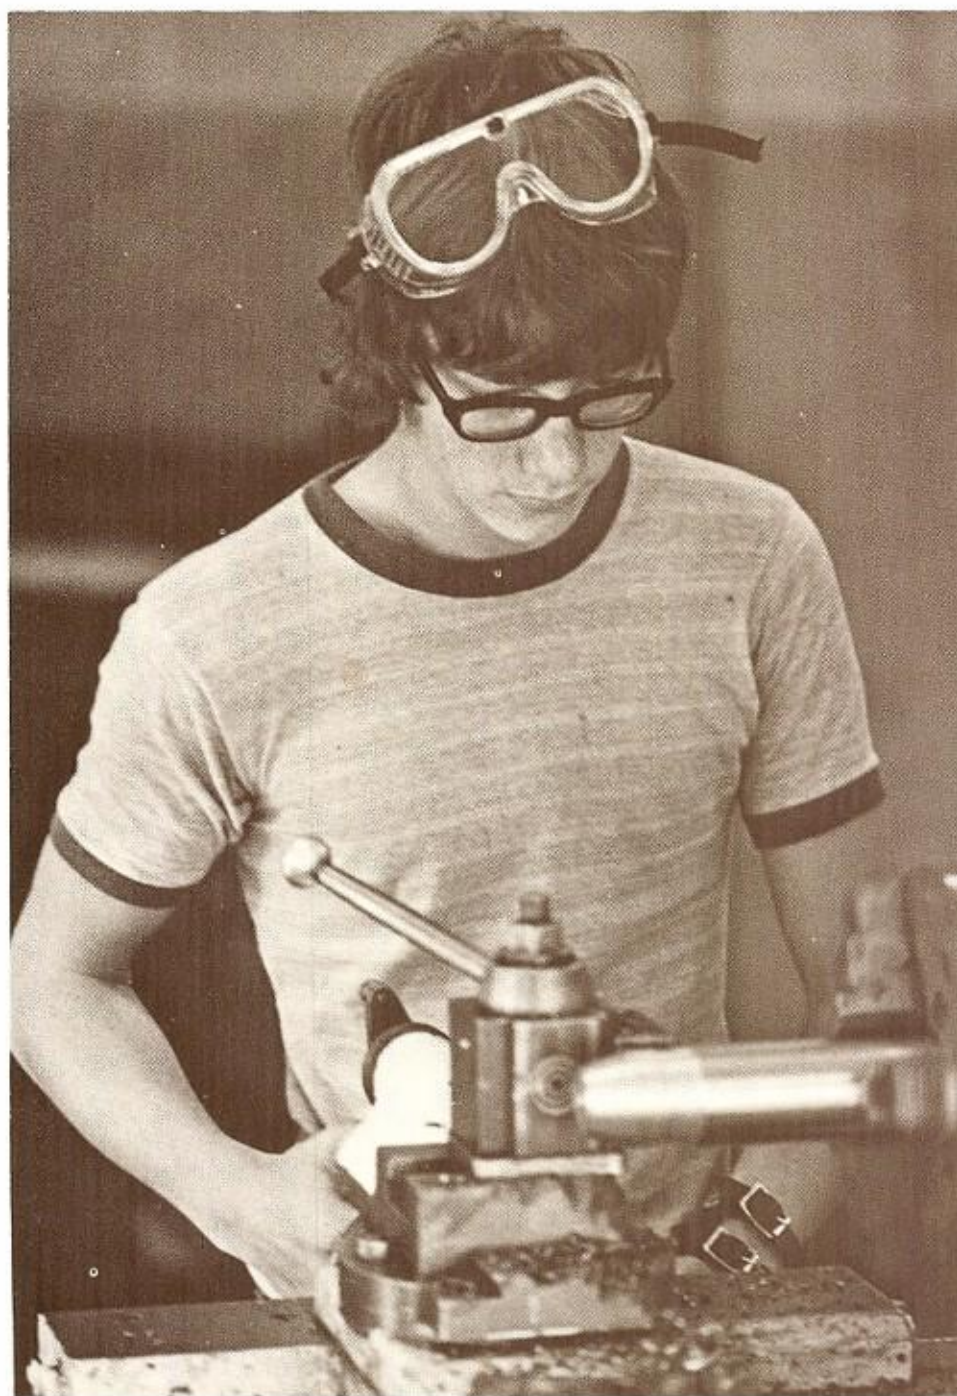

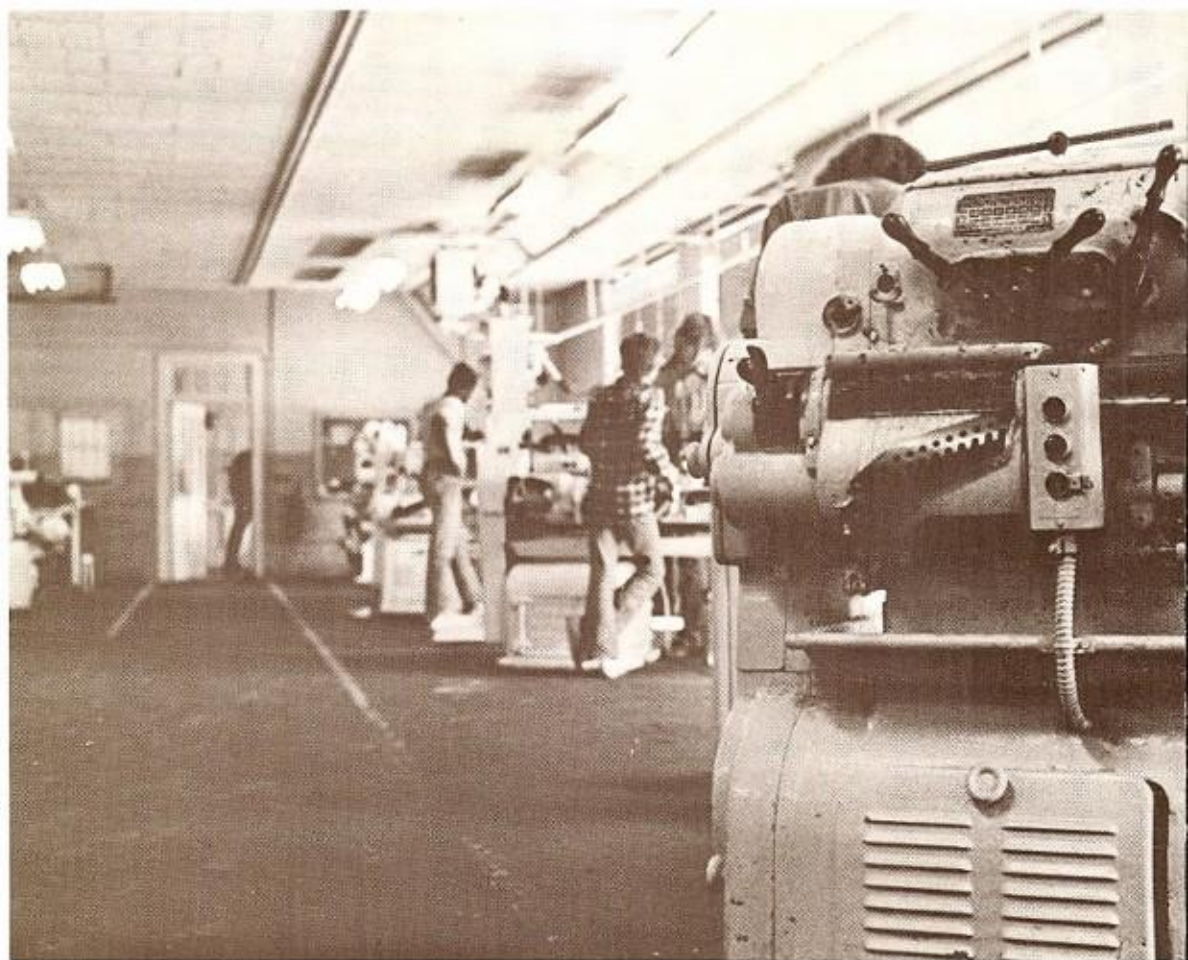

To those for which it is required, it is often a task; for those who are genuinely interested, it is usually a challenge. A psychological haven, Physical Education is often the bright spot in the day of a young person who is not academically oriented, and a bitter pill for someone who glides with ease through the books. Unusually large classes and close proximity of students, though conducive to skirmishes, provide a unique opportunity for people of diverse backgrounds to get to know and understand each other more deeply.

Outdoor activity on bitter days, frantic daily showers, sore muscles, and the frustration of defeat teach the student lessons about himself and his personal stamina that he would otherwise never learn. Perhaps one of the most profitable aspects of Physical Education is that it provides students a time to have fun while expending pent-up energy. Offering constructive competition, teamwork, and individualized progression, Physical Education promises rewards to those who persevere.

Readying workers of future is main object of vocational area

Deviating from the strictly academic world, Grimsley's Vocational Education Department offers opportunities for boys and girls to train for jobs. In the areas of machine shop, mechanics, electronics, and woodworking, students learn principles and concepts which they apply in actual construction projects. Safe and proper handling of tools is emphasized. Boys profit from the practical experience in their chosen field, as well as the responsibility and disciplined dedication that this course of study demands. For the first time girls were initiated to the occupational shops with the formation of a special electronic course.

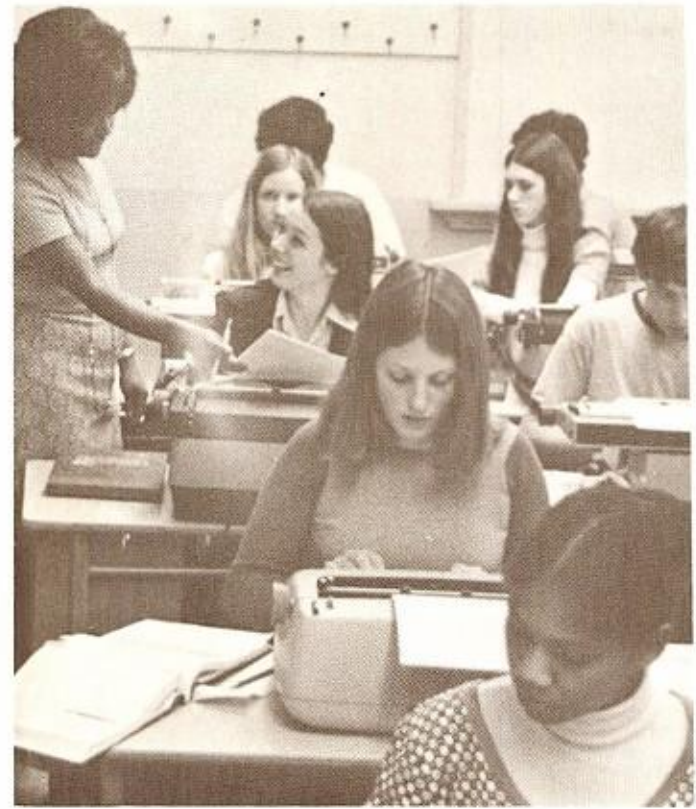

Meanwhile, Cooperative Occupational Education, Distributive Education, Industrial Cooperative Training, and Cooperative Office Occupations programs help place students in part-time working positions during afternoon hours. Morning hours include courses that stress aspects of the working world important to the vocationally-oriented student.

Business classes focus on typing and notehand skills

Entering the top floor of the cafeteria building, the stronghold of the Business Department, one is immediately overwhelmed by the sharp click-click of busy typewriters. It is not the only subject taught there; other students are busy learning the principles of shorthand, bookkeeping, and business law. These courses prepare students for work in the business world or simply successful production of college papers. Working the co-operative programs, many business students put their newly-acquired skills into immediate use. They may choose to work with general office or specific secretarial techniques. The Business Department certainly teaches students relevant, applicable skills.

The Senior Prom: cherished memories of
a night to remember

A school year nears its end. Special things have happened for a favored few; now something special happens for the masses. Anticipated with eagerness, the time of this occurrence has arrived. The prom, highlight of many a senior's social experience, has been planned in detail, and the impatience of prospective prom-goers is soon to be rewarded.

To relieve the intensity of this evening—to recreate its magic and dazzle—will be impossible. The ecstasy—indeed, the wonder of being with someone special enlivens the atmosphere. The simplest trifle makes a profound impression. When the prom is over, the glitter forgotten, these trifles remain to give rich detail to retrospection.

Transposed into exuberant oral accounts, these memories tend to fascinate the listeners, kindle their desires, and send them eagerly to proms in future years. So as the cycle continues, the prom remains a prospect which prompts Sophomores to gasp, "If only . . .," Juniors to pronounce with determination, "Probably next year . . .," and Seniors to muse with contentment, "What a night!"

Blown in unwillingly, Spring slowly, shyly sank its tender tendrils deep into the perennial mud for a firmer foothold. Meanwhile, she stretched out tantalizing tentacles, invisible but strong, that encircled every mind, no matter how intellectually or vocationally inclined.

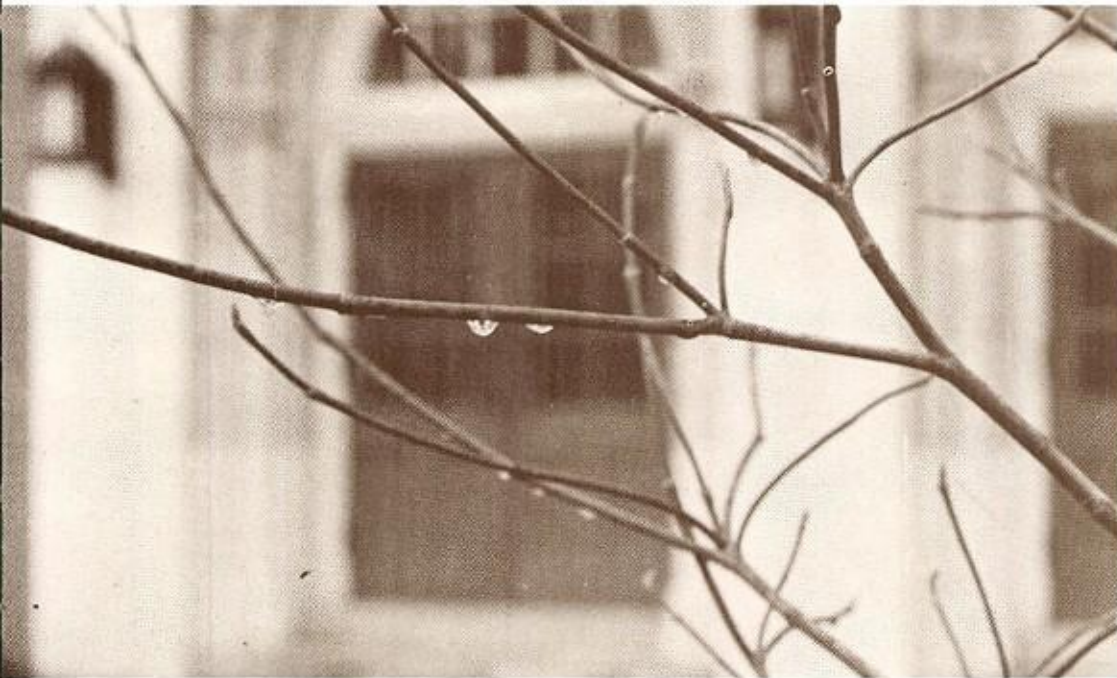

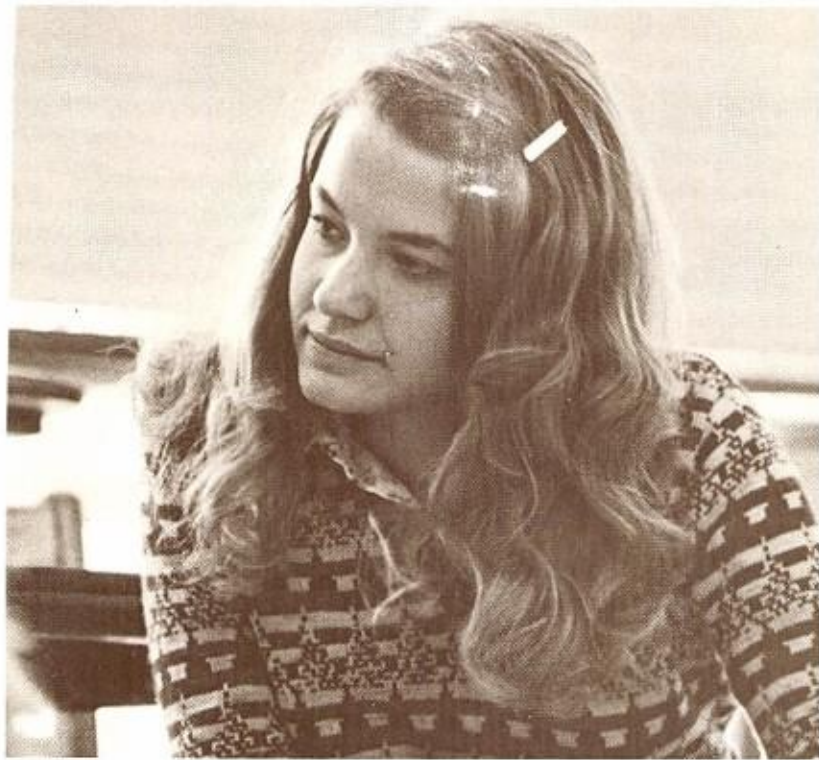

After months of agonizing anticipation, Spring came, and with it swept in Graduation, the impact of which was never really felt by many Seniors, so lost were they in their immediate individual emotions. It came and went too quickly, for there were so many words to be said, so many promises to be vowed, so many pictures to be taken, so many memories to be etched on meditative minds. For the first time in twelve years, the days raced by far too rapidly.

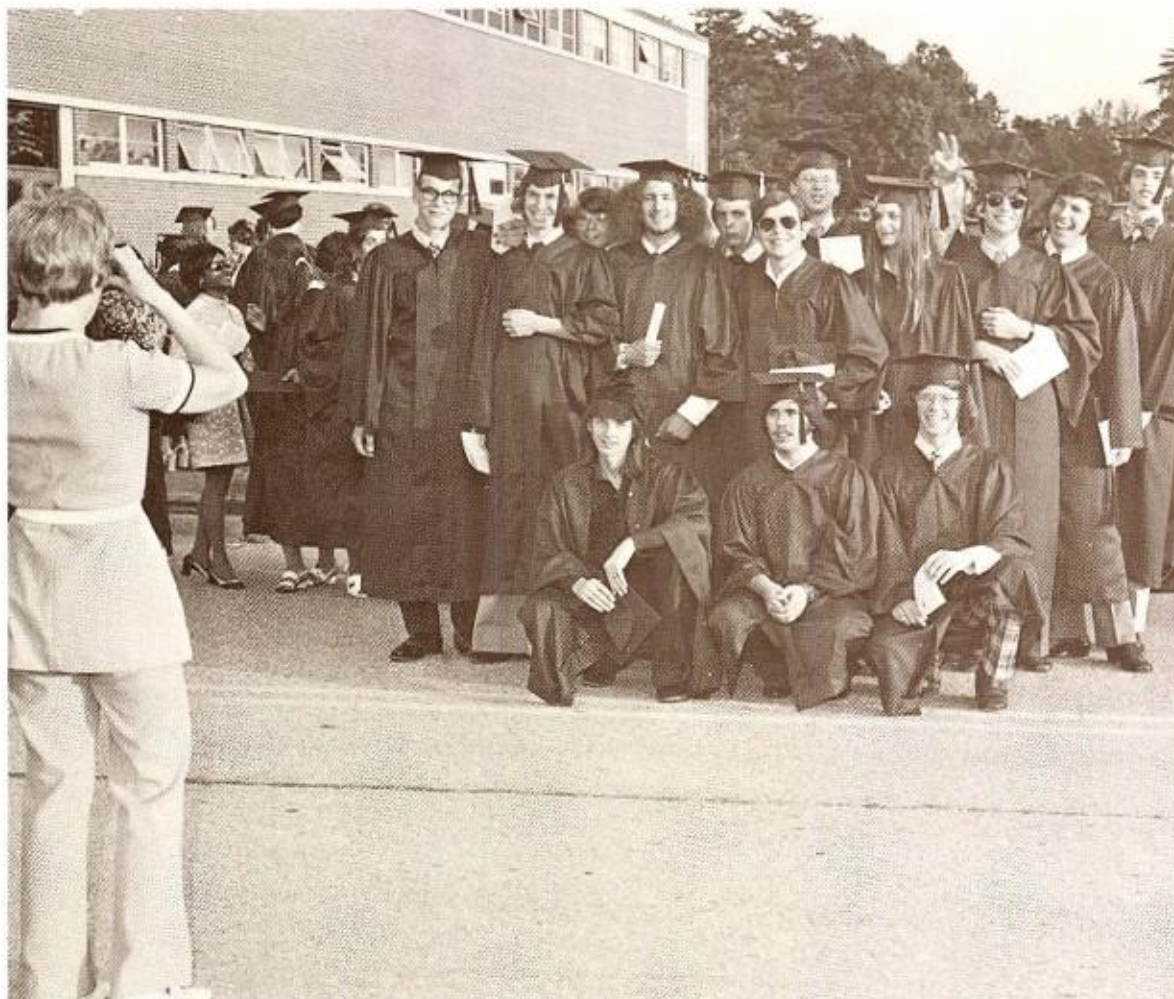

We came to GHS believing that this year, though similar to others before it, would in reality be quite different. In retrospect, we recognized that diversity began and ended within our own beings.

Years of drudgery and wonder culminate in moments of ecstasy

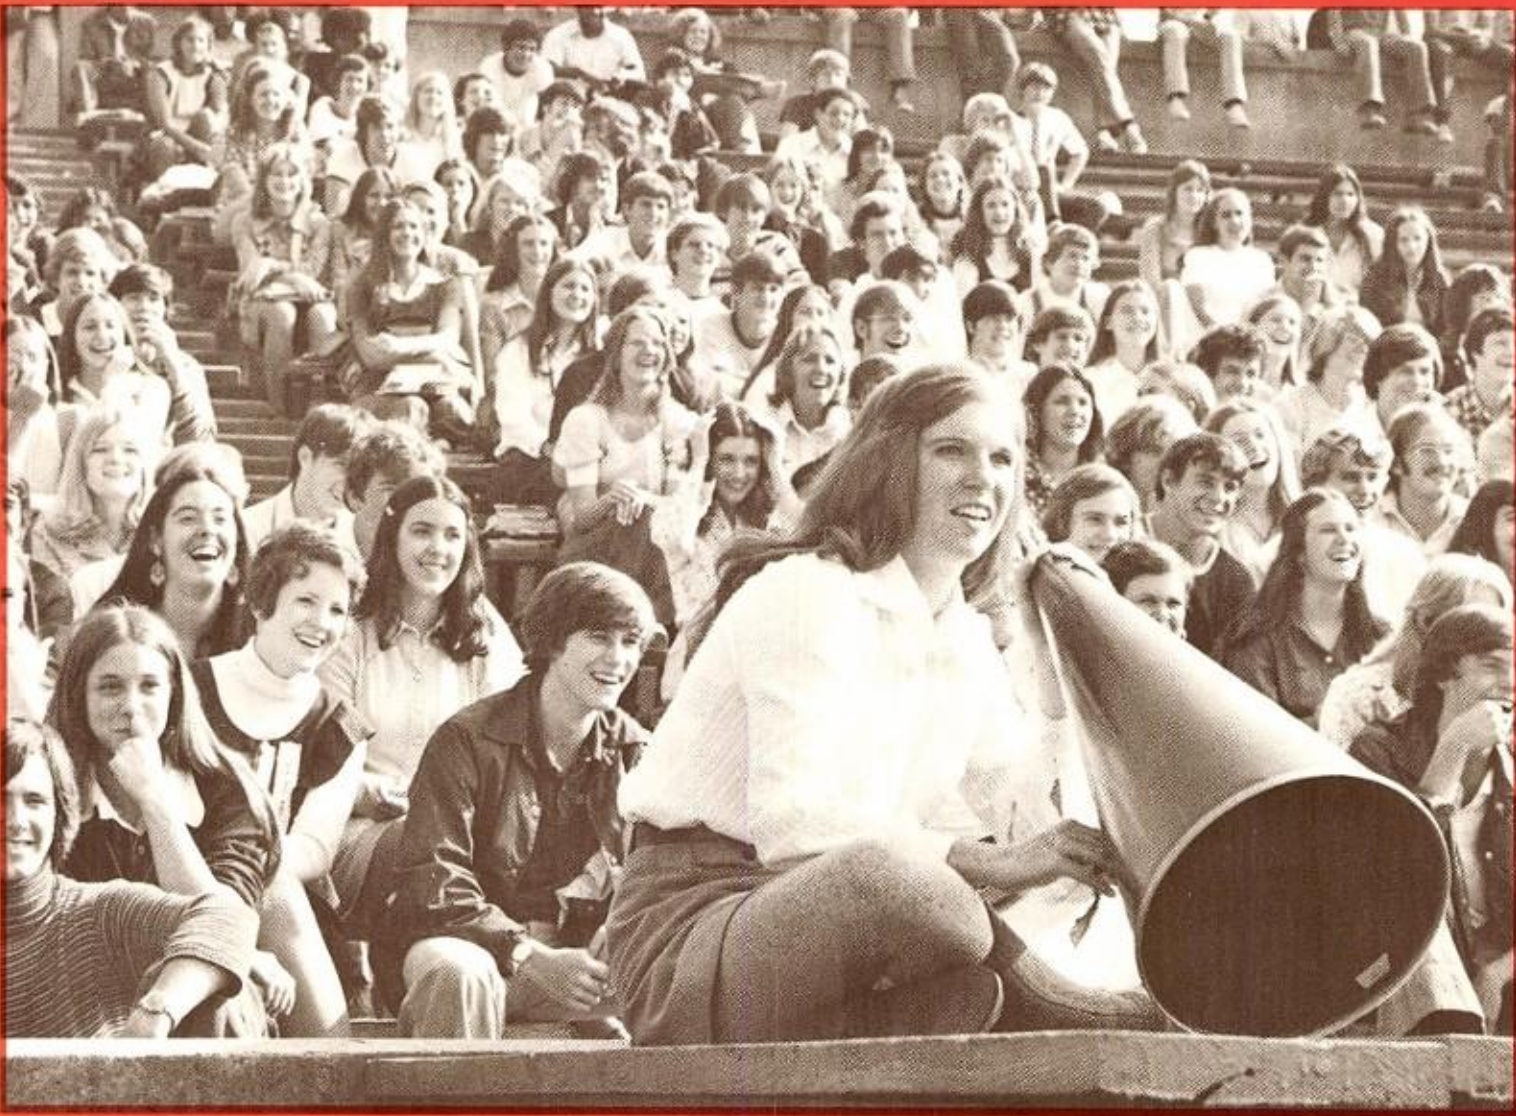

Twelve long years of unrelenting work and it was all over in about an hour. An excess of research papers, math problems, and assorted busywork lay behind each student. The triumphant culmination of the Class of '73's high school experience was both a solemn and a joyful occasion.

To the traditional strains of "Pomp and Circumstance," Seniors paraded into the gym robed in dark blue academic gowns. Proud parents, relatives, and friends filled the stands to witness the annual spectacle. This year individual faces, blue jeans under robes, and other modern trends in evidence added a special unique touch to the custom of the ceremony.

The soon-to-be graduates listened impatiently to the proceedings. After an address by School Board Chairman Al Lineberry, Assistant Superintendent Thorpe Jones handed out the long-awaited document—a diploma—that glorified piece of paper, symbolic of numerous tests and homework assignments, but more important, symbolic of a lot of growing up.

Branching out to school clubs, organizations, and athletics, we drew spirit and enjoyment from the roots of involvement.

ORGANIZATIONS

Successful projects characterize Student Council affairs

The GHS Student Council, led by Glen Macdonald, managed to cope with student complaints and find solutions. With the excitement and confusion of elections behind them, the Council began to work on their projects for the year. The Thanksgiving project, Homecoming, and the Prom were all successes. In November, Council members went to Gastonia for the state convention and brought back many good ideas.

This year Student Affairs became a part of the Council and continued its major objective of promoting better student-faculty relations. Under the guidance of their advisor Miss Roland, Student Affairs sponsored such projects as Student Exchange Day and Student-Faculty Relations Day.

Shaver and Kaplan co-chair YRC social events plans

Behind the scenes of Grimsley's successful dances, members of the Youth Recreation Council planned a theme for each dance and decorated the gym to create the proper atmosphere. They also publicized each dance and sold tickets.

YRC's projects were capably engineered by co-chairmen Randy Kaplan and Mike Shaver. A Homecoming Dance and several dances for parents of Grimsley students were only a few of the social events sponsored by YRC. A variety of intramural programs was also planned by this busy, hard-working group. Throughout the year, YRC worked to involve students in school social life.

Inductions and Talent Show make full calendar year for Torchlight

Picked for their outstanding scholarship, leadership, character, and service, the members of the National Honor Society can be proud to belong to this organization. At the fall induction, twenty new members were tapped. The new members received a traditional handshake and a white carnation, symbolic of their acceptance into Torchlight.

Additional Juniors and Seniors were tapped in the spring. Springtime also brought the annual Talent Show to the calendars of Torchlight members. From the proceeds of the show, Torchlight was able to award a scholarship to a deserving applicant.

The Energy Crisis affects concert tours of Symphony Band

Mr. Hazelman taps his baton and the musicians of Symphony Band attentively sit up. With a signal from the conductor, the rich tones of symphony music rise from the stage. At the close of the piece, the audience bursts into thunderous applause.

The Symphony Band presented five evening concerts in 1973-74. A memorial concert by the band in conjunction with the choir was presented in honor of Mr. Thomas Cousins. Because of the shortage of gas, no tours were planned for this year.

Concert, Stage, and Marching bands show versatility and precision

The Concert Band, directed by Mr. Edgar Rooker, performed impressively in six public concerts. Their versatility and quality performance, characterized by such variety as "Bach Rock" and "Introduction and Caprice," brought this band an invitation to perform in January for the Music Clinic held by North Carolina Bandmasters' Association in the Grimsley auditorium.

The Stage Band also participated in many concerts and community events. In addition to the usual evening concerts with the Symphony and Concert Bands, the Stage Band entertained various groups at the opening of the new Sears Department Store, the United Fund "kick-off luncheon," a Kiwanis Club meeting, school assemblies, and PTSA dances.

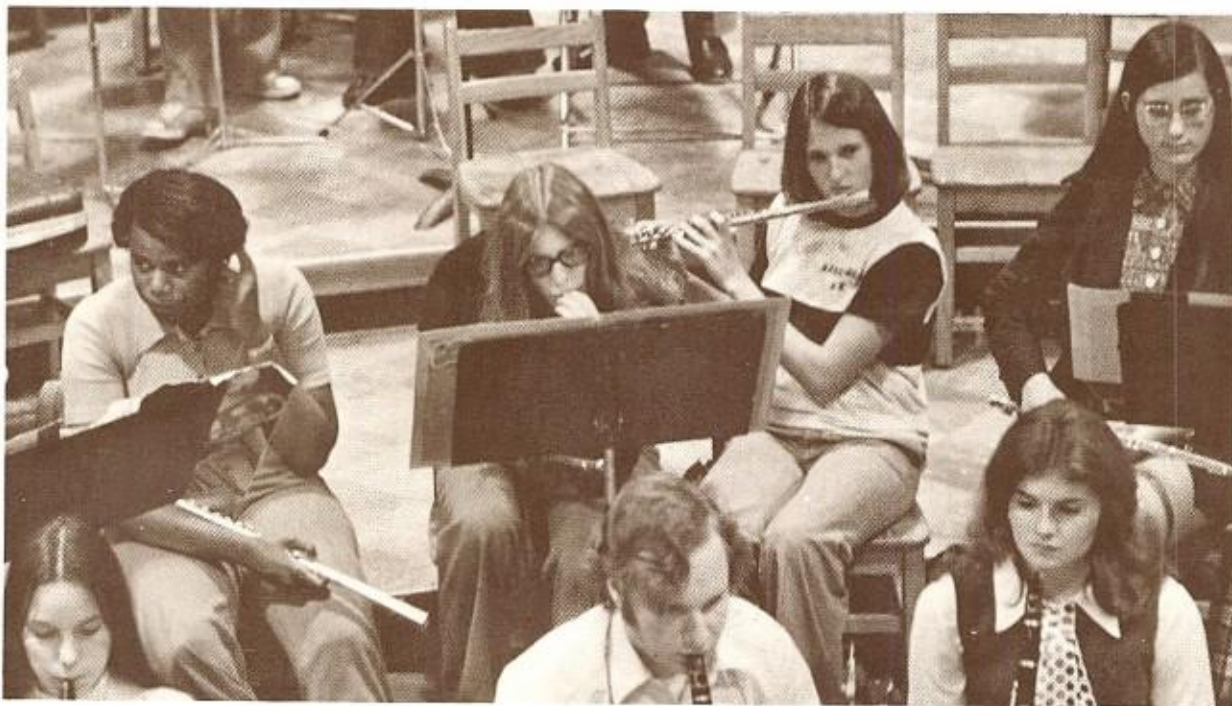

A third popular performing group at GHS is the Marching Band, made up of volunteers from the Symphony and Concert Bands. Playing with flair and precision during each home football game halftime, this band kept in perfect step under the demanding leadership of Senior Drum Major Buddy Hester. Marching Band director is Mr. Harry Booth.

Orchestra performs locally and competes in ECU contest

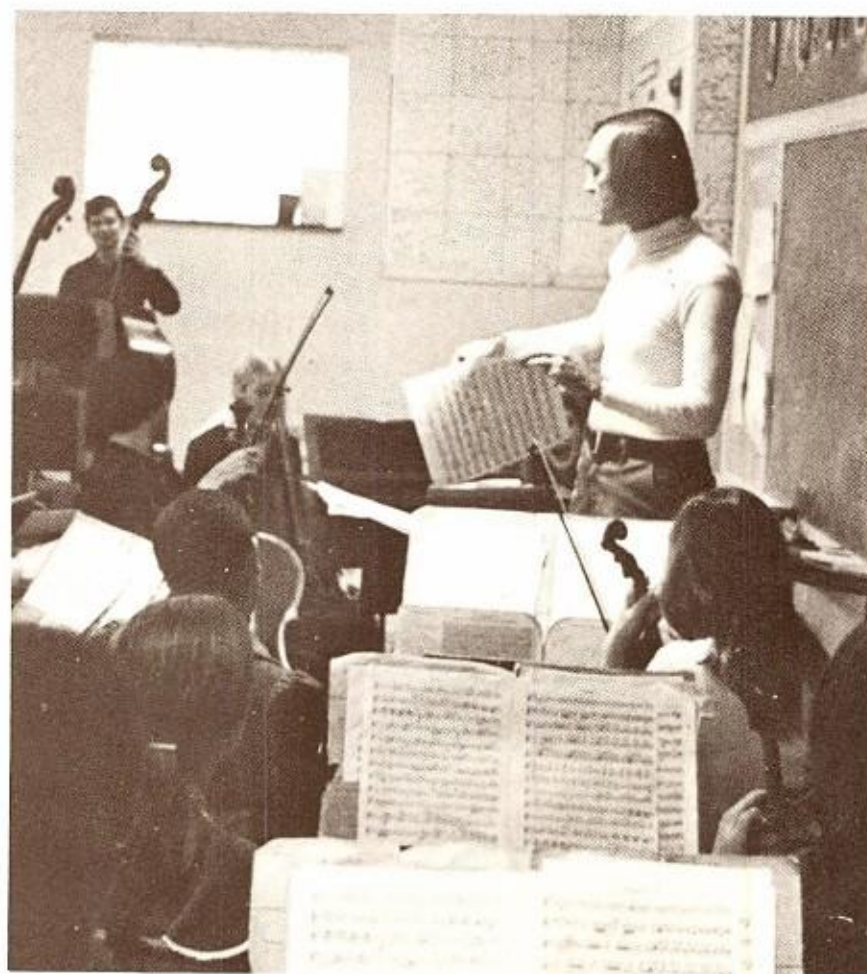

An outstanding musical group of GHS is the Orchestra. Under the direction of Mr. Jones, the Orchestra played in several concerts and other special events displaying the talents of a well-rounded group.

One of the highlights of the musical year was the production of South Pacific, a full-fledged Broadway musical, in which a number of Orchestra members played. In addition, three evening concerts were presented in collaboration with orchestras from other schools. The Orchestra also performed in the NC State Orchestra Contest at East Carolina University and made a short concert tour in the spring.

Grimsley, Page, Smith, Dudley Choirs combine for Christmas Concert

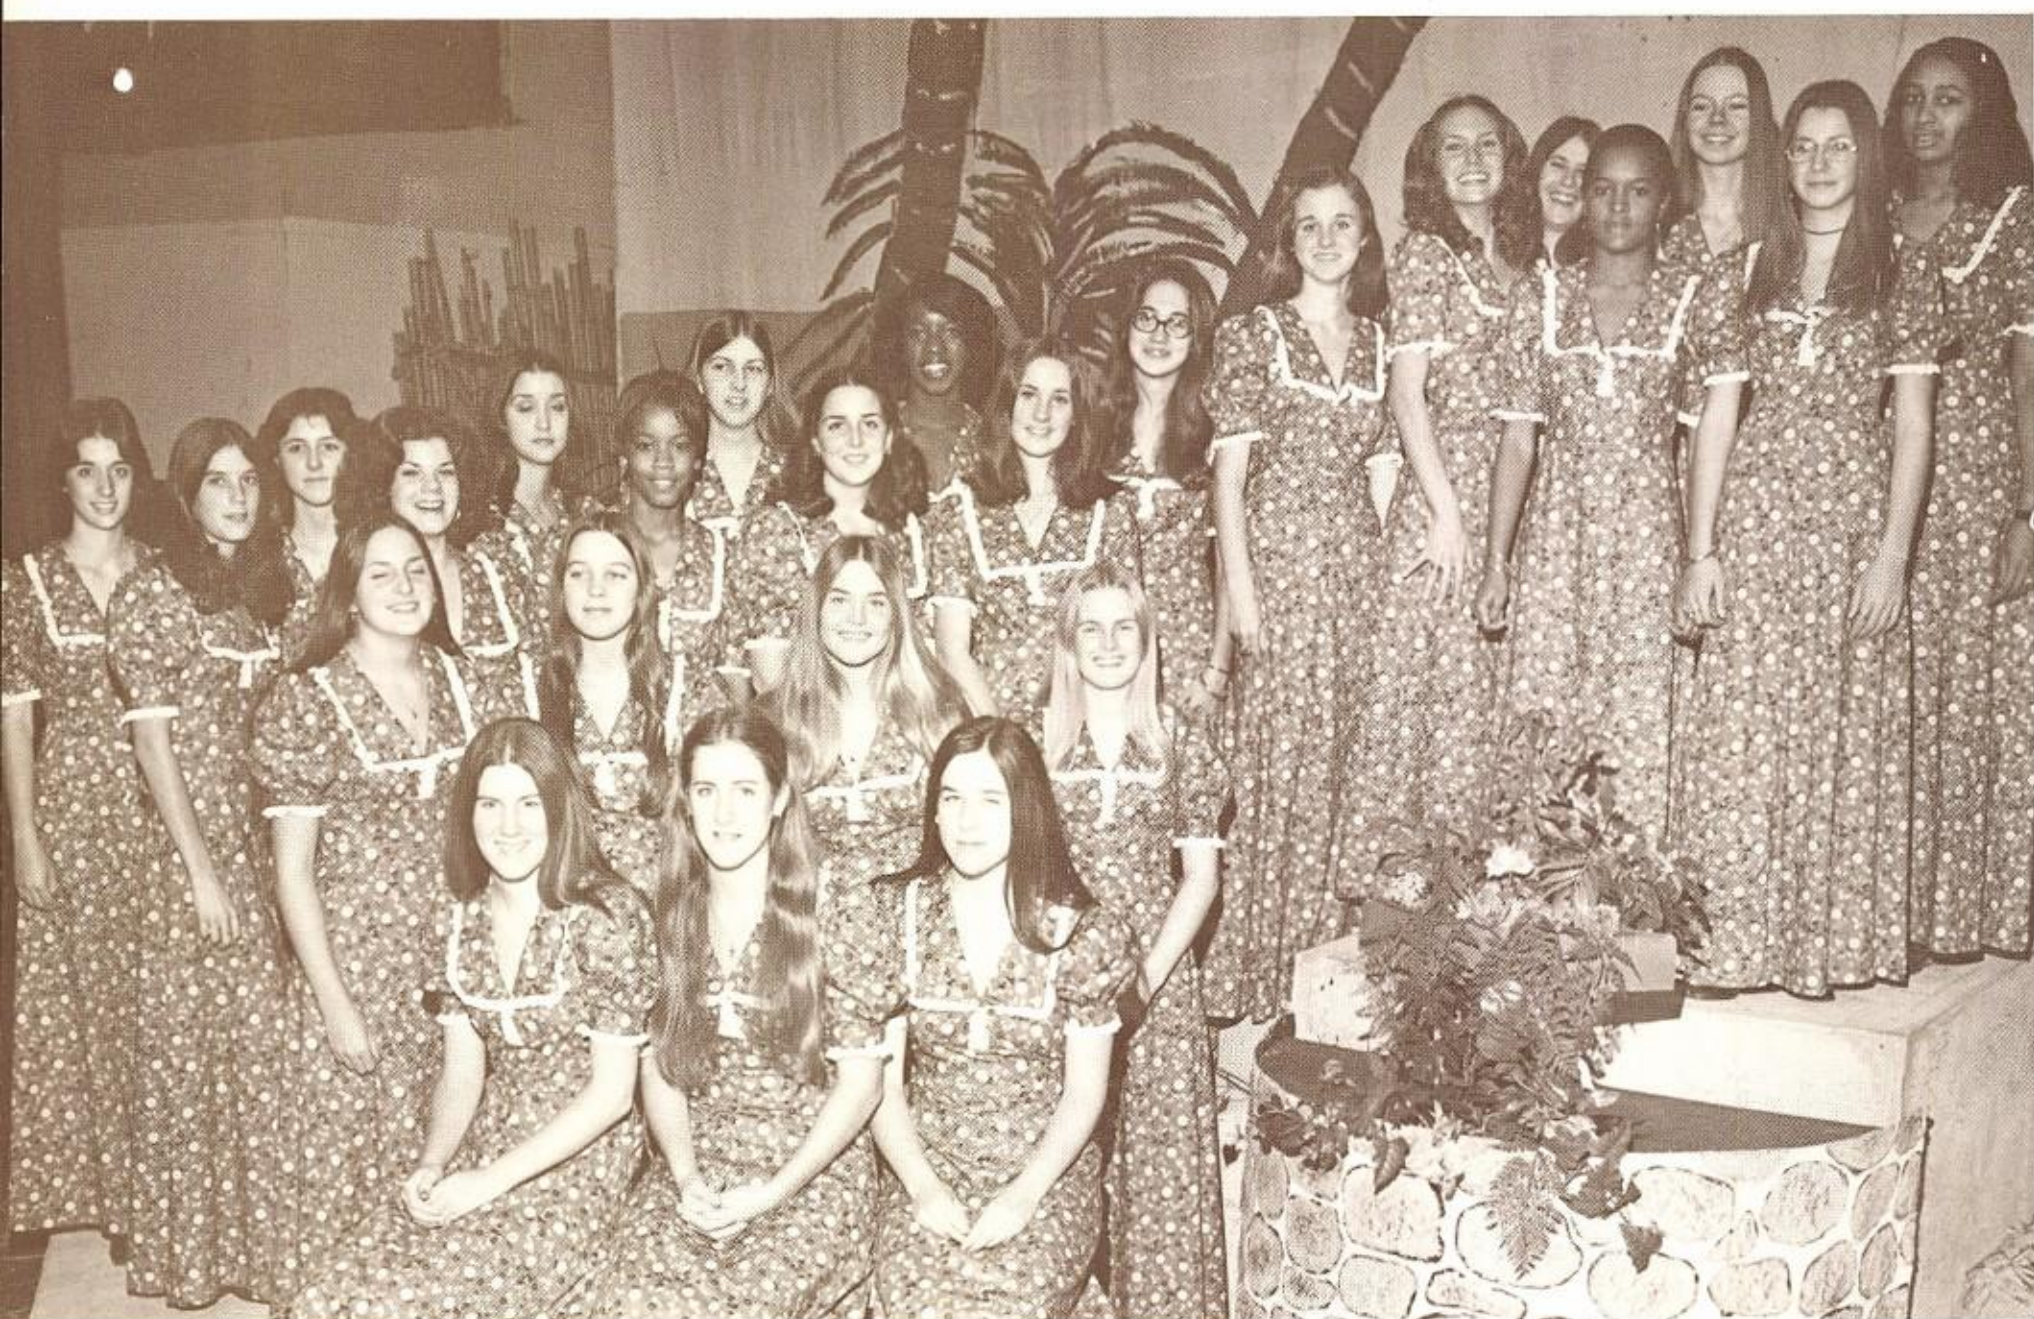

Choir, which is one of the more advanced choral groups at Grimsley, strives for the ultimate in perfection. The members well deserve their outstanding reputation. Mr. Hill and Miss Force (new to Grimsley this year) ably directed the group throughout the year. They displayed their excellence at a Christmas concert with the three other Senior High Schools at Grimsley on December 18. Dr. Richard Cox of UNC-G was the guest conductor. Choir co-sponsored South Pacific with drama and orchestra departments. Several spring concerts were also planned.

Mixed Madrigals is comprised of a selected group of Choir students. They worked diligently on South Pacific with half of the members in the play. The group is especially busy at Christmas performing in many concerts. Another special project was performing a minuet and singing at several local grade schools. Mixed Madrigals are distinguished by their unique costumes of the Madrigal era.

Beginning Chorus contributes many voices to the South Pacific production

Beginning Chorus teaches the basic principles and theories of singing, in preparation for later participation in more advanced performing groups. Its members helped with the production of South Pacific. Outstanding Beginning Chorus students were selected to represent Grimsley in the Chapel Hill Choral Ensemble held on December 6.

This year Advanced Girls' Chorus became a part of the Girls' Madrigal group, directed by Miss Force. The girls performed at numerous concerts, as well as the Torchlight Induction Ceremony. In the spring they accompanied the orchestra on a singing tour, which carried them throughout the mountains.

Creating a chronicle of the school year is a task filled with both rewards and despair, as the students who worked in #861 sixth and seventh periods soon learned. Under the direction of editor Debbie Gutterman and a new advisor Mrs. Rachel Morton, little by little the book began to materialize before the bewildered eyes of staff members. Layouts were painstakingly drawn, and redrawn, and redrawn, and . . . by the creative layout staff. Deeply withdrawn into the mysterious haven of the darkroom, photographers tried to avoid irate section editors who were clamoring for their pictures. Muse-inspired writers alternately scribbled illegibly and chattered incoherently. When the last of the book was sent off to the printer's everyone breathed a sigh of relief (or disbelief) to know that all they had to look forward to was seeing the completed book.

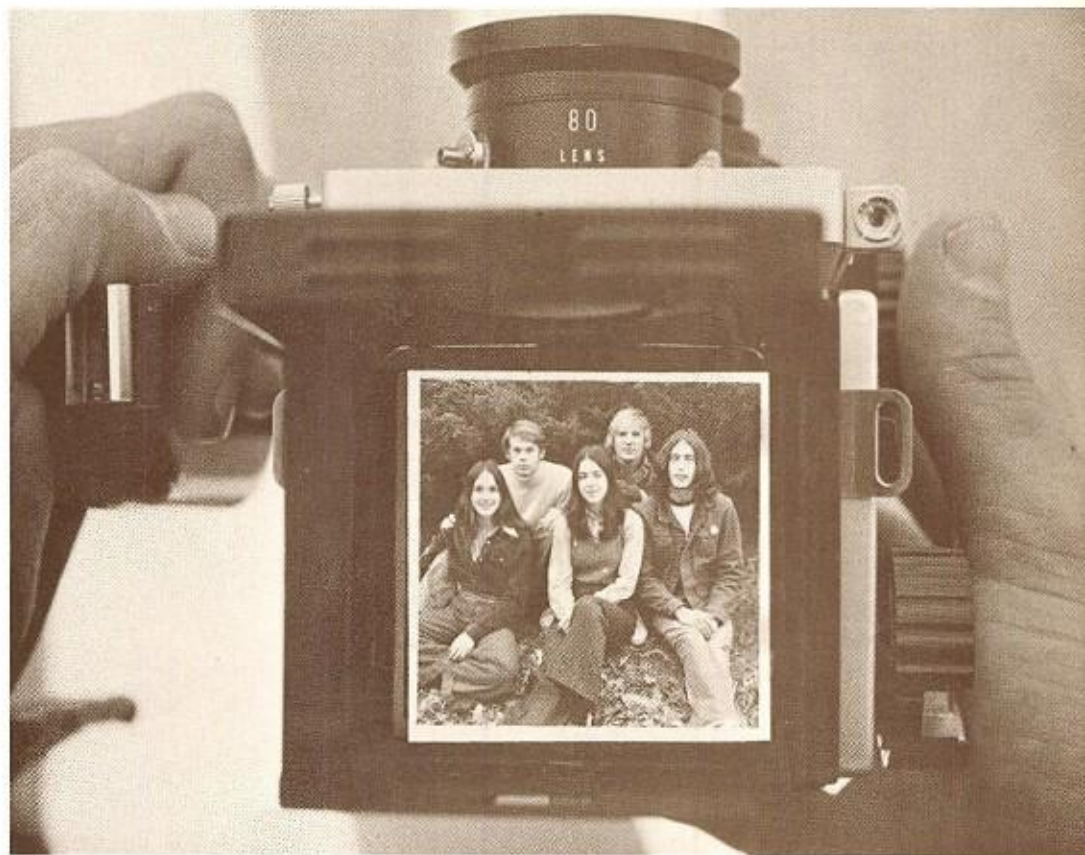

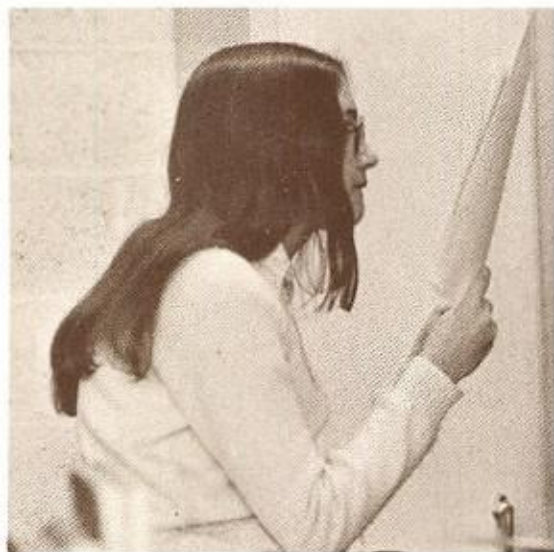

"Aw, come on. Tell me what color the cover is gonna be!"

"If I've told you once, I've told you a thousand times, gold and silver stripes with orange lettering and purple polka dots."

"At least it's gonna be different!!"

High Life* undergoes changes; remains productive and creative

Dear Editor and Staff of Highlife,
The Highlife staff has again come through with a timely, student newspaper for 1973-74. Meeting deadlines, writing copy, and getting the newspapers out to home-rooms, made the staff's job hectic. The special editions, such as social, Christmas, and Senior's "Last Will and Testament" editions were entertaining. The contests you ran with coupons in the newspaper for a free WHIRLIGIG, and two pairs of tickets for "South Pacific," were appreciated, especially by those who won. We also appreciate the hard work and effort your new advisor, Mrs. Enis, and your editor, Tim Spangler, put into the publication of the newspaper. Thank you for providing the students of GHS with interesting news articles about our school.

New advisor leads Playmasters in South Pacific production

Playmasters added a new member to their group this year—Mr. Michael Parrish, Advisor. The ability and determination of the students of Grimsley, made the production of South Pacific an unsurpassed success. Club members worked throughout the year to learn more about the theatre world and polish their dramatic skills. Members of Playmasters participated in a county dramatic contest at High Point College, where they presented a scene from Plaza Suite and the entire plays of Eliza and the Lexicon. The members also performed the same plays at the Carolina District Association Festival which took place during the spring.

Numerous workdays help improve the appearance of the GHS campus

One of the most spirited, hard-working, and essential organizations at Grimsley is School Beautiful. This year School Beautiful experimented with a new approach to get people more involved. Instead of being made up solely of School Beautiful representatives, membership was open to all students who were willing to work hard and get involved. Major projects this year consisted of replacing trash cans, landscaping, and beautifying the school both indoors and out. This group also claims credit for the festive holiday decorations which brightened the hallways and spread the spirit of the season across campus. Though Saturday workdays were not always well-attended, the people who did show up were enthusiastic and effective, as was obvious on Monday mornings.

New appreciation of educators comes to FTA members

For students who wish to be educators after graduation, FTA is an excellent opportunity to learn about some of the important aspects of teaching. Two trips are made each year, one in the fall and one in the spring, to different colleges and universities. The Future Teachers were instrumental in getting student-teacher appreciation day off the ground. The group also served at the American Education Week luncheon in the Grimsley cafeteria. Their projects for this year included a concession stand during the intermission at South Pacific, and having a special tea for the GHS teachers.

ICT—VICA

helps needy family, honors employers at banquet

Working in afternoon jobs among the community, the members of ICT-VICA perfect the skills that they will use in the business world upon graduation. Advisor Mr. Hill assists the students both in their work experience and club activities. President Kim Freeman worked with other officers to initiate the numerous projects of the group. By sponsoring a needy family at Christmastime, club members showed their civic-mindedness. To serve at school, Teacher Appreciation activities were planned and carried out. Two highlights of the year were the annual banquet honoring the employers of VICA students and two conventions.

Master machinists manufacture mechanical marvels

Boys in Machine Shop VICA gain valuable experience in mechanical skills which often enables them to succeed in a technical job upon graduation. Working with advisor Mr. Sutton, club members undertook various projects to learn new techniques and concepts. Besides learning, the boys had the satisfaction of creating actual mechanical marvels with their own hands. Participating in one or two four class blocks as well as extra projects, the building machinists attained many hours of practical experience. For those students interested in engines and machines, machine shop VICA provides a creative situation.

Learning from on-the-job experience helps prepare DECA members for future responsibilities. The students attend classes in the mornings and learn working skills in the afternoon as they report to their various jobs in the community. Striving to build civic consciousness, club members are involved in projects, such as buying a rare Siberian tiger for the new state zoo.

To mix work with fun, several convention trips were planned this year. At the November convention in Pittsboro, Alan Strickler, a student at GHS and a DECA member, was elected district president.

COO offers practical work experience while in school

For girls interested in the secretarial aspect of the business world, COO, Cooperative Office Occupation, is the ideal organization. The club offers the chance to gain practical work experience, as well as to exchange ideas among themselves. The program includes a two-period course teaching basic business skills (in addition to other classes) and an afternoon job with a local firm. Instructing the girls in class and supervising their work schedules is the task of coordinator Mrs. Hornaday. The COO group enjoys earning money while perfecting their office skills, and many of these hard-working girls are asked to continue in their positions after graduation. Numerous service projects also are included in the girls' plans.

New additions to the Media Center help make learning fun

Often unappreciated by other students, the Media Assistants perform many invaluable services in the Grimsley library. These students aid the librarians by shelving and checking out books and assisting students with library research. Contributing to several projects designed to improve the center's facilities—having the library furniture reupholstered and installing a coin-operated copy machine—are important activities of the group. The Media Assistants this year accepted an addition to the record collection, given in memory of Mr. Glenn's mother. In the spring, Grimsley's media Assistants attended a state-wide meeting held in Durham.

Grimsley's MJROTC performs with flair and serves the community

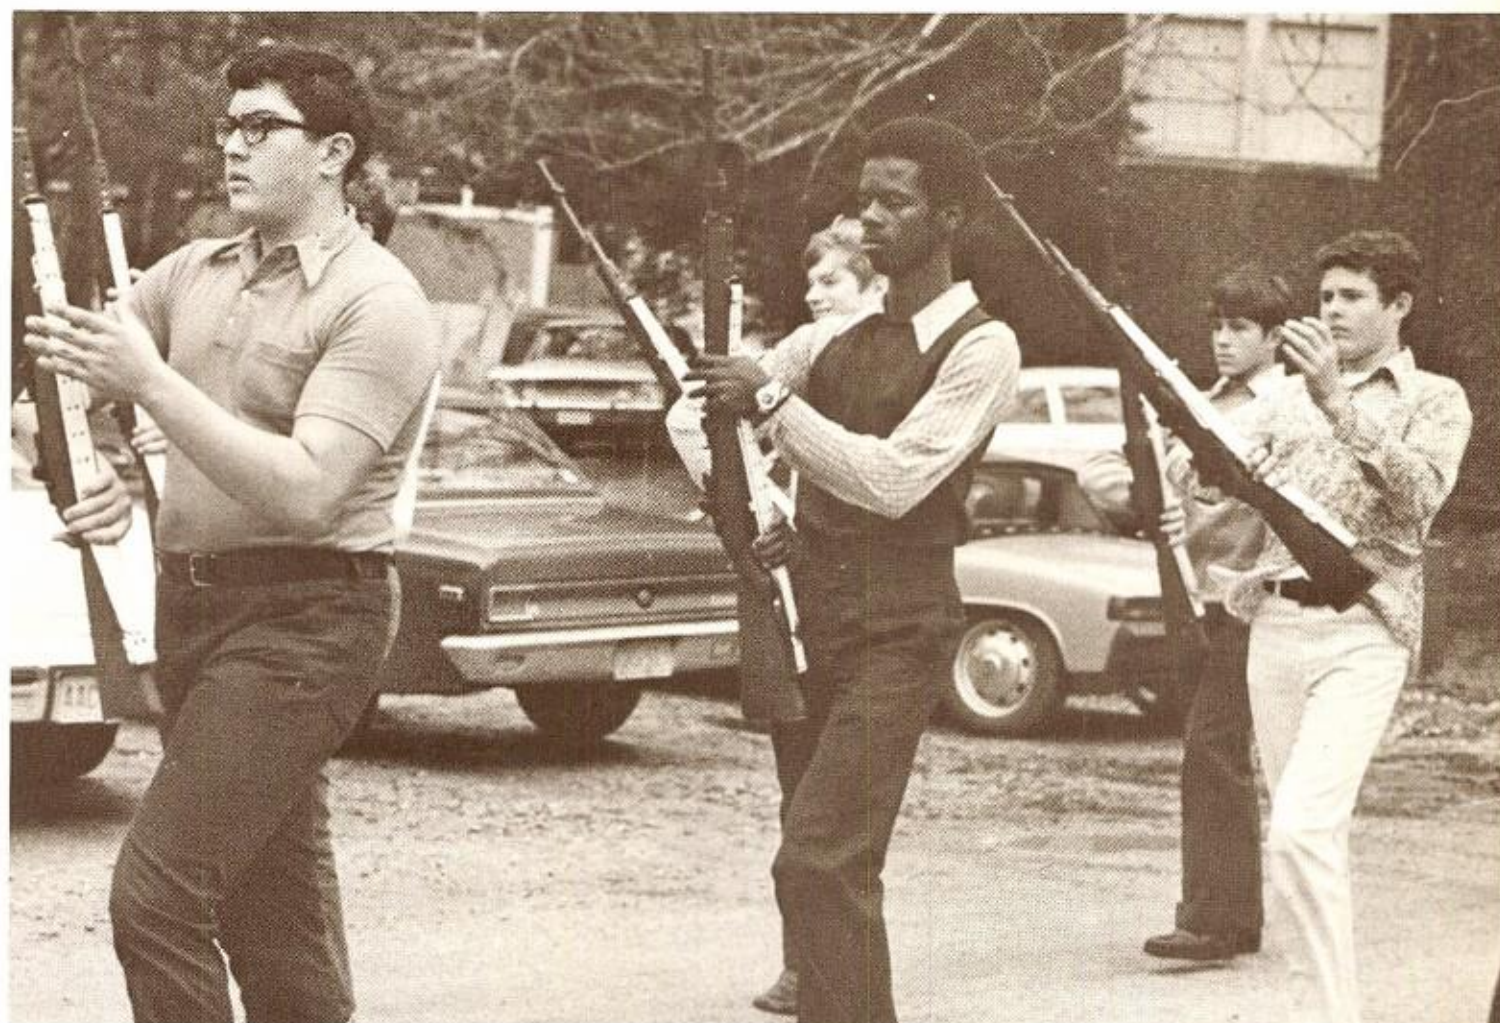

Striving to instill the basics of Marine leadership in their students, Col. Booker and M/Sgt. Zales led Grimsley's division of Marine Junior ROTC to a highly productive year. Much hard work and diligent practice was climaxed by the annual field trip in the spring. The boys took part in local and national riflery matches, and the precision drill team also competed in state and national contests. Highlighting the social year for the cadets was the Marine Corps Birthday Ball. As an added service all of the group assisted in directing the crowd at the ACC and NCAA basketball tournaments.

Girls' ROTC, the Whirling Boots, besides dancing at many sports events, studied first aid, riflery, and Marine history.

Bus Drivers face many changes with new school hours

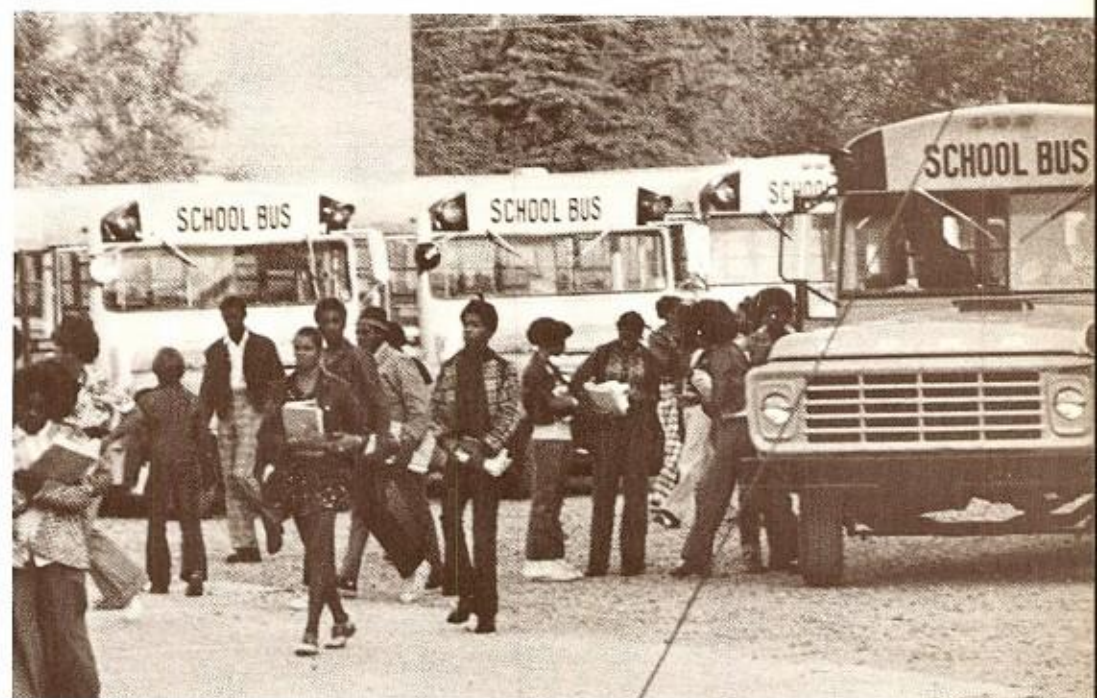

With the change to daylight savings time, bus drivers had many adjustments to make. Sustained by a ten cent an hour raise, most bus drivers survived another year of headaches and hyper-active busloads. Many of the more decrepit buses were replaced by new yellow models, adding to both the safety of bus riding as well as the color scheme of the bus parking lot. Mr. Sutton and other dedicated advisors worked hard to keep the buses in good condition. To the normal bus rider, these gentlemen are the ones who try to direct traffic with wild arm gesticulations in the parking lot.

Being a GHS bus driver is not all fun. Besides those mornings when the gas runs out or a minor crash occurs, there are the added aspects of getting up on the road before dawn, screaming at fifty-odd elementary passengers, and coping with piles of forms.

From television to a bike race, GYC offers a bit of everything

Grimsley students were vital to the activities of the Greensboro Youth Council in '73-'74. Designed to involve the teen-agers of the city in profitable projects, GYC had a successful year, thanks to the strenuous efforts of area high school students. Councilman positions were filled by school election, but all students were encouraged to participate in GYC functions. Among the outstanding projects of this organization were the television show "Mainpoint" which presented high school news and talent features, the Hi-IQ Bowl that featured academic competition between outstanding students of area high schools, and the Chris Evergreen Project which encouraged the ecologically-sound idea of live Christmas trees. In addition to these annual projects, new innovative endeavors such as the Carolina Cup Road Race (an exciting bicycle race) and the Youth Conference (a forum for ideas important to students) were originated.

Interclub Council serves in unification of service clubs

Interclub Council consists of the fifteen service club presidents with Mr. Gwynn and Mr. Glenn serving in an advisory role. The Council was formed to promote good will and understanding among the service clubs. Salesmen often attended meetings to present their wares for the clubs to consider selling. The group participated in many activities, such as parking lot sweeps and school beautiful clean-ups. Mr. Glenn's office was re-decorated, thanks to the council. President Joe Albright worked with the members to tie in Student Council and Interclub Council. The council fulfilled its purpose of keeping peace and coordinating the club.

Children are focus of Senioresses' 1973-74 service

The Senioresses collected and sold newspapers to provide supplementary materials for McIver School students. Eventually they hope to help buy an activity bus for the retarded children attending this school. On November twenty-first, members went to McIver and gave the children a Thanksgiving party. They performed a brief skit and then presented each child with several favors. The Senioresses also participated in the Greensboro Youth Council's Christmas Toys Project. In this project, the girls brightened Christmas time for underprivileged children by making them stockings and giving them presents.

Along with annual projects, Charioteers adopt a family for holiday season

The annual Charioteer's Fashion Show was held in April at Christ Methodist Church. The girls provided programs, entertainment, refreshments, and the modeling. Many hours were spent polishing the GHS trophies and working on their plot. The group adopted a family for the Christmas and Easter seasons. Also the Charioteers helped in various Tag Days, Miss Christmas Seal, the Christmas Toys Project, the UNICEF's Treat of Life, as waitresses for Methodist Men, the Red Cross friendship boxes, and others. The members ended the year up at the state Jamboree in August, where last year they received a First place for Public Affairs.

Interact group becomes bodyguards at sister club's fashion show

Interact members, led by President David Shelton, hastened to assure questioners of their pledge to "provide opportunity for young men to work together in a world fellowship dedicated to service and international understanding." Most of their attention as club members was directed toward their money making project. The members joined together to play volleyball for over 10 hours straight, receiving money from various sponsors for each hour. The club enjoyed many get-togethers with the Charioteers. They also aided their "sisters" in their annual Fashion Show by serving as ushers and bodyguards for the girls' homecoming project.

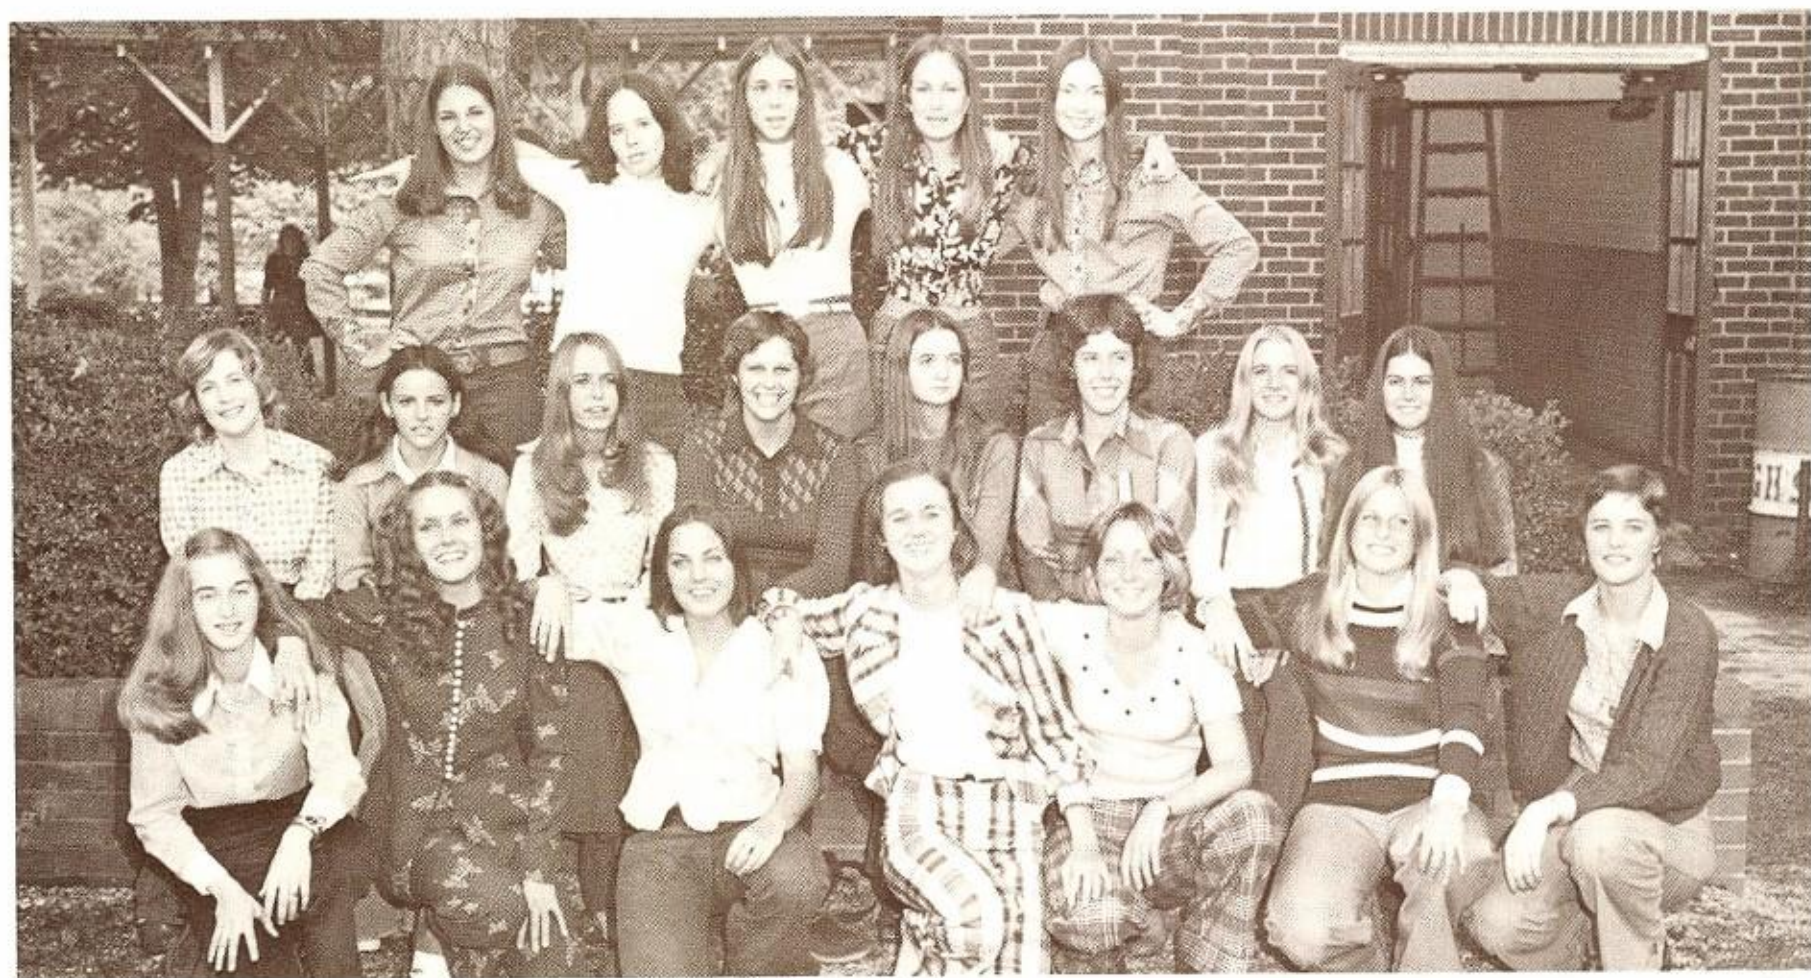

For community service projects, Civinettes deliver food to those in need

Continuing a project from previous years, Civinettes delivered food once each month to welfare recipients unable to pick it up themselves. As another community project the club took orphans from a boys' home to a performance of Ringling Bros. Circus in February. For a money-making project members turned from selling fruit cake to peanut brittle.

All thirty-two girls attended the State Civitan Convention in Durham during the second week of May. After doing all the preliminary work, the Civinettes took great pride in presenting the Teacher-of-the-Year award at Class Day Assembly in May.

Members of the Junior Civitans joined with the Junior Civinettes to attend the Duke-North Carolina State football game in November and the State Civitan Convention in Durham the first week of May. In addition the two clubs chose a different church to visit each month, took orphans to the Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey Circus in February, collected for Miss Christmas Seal, and sponsored a booth at the Teenage Carnival.

Working individually the boys constructed a unique Homecoming Project, repainted the Cheerleading stand, and maintained a school beautiful plot.

Exchangettes delight varsity cheerleaders with new uniforms

Besides working with Miss Christmas Seal, the Halloween Mart, and GYC Christmas Toys Project, the Exchangettes spent many hours playing Bingo with the elderly at Alonzo Towers. The children at Melver School were also glad to see the girls as they provided them with an Easter party. The club's main project was buying the varsity cheerleaders new uniforms. Another outstanding event was the winning of the Homecoming Projects Award. During the hot months the Grimsley High School students were able to "stay cool" with their fans made by the Exchangettes. The girls also worked on their plots and collected aluminum cans for recycling.

GHS T-shirts provide funds and display spirit of Exchange Club

The Jr. Exchange Club was led by President Jim Jones and Advisor Bert Whisenant through another successful year. GHS should bring back memories to all, especially the members of the Junior Exchange, as they worked dutifully in their campaign to sell T-shirts. The sale provided them with the money to undertake other projects. The projects included the Halloween Mart, Miss Christmas Seal, and their school beautiful plot. The members spent much time and effort trying to unite and create student interest in school activities. Camping trips and get-togethers with their sister club, the Exchangettes, were great for morale.

The Junior Jaycettes' main emphasis is placed on helping Grimsley's students by showing school spirit and meaningful friendship. Friendship posters could be found all through the GHS halls compliments of the girls. Throughout the year they supported many projects of the Greensboro Jaycees and Jaycettes, their sponsors. They made posters for the Christmas Clearing Bureau, helped in the Bike-A-Thon, and sold tickets for the Junior Miss Pageant. The girls also worked hard to sell stationery in December.

Perhaps the most outstanding project is the GGO, during which the girls sold tickets, distributed programs, and helped record scores. The large size of this club enables its members to contribute numerous services to the school and community.

GGO was the high spot of the year for spring- minded Jaycees

Whenever the Greensboro Jaycees needed help on any of their projects, the Junior Jaycees were ready and willing. This year the members assisted with paper drives, the Jaycee Fright Factory, the Blind Golf Tournament, the Eastern Invitational Swim Meet, and the tennis tournament. They thoroughly enjoyed early spring and the GGO where they sold tickets, cleared the course of unbelievable amounts of litter, and drove cars for sponsors. They also helped their sister club, the Junior Jaycettes, collect for the Miss Christmas Seal Contest. Their final activity of the year was to present a $300.00 scholarship to a deserving senior.

Over 2400 candy bars quickly melt into profits for O. Henry Juniors

Over 2400 candy bars passed through the hot, smeary hands of the O. Henry Juniors, quickly melting into profits to be used for service projects during the year. Projects for the year included working at Wesley Long Hospital, providing help on the GYC Christmas Toys Project, various Tag Days, and as targets for pies at the Teen-age Carnival. The girls enjoyed entertaining their mothers as they successfully carried out their annual Mother-Daughter Banquet. The members also enjoyed the year as they worked for "service, fun, and friendship." They ended up the year by attending the state Jamboree in August.

Key Club celebrates twenty-fifth year of service to school and community

President Rich Llewellyn, Kiwanis Advisor Mr. A. Kivett, and Faculty Advisor Coach Smith helped to make the Key Club's year a very outstanding one. Hundreds of hours were spent compiling the Student-Faculty Directory, which they traditionally provided for all Grimsley students free. The group then spent many more hours working on a Bike-a-thon for diabetes which they co-sponsored with MacDonald's. The year was not all work and no play, however, as once a month they always enjoyed a dinner meeting with their sister club, O. Henry Juniors. They also jointly worked a booth at the Teen-Age Carnival for pie-throwing.

Adopted grandmother accompanies Sub-Juniors throughout the year

The Sub-Juniors found many ways to serve others throughout the school year. Teachers at Brooks School were happy to see these girls, as many sacrificed their study halls to serve as aides. They collected more money for UNICEF this year than ever before in their club's history. The club also decided to adopt a grandmother, taking her just about everywhere with them. Serving their school as well as the community they became involved with School Beautiful and prepared a luncheon for the teachers during Student-Faculty Relation Week. To finance these projects, the girls undertook a bazaar.

Optimist members, led by President Mike Parks, carried out their highly successful strip show as they appeared at the Teen-age Carnival dressed as buxom girls. There were strobes and music to add special effects. The Student-Faculty Basketball game was one of the main events for Optimist. The game of the year was put underway and once again was a battle for absolute rule of the halls. In December the members participated in the Greensboro Youth Council's Christmas Toys Project. The club helped to repair and distribute the toys, then ended the year with their annual trip to the beach on beach weekend.

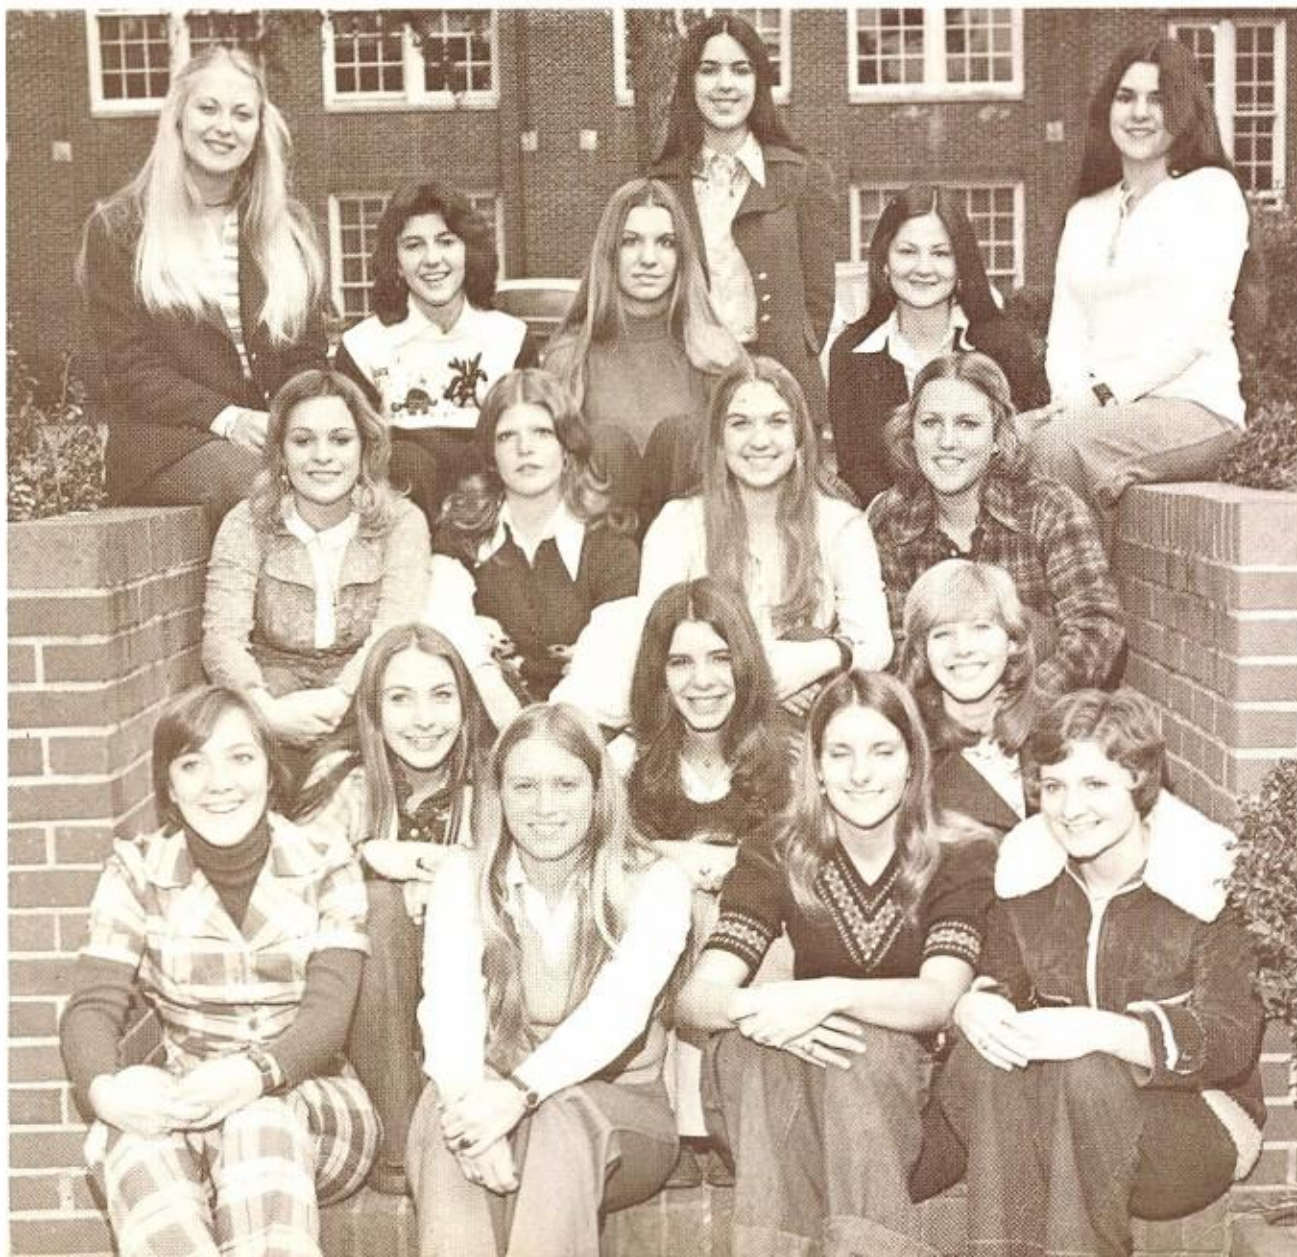

Every month the Y-Teens went to the Greensboro nursing and convalescent home to conduct Bingo games. This year the club collected candy on Halloween for children with Muscular Dystrophy. At Christmastime the Greensboro Youth Council sponsored the Christmas Toys Project in which the girls joined with many other service clubs to help repair toys for needy children.

Besides working on their school beautiful club plot and participating in the Miss Christmas Seal collection, the members, along with their brother club, also helped to create the YWCA Teen Lounge. This lounge is a haven for all teenagers in Greensboro.

GHS mug sale provides profit for Hi-Y

This year, Hi-Y, one of the oldest clubs at Grimsley, kept very busy with activities that were characterized by a two-fold emphasis. The boys worked for more spirit in both club and school, as they found ways to serve in their community.

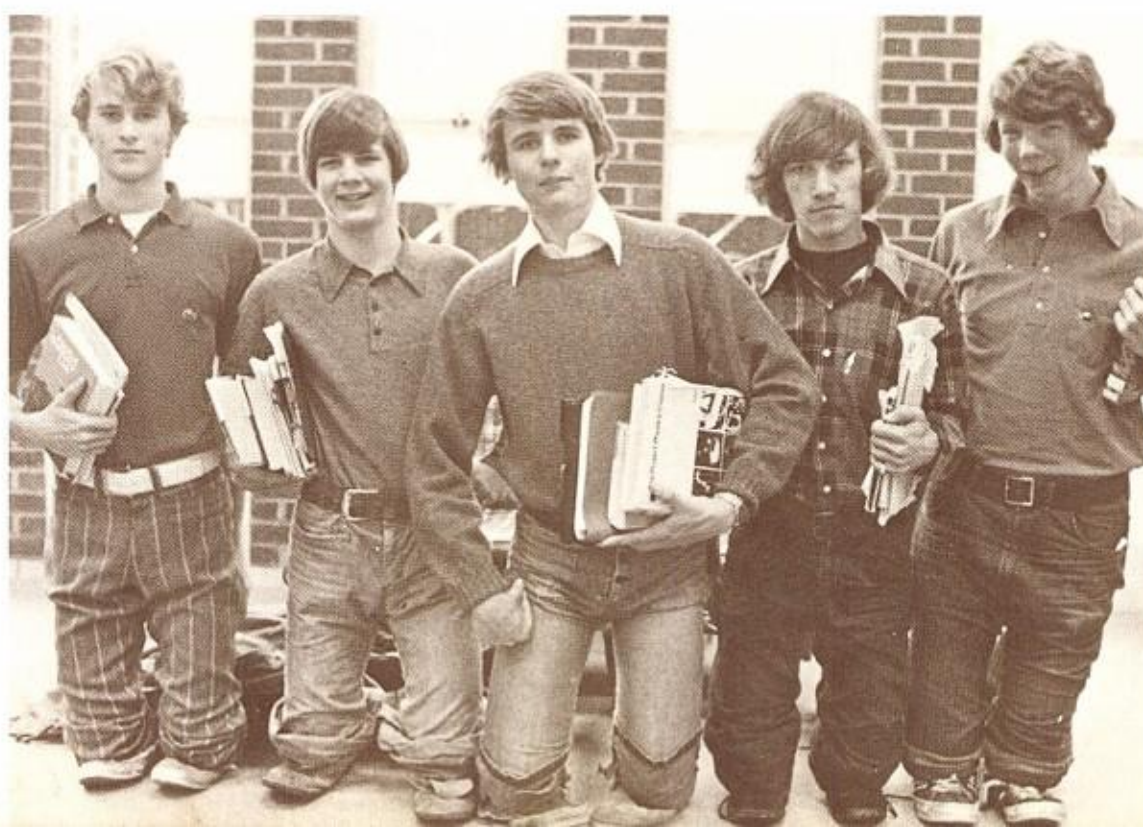

For funds they sold GHS mugs, then gave a party at the YMCA for a group of underprivileged boys. At school they kept their school beautiful plot neat and attractive. In the Teen-age Carnival they operated their traditional egg-throwing booth, using their new members as cringing targets for the profitable egg bombardment. It was a smashing success.

Enigmatic aura keeps 1973 varsity football team in loss column

The real purpose of high school sports is for fun. Sports are a proving ground for sportsmanship, cooperation, and participation for spectators as well as team members. The varsity football season was a disappointment, but as one looks back, it cannot be seen as a total loss. The school did not fall apart just because of a losing team. In many ways, it was brought together. Students were very spirited in rallying for a cause. In retrospect, it becomes apparent that more truths about life and self are learned through defeat than victory. So perhaps players, coaches, and fans gained something from the 1973 football season.

JV Football Team attains well-deserved goal of Conference Championship

The success of the 1973 JV football team can be summed up in just a few words: total team effort. This fact was true of both players and coaches. Their main goal at the beginning of summer practice was the conference championship. They were rewarded with a fine 7-1 record. The team boasted no physical giants; in fact several key sophomores were on the varsity team. This, however, did not dampen their spirits. They were truly dedicated to winning, and they won because they had an overabundant desire to do so. Another major factor was the enthusiasm reflected by team, coaches, and fans. The triumph of the year was the team's big win over the High Point JV's. Coaches Hickey and Johnson put in many hard hours for and with the team, and the upcoming JV team has quite a task before it. But with the right attitude, they can help the varsity next year.

Cross country is a team sport, with success depending on each individual's ultimate effort. A cross country runner is a combination of total concentration, prime physical development, desire to win, and personal discipline, bound together with a deep love of running. Led by an enthusiastic new coach, Richard Smith, the '73 team displayed true unity. The smallest team in two years-14 members-excelled in every meet, despite constant injuries and illnesses. Led by seniors Alan Irvin and Gray Barnhardt, the team won the Eastern Sectional Championship after completing a regular season record of 6-1, then came in second in the 4-A Conference and took fifth in the State Meet, even as top runner Irvin was slowed considerably by the loss of a shoe. Though the team will lose eight seniors this year, exciting prospects returning include soph Mal Jones, junior Eric Miller, and junior Valdez Chavis, who will form a solid base for next year's team.

This year's Varsity Basketball Team had a mercurial season, tying Reynolds for second place in the Conference. The first game of the season, a loss, was followed by a six-game winning streak.

Kevin Cooper, Neil Dunnivant, and Alan Irvin were always valuable players. Cooper was the highest scorer and Dunnivant claimed second highest, a good accomplishment for a Junior. This year's last game, against Page, proved to be one of the most exciting ones of the season with the score fluctuating back and forth throughout the entire four periods. Grimsley finally won by a narrow margin. Seven returning Juniors promise a 1975 season of thrills and victories.

Young basketball teams win big as they prepare to take varsity reins

The JV-A team maintained a gratifying season, the only upset being in the conference tournament against Smith. The entire team played consistently throughout the season, finishing second in the conference with a 15-5 record.

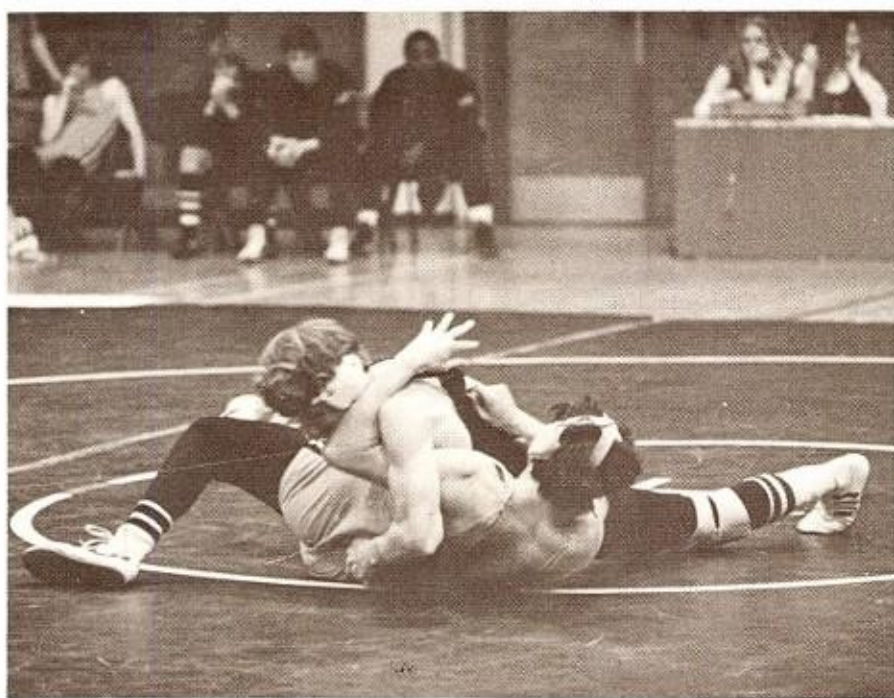

After experiencing a see-saw first half of the season, the JV-B team closed out the year with six straight victories and an overall record of 11-15. Coach Bounds credited his fine first season to the general hustle of the team and depth off the bench, especially at the guard position.

The Whirlie wrestling team went undefeated in seventeen matches, crushing most of their opponents. They won the Conference and Sectionals, winning the latter with 119½ points. Then the Whirlie wrestlers proved their toughness again when they took second in the State.

Senior team captain Rodney James finished with a 26-0-1 record and was Sectional and State champion. Team captain Glen MacDonald, also a senior, was 25-0 and a Sectional champ before going to the State with a cracked rib. Senior Walter Barrett was 28-2, a Sectional champ, and placed second in the State. Tom Ralls, another senior, had a 19-3 record and won the Sectional. He placed fourth in the State. Sophomore Ken Jenkins (25-4) was first in the Sectional and fourth in the State. Sezzie Love, also a sophomore, was a Sectional champion. Sam Barrier, a senior, had a 23-5-1 record and was a Sectional runner-up. Szostak, Spangler, Forsythe, Blinkhorn, Braswell, D. Bartlett, and B. Bartlett also contributed much to the great Grimsley wrestling team of 1973-1974.

Swimmers shoot for tenth straight state championship

Once again, the Whirlies have produced a top-notch swimming squad. Rolling undefeated through eight high school dual meets, the team has lost only to the ECU JV's and swimmers at Duke (including their varsity) in an unofficial meet. Though the swimmers will have to produce good times, prospects of a tenth straight state championship are very good. Coach Sawyer greeted the team in early October and supervised practices from 6:30 — 8:15 each morning (DST) and often Saturdays. The team quickly developed into a fierce competitor. Senior Pete Byrd was outstanding in the breast stroke and individual medley, senior Wayne Simpson excelled in the backstroke and freestyle, and the senior divers Dockery and Flynn were in excellent form. Swimmers with another year to contribute include Bandy, Phillips, Stancil, Warren, Procton, and Sikes. Although only juniors, these swimmers fared extremely well and promise a strong team next year. Sophomores Kinard, Hamilton, and Kontoulous strengthened not only this year's team but also developed to support next year's group.

Winter track begins first season as varsity sport

Winter track serves to keep athletes in shape who are not participating in more popular winter sports, virtually unknown until this year when it was made into a varsity sport. Members of the team, though few, exemplified the sports purpose by working out four days a week under Coach Richard Smith's guidance and continually trying to better their previous times in running events. Only two meets were held, and the small ten-man team fared surprisingly well, taking second place in one and showing good strength in another where scores were not kept. Outstanding performances were shown by Eric E. Miller in the mile, Valdez Chavis in the broad jump, and the team of Mal Jones, Eric Miller, Gray Barnhardt, and Valdez Chavis in the middle distance relay. Though the turnout this year was small, all participants benefited and more runners are expected to turn out next year.

Varsity baseball team 3rd in conference with a 9-6 record

Coach Johnson, assisted by Coach Weaver, led the 1973 varsity baseball team to a winning 9-6 season. This record placed them third in conference play, but the team was rightfully disappointed when they failed to appear in playoff action. Even though luck did not favor the team throughout the season, many outstanding individuals appeared.

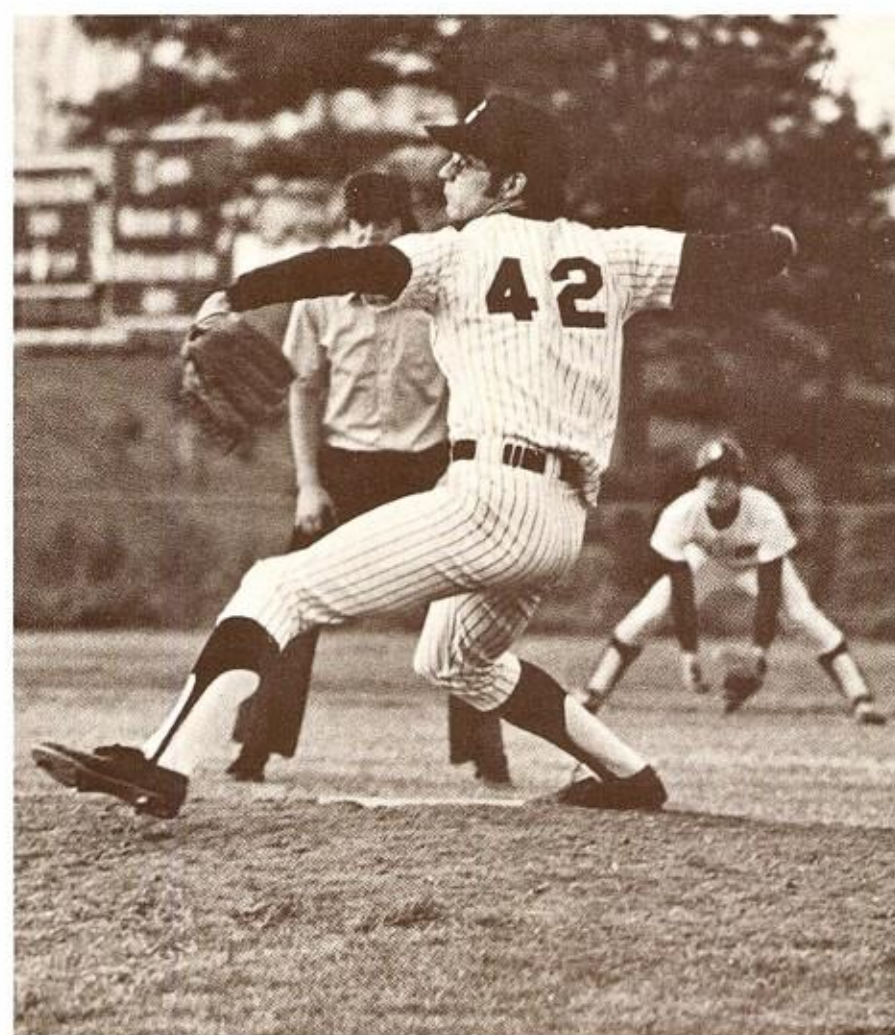

Included in this group were seniors Dave Allen at short stop, Curt Jones as pitcher, Charles Lindsay in center field, Dave Moore in right field; juniors Rick Blinkhorn at second base, Steve Toben in left field, and Jay Shoffner as catcher. Allen, Lindsay, Blinkhorn, and Shoffner were cited as the best defensive players. Lindsay and Shoffner also boasted the highest batting averages, .465 and .395, respectively. Moore, who showed much improvement from his previous year, was also a highlight at the bat. The only sophomore chosen to be a varsity team member was Mike Rhyne, who, with his many first-rate abilities, proved to be a versatile player. For the second year in a row, Jones excelled as the leading pitcher. Perry Coad came through as a very capable relief pitcher. Though the talented seniors will be gone, next year's team should play equally well or even better.

The tennis team put together another successful season finishing with a 9-2 record. Sparking the team was the able duo of Steve Vaughan and Robbie Brady, who took first place in the doubles bracket of the conference, sectional, and state championships. Other performers in the conference championship were Chip Self and Bill Davidson, who made 3 and 2 team points respectively in the singles bracket. Mike King and Ken Gibson reached the quarterfinals in the doubles championship. In the sectionals, Grimsley was represented by Vaughan and Brady in doubles competition. Craig Cory, Chip Self, Bill Davidson, and Buddy Mills reached the quarterfinals in singles.

Grimsley Golfers capture first place in division, first place in conference

The GHS golf team finished an extremely fine season, earning their way to first place in their division by winning five out of six matches. The only loss was to Smith by one stroke. Jackson, Strickland, Woosley, and Luper were positioned in the division's top ten.

Grimsley won the conference with six duffers, qualified in the sectionals with five, and went to the state finals with the same four that won top ten in the division, where they dropped from fifth to sixteenth place.

Track team proves formidable foe in '73 season

A talented, young, and well-rounded team met Coach Sawyer in late February. They practiced diligently throughout the season to post a fine record for 1973. The cindermen ripped off a couple of early wins, but as the season progressed and competition toughened, G.H.S. slowed to a few third places. Toward the end of the season, talent really began to show as the trackmen captured the sectional and regional meets. They came out of the state meet with a third place finish.

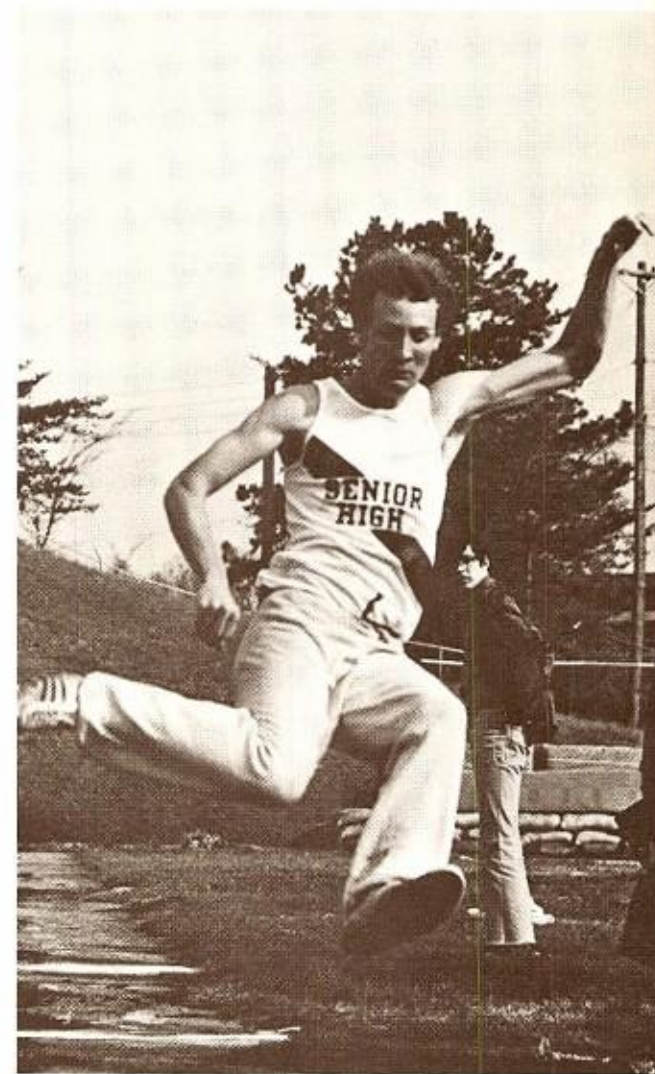

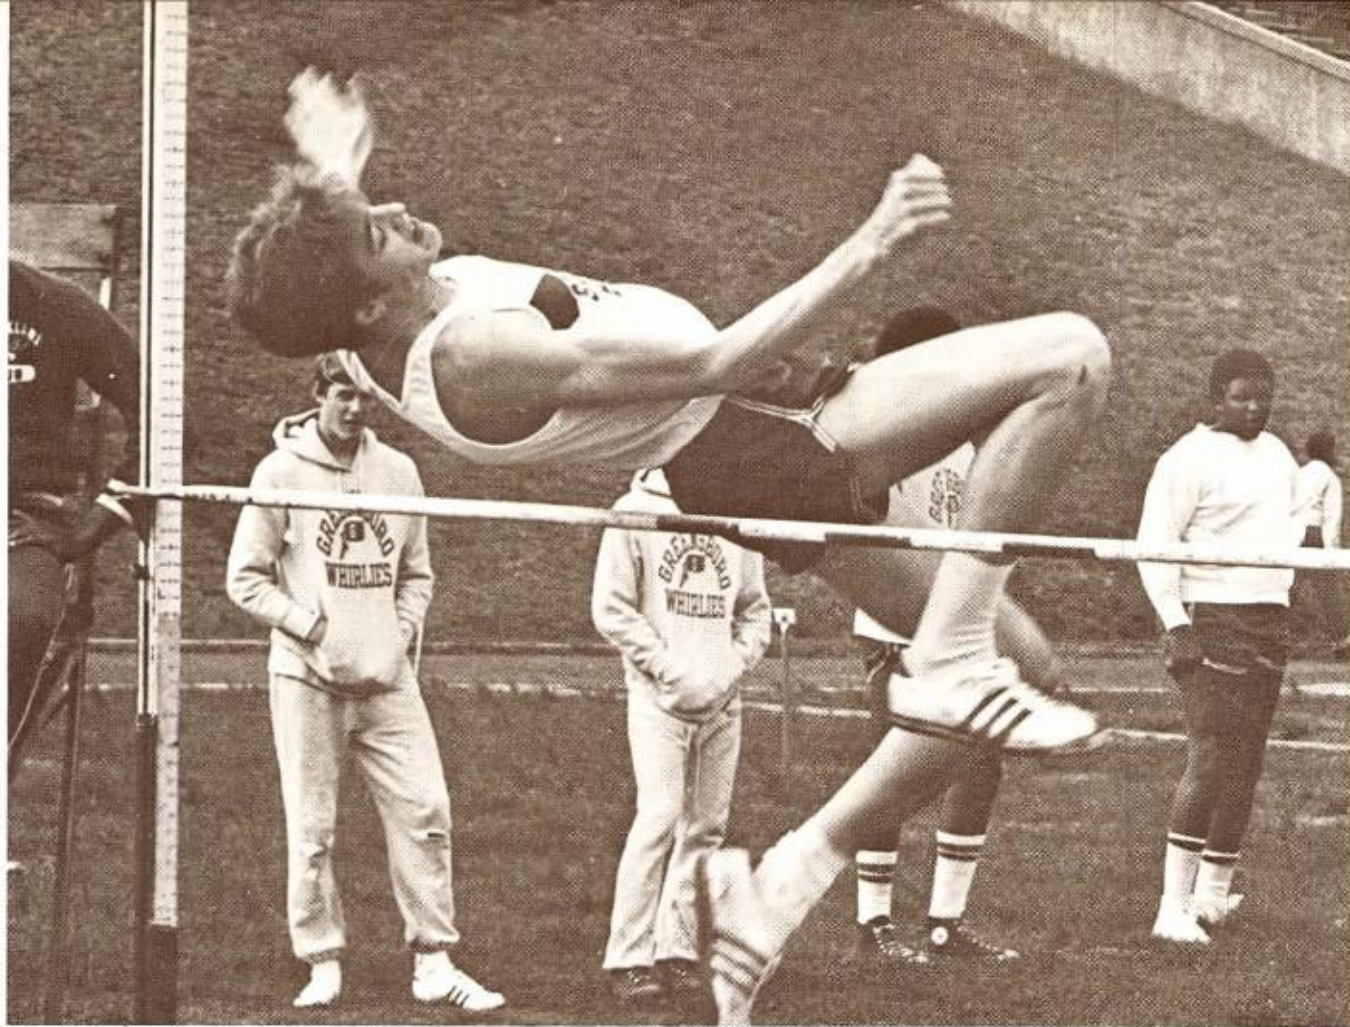

The team was blessed with a wide array of outstanding individuals. Senior Gil Vance broke the school record in the shot put event with a 53'11" throw. He climaxed his season by winning the state discus with a throw inches short of his best—178'4". Keith McDonald again vaulted to great heights as he topped over 13'8".

Sprinters John Thompson, Valdez Chavis, Rick Teague, Neil Dunnivant, and Charlie Broadway combined their talents and concentrated on the 880 and mile relays. They broke school records in both: 1:31.1 and 3:24.7, respectively. Juniors dominated distance events with Gray Barnhardt in the mile run and Alan Irvin in the two-mile run posting numerous victories. Experience gained and talents stimulated should prove next year's track team a winner.

In the words of Miss Addison, this year's basketball team was one of the best GHS has ever had. The girls combined depth with strong rebounding and shooting to produce another winning season. Junior Ethel White led the female net-swishers with a 20 point average, while Senior Grace Huntley sparked the defense.

The girls' tennis team, under the direction of Miss Tamblyn, had another outstanding season. The members put forth all of their skill in each match. Two outstanding teammates, Beverly Sizemore and Ann Martinelli, traveled to the State Tournament. These two Whirlies brought back the Doubles Championship.

Power, versatility, and skill were keys to the success of this year's girl's volleyball team. The members of the team frequently interchanged positions giving all the girls a wider scope of the game. Power at the net was supplied by Donna Gutterman and Ethel White, while Carol Shelton set up the good shots.

For the past three years in a row our girls' swim team has brought the State Championship title back to Grimsley. In planning for an unprecedented third straight championship, the team members practiced for two hours every other day, swimming a minimum of 3,000 yards a practice.

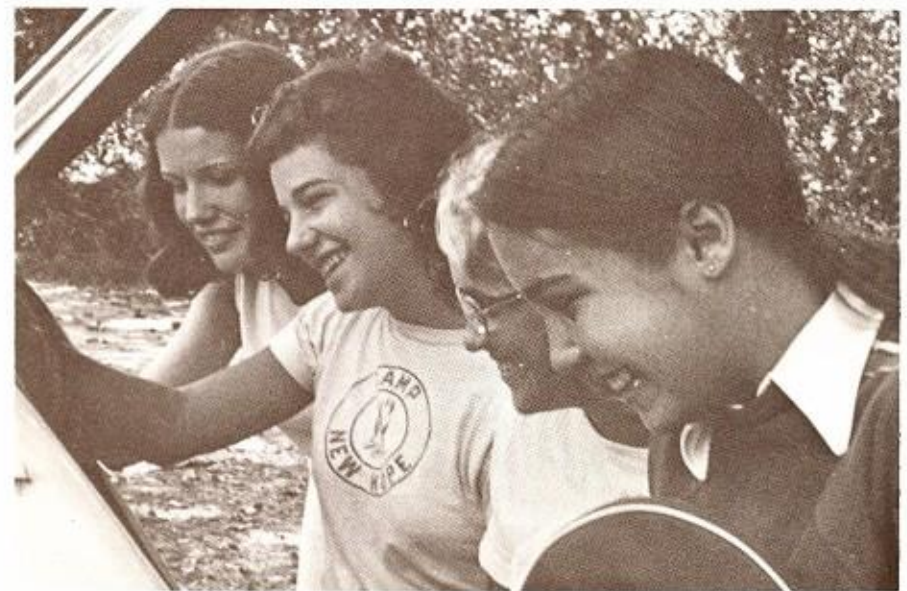

State meet highlights track team's season

This year's girls' track team combined an unfailing devotion with excellent athletic performance to bring more honors to GHS. The team was blessed with two skilled mile runners, Lynn White and Jane Selders. These two athletes finished fifth and sixth respectively in the mile run at the State Track Meet. Other outstanding team members were Ethel White in the 440, Donna Gutterman in the discus throw, and Janet Jones in the hurdles.

The J.V. Cheerleaders, headed by Candy Clapp, showed enthusiasm by attending all home games and arousing spirit during tense moments.

Originality and showmanship present during "Spirit Days"

Promoting spirit in all GHS sports activities was the main goal of the 73-74 Pep Board. Co-chairmen Jay Weatherman and Beth Cameron with other board members attempted to get the fans to all Grimsley athletic events, other than just football and basketball.

Many spirit days were instigated in the fall by the Pep Board in order to achieve its goals. Top 'em Day, Lick'em Day, Sock'em Day, and Kiddie Day found a majority of the student body participating. Among the board's efforts were special cheers and pep rallies which included enthusiastic original skits. This year's Pep Board decorated the main hall to boost spirit.

Whirlettes enliven enthusiasm at GHS wrestling matches

The purpose of Whirlettes is to boost the Wrestling Team and its coach. The success of the GHS wrestlers this year is partially attributed to the constant presence, support, and enthusiasm of this group of girls.

Represented at every match, here or away, the girls in their blue and white uniforms sold tickets, ran the clock, posted scores, distributed refreshments to the team and helped generally in the running of the matches. One of the biggest events this season was a car wash and bake sale held to buy needed equipment for the team. The renewed interest in wrestling this year, can be partially attributed to the Whirlettes.

Game night finesse belies daily drudgery of cheerleaders' practice

Acknowledging the fact that it takes hard work to be a GHS cheerleader, twelve Varsity Cheerleaders practiced everyday during seventh period throughout the school year. The varsity girls took turns leading each other in cheers, always attempting to attain perfection.

Whether attired in their blue and white uniforms or not, the girls made it a policy to show their school spirit by being present at all sports functions. The belief in school spirit permeated the atmosphere around them as they cheered, talked with friends, or met their classes.

Hours of hard work are rewarded by splendid routines

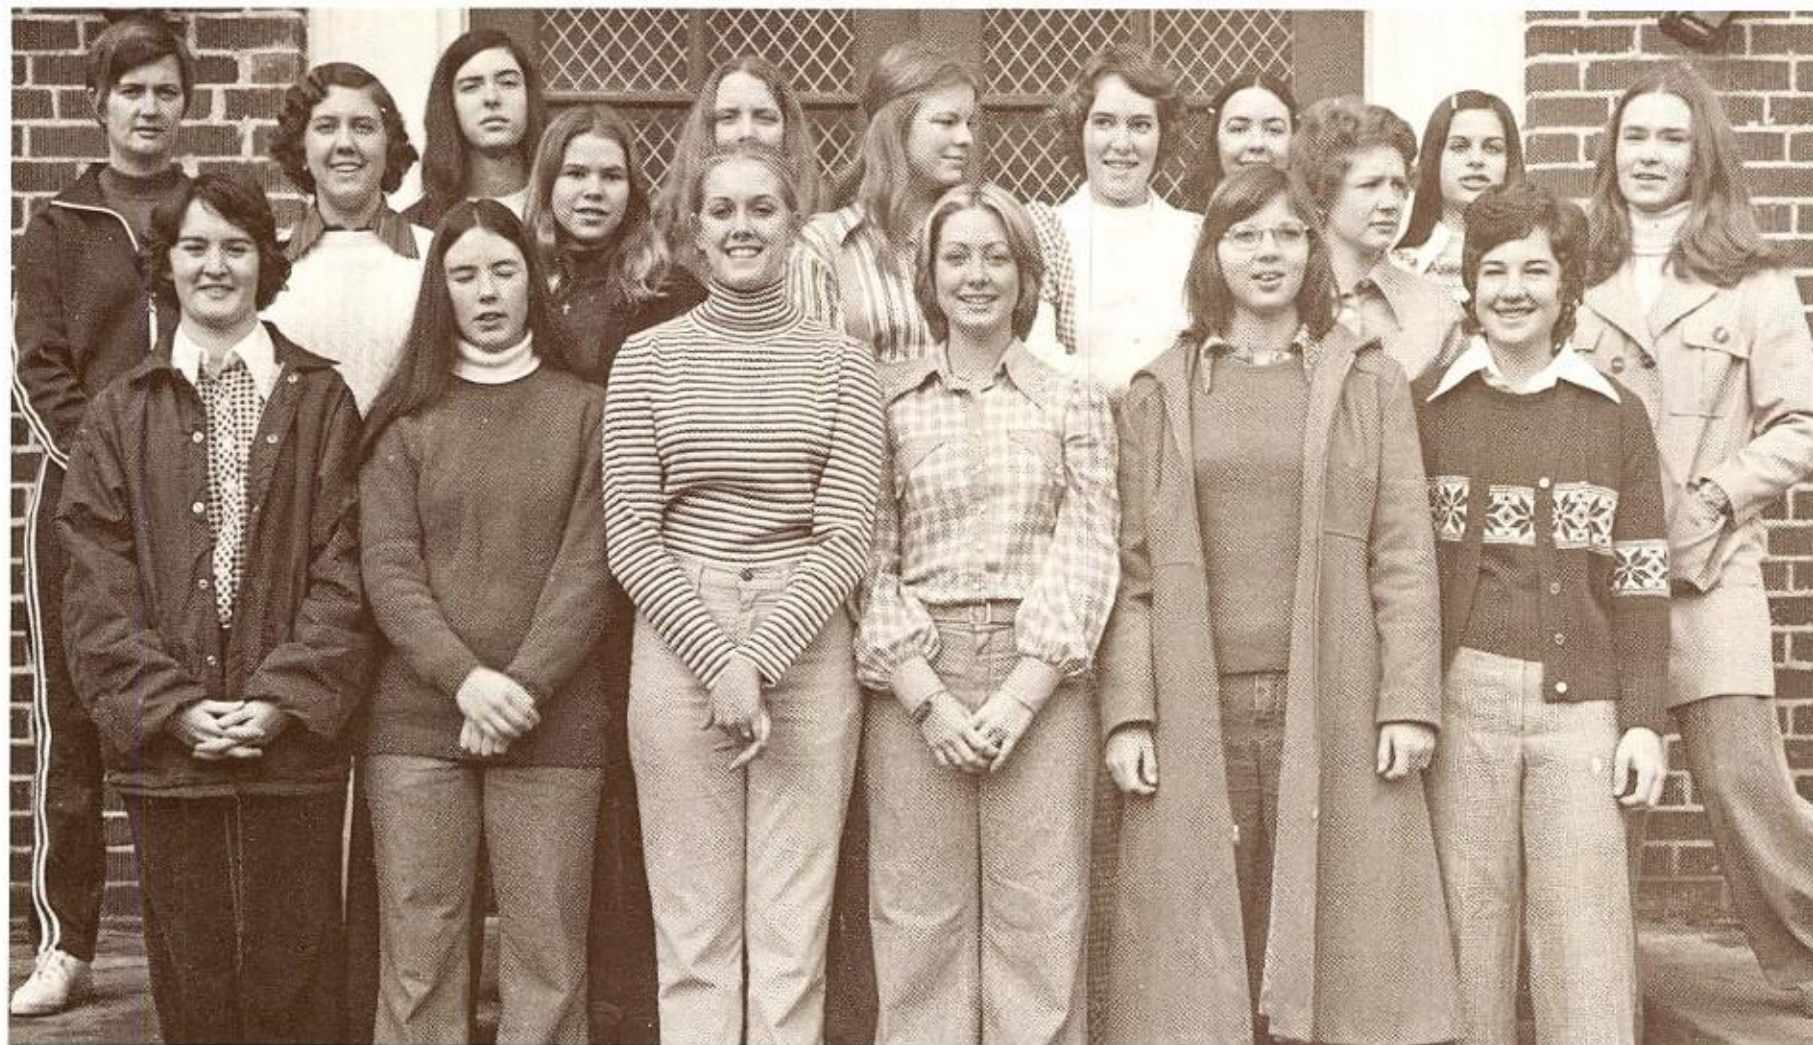

Learning about rank structure, first aid, and the history of the Marine Corps were only a few of the things the Whirling Boots of GHS did this year. Taught by Colonel Booker at sixth period, the girls also practiced their routines for performances.

Performing at Grimsley functions was only one of the group's many endeavors in '73-'74. They entertained at many Cougar games and were chosen as usherettes for ACC and NCAA tournaments.

In learning about the Marine Corps, the girls had the opportunity to learn to shoot rifles, although it was not a requirement.

Fun and physical fitness main concerns of GAA

The Girls' Athletic Association is open to all girls interested in fun, competition, and physical fitness. The girls focus their attention on the sports they personally like themselves and compete against each other on activity nights.

Under the direction of President Donna Guttermann and advisor Miss Pat Addison, the association planned this year many adventurous outings for the club, many of which were postponed due to bad weather.

The projected highlight of 1974 was a camping trip in the spring. The girls looked forward to learning more about nature and survival in the outdoor world.

The Greensboro City School Board of Education, under the direction of Mrs. Margaret A. Harris, has had a busy year. Along with regular meetings, the members of the School Board have met at irregular intervals for urgent call meetings.

Besides setting up the schedule for the year, which includes holidays, exam days, teacher work days, and make-up days, the School Board has many other important duties.

With the energy shortage, the nation changed to daylight savings time in January. This meant going to school in the dark for some students. In the best interest, therefore, the School Board changed opening hour from 8:30 to 9:30. This time change has caused many complications and was discussed at length throughout February.

However, many other problems face the School Board that few people are aware of. The manner in which this group of people tackles and solves its problems is a credit to the Greensboro Public Schools system.

PTSA provides all Volunteer Aides for GHS clinic

Grimsley's PTSA is the organization through which parents, teachers, and students work together to provide for school services and funds not otherwise available.

To start the year, the PTSA met with the City School Board to discuss capital improvements. Through their work, the stairs, bathrooms, and teachers' lounge were renovated while the teachers' parking lot was improved.

A major service project of the PTSA is to provide volunteer aides in the Grimsley clinic. The PTSA further supports the school through time and money donations to the Media Center, Student Council, and WHIRLIGIG.

Mr. Glenn combines innovation, experience, understanding, concern

A large man, grinning amiably or meditatively lost in the vast complexities of his calling, Mr. Lody Glenn strides across the campus like a conciliatory colossus, ever alert to student or faculty needs, ever aware of insoluble situations that call for compromise, ever prepared to assert that "the buck stops here."

His experience with frustrated youth this year prompted him to foster the Optional School, which opened in early February during afternoon hours on the Grimsley campus. A personal triumph for Mr. Glenn, the Optional School promised an alternative education for young people who for some reason could not remain in regular high school.

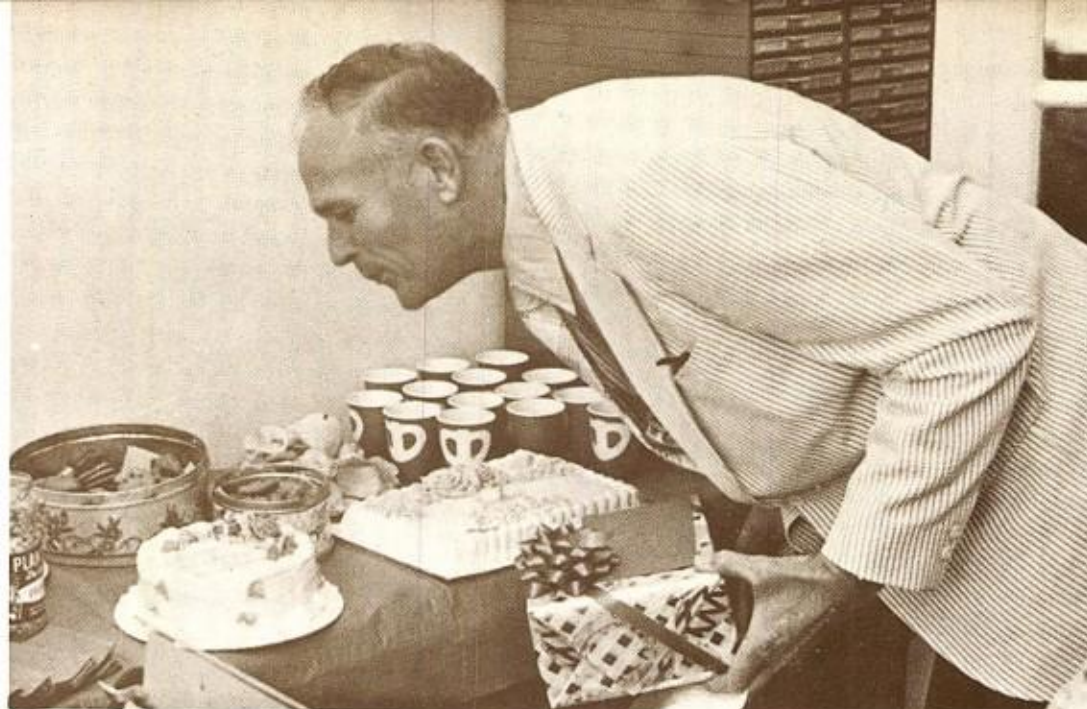

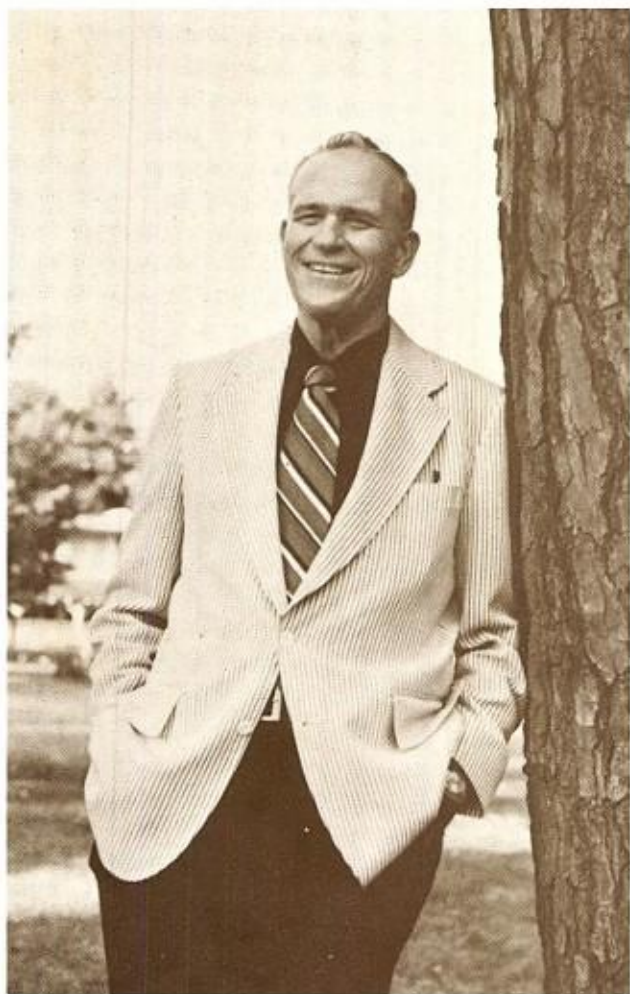

Another innovation was the incorporation of the popular "Schools Without Failure" program. Class meetings, with students rapping about current concerns, interspersed with success-oriented meetings involving one-third of the faculty, probed elements that lead to success or failure.

Cherishing the best educational values of the past and attempting to change the rest, Mr. Glenn's job continued to be one of perennial reevaluation.

Mr. James Ballance

Mr. Spencer Gwynn

To assist Mr. Glenn in the affairs of Grimsley, there are two competent assistant principals. Mr. Ballance handles the school curriculum while Mr. Gwynn works with the student affairs at Grimsley.

Although Mrs. Stanton was in school only two months this year, she has served Grimsley well in past years. As well as being Dean of Students, she taught AP English.

Mrs. Tootsie Pethel, who came at the first of second semester, quickly fit in as Dean. The chaos that seemed evident soon became order under her skilled eye.

(Below) Our assistant principals reveal varied expressions at Faculty Meeting.

One third of everyone's life at Grimsley is spent as a Sophomore, and most Sophomores soon find themselves following trusted trends, long ago delegated to their lowly rank.

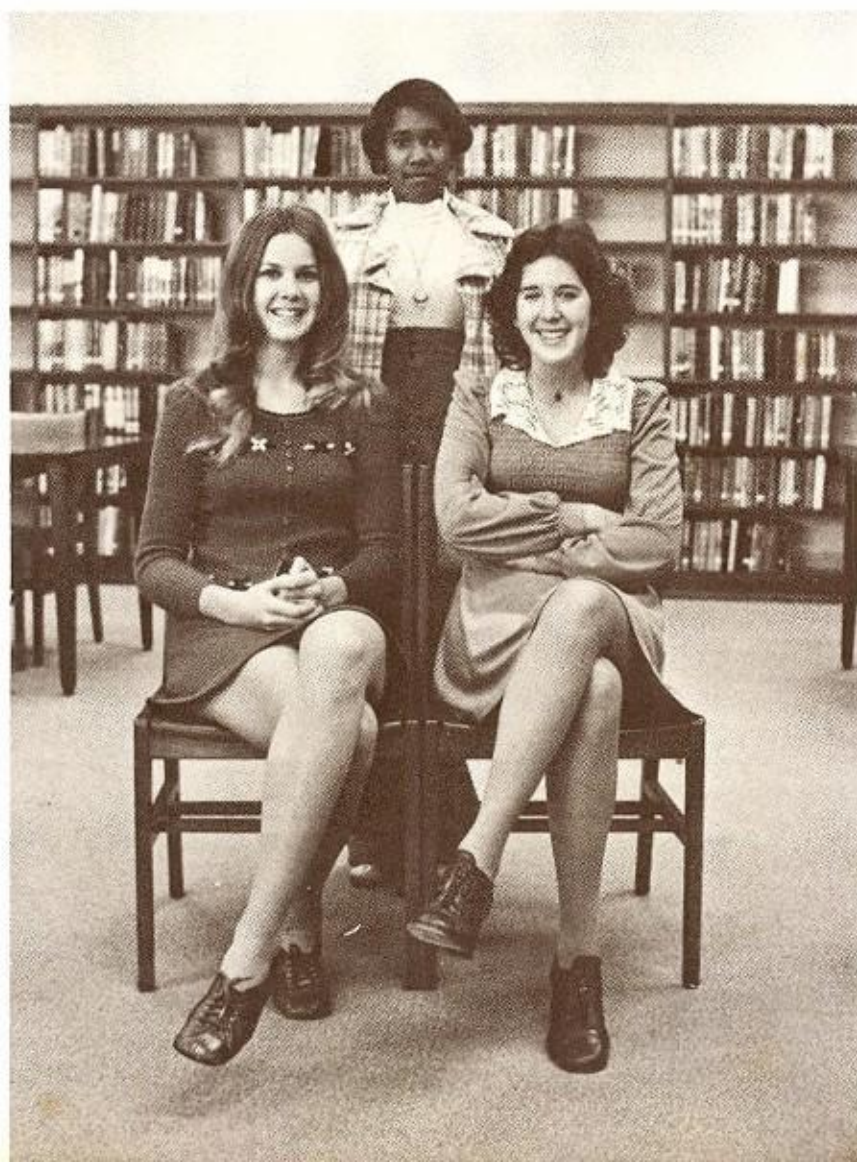

Besides the usual rounds of geometry, study hall, and Driver's Ed., the Class of '76 faced two major changes. In English, Sophomores had a choice of over thirteen different one-semester courses. Biology students chose out of the six new phases; People Problems, Genetics, Micro-biology, Higher Organisms, Ecology, and the traditional, two-semester Biology.

How much trends are a part of GHS, the Class of '76 soon found out. Following the Sophomore tradition, this year's class had but a handful seeking candidacy in the elections, but its spirit was proven through avid participation in clubs, spirit days, class sales, pep rallies, and sports. One trend, still observed, is the old "sell-a-Sophomore-a-ticket-to-something" trick. Dull-witted upperclassmen who try selling swimming pool and elevator passes soon learn that the only people who end up buying them are other dull-witted upperclassmen.

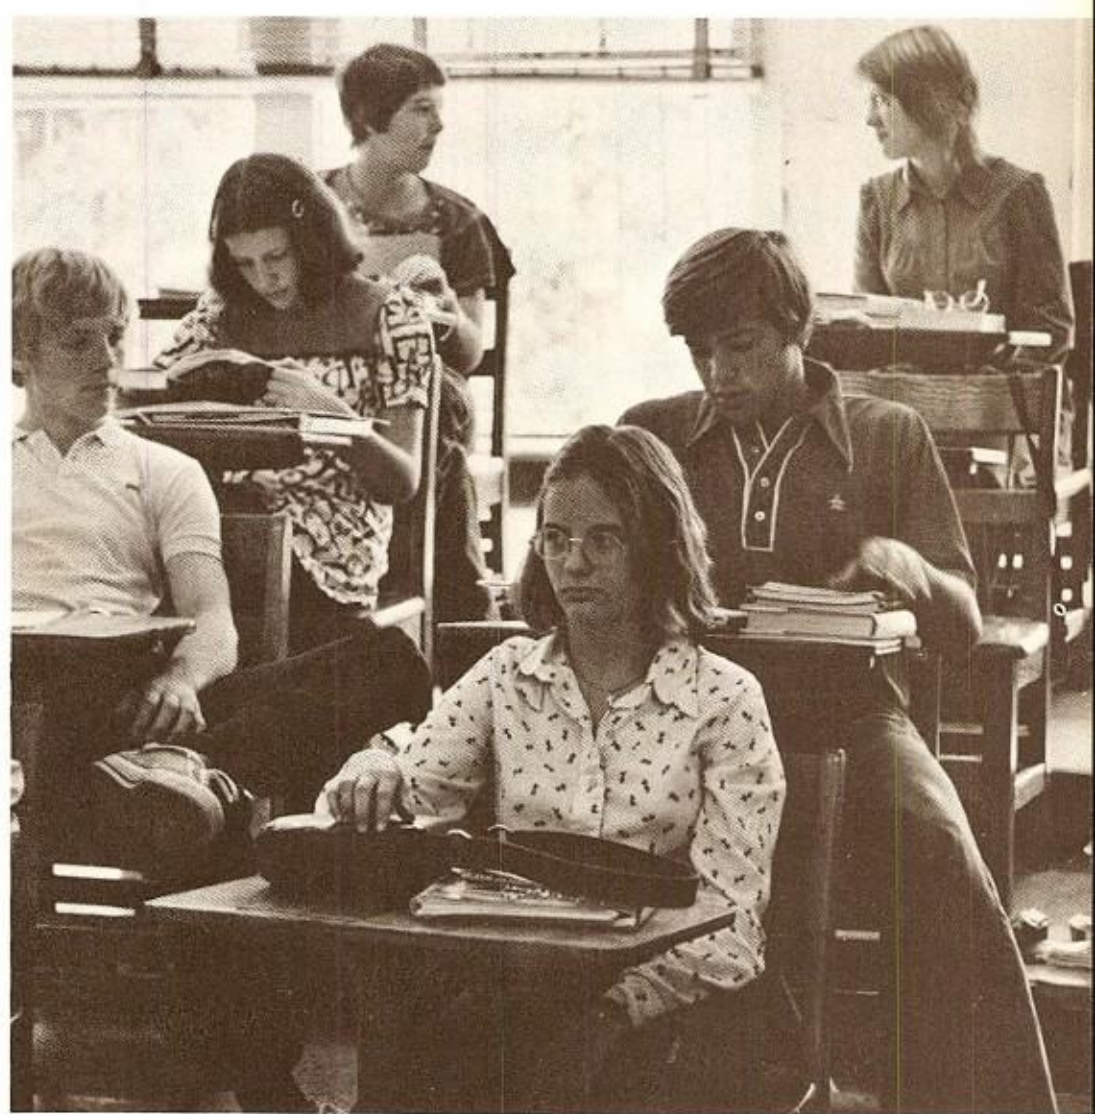

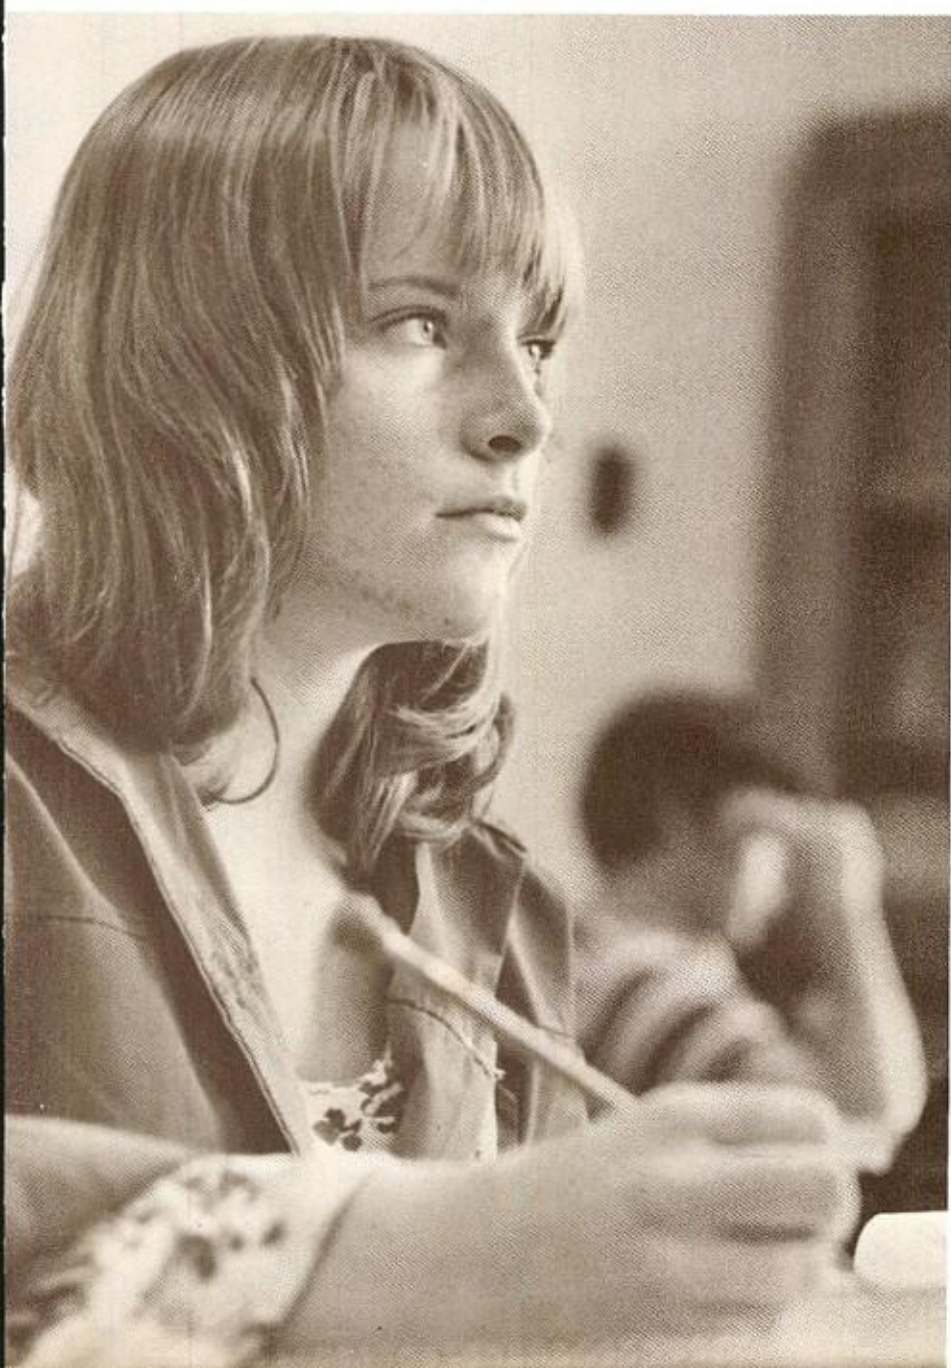

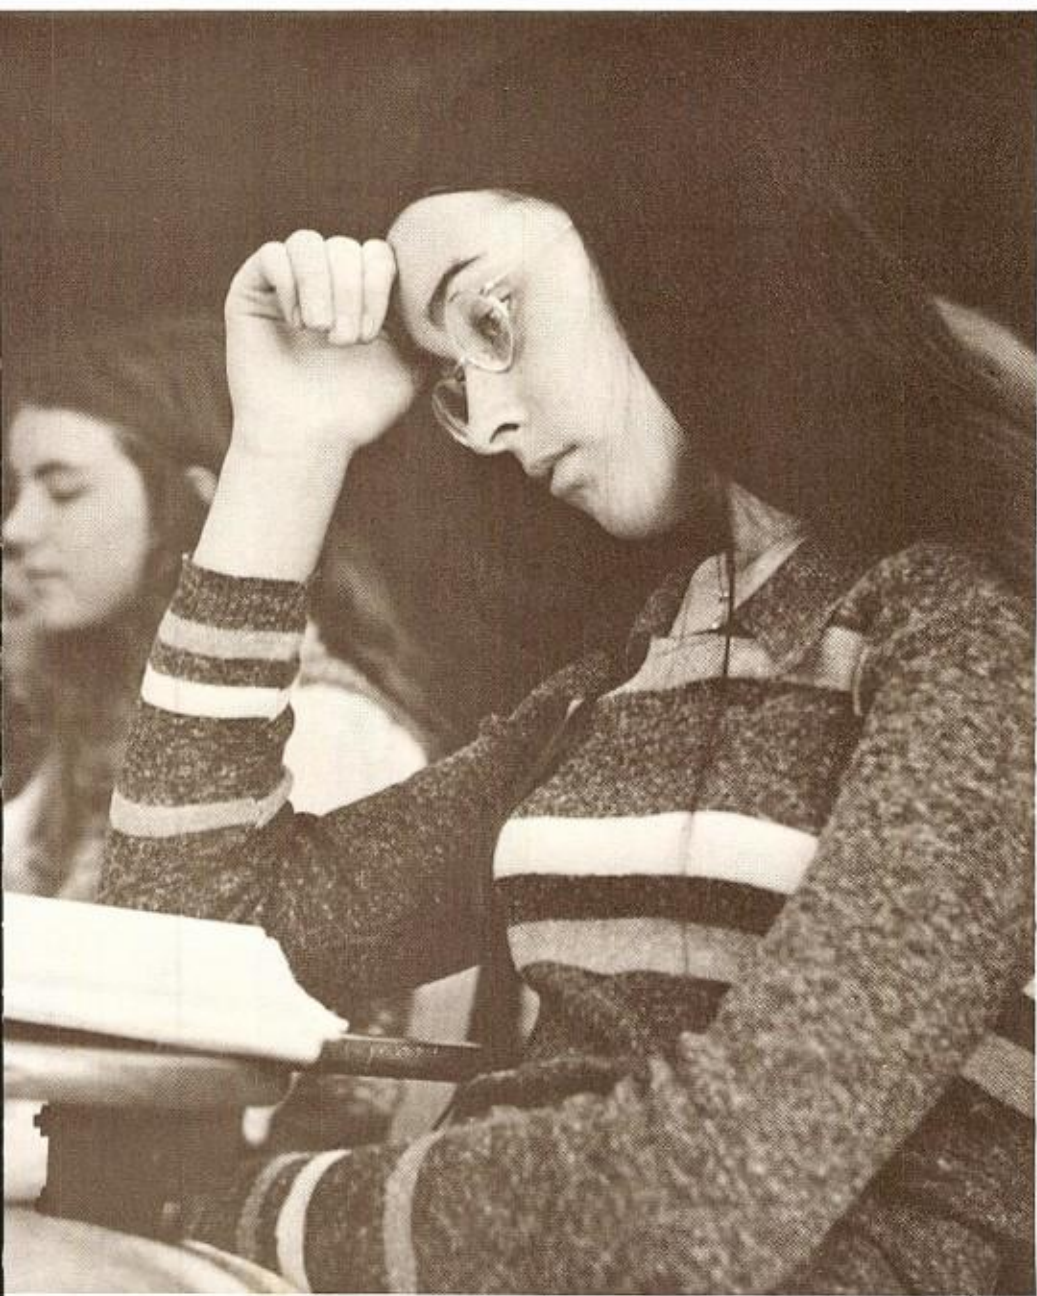

So watch out, GHS! The Spirit of '76 is coming on strong!

Concrete education is sought by mischievous Sophomores.

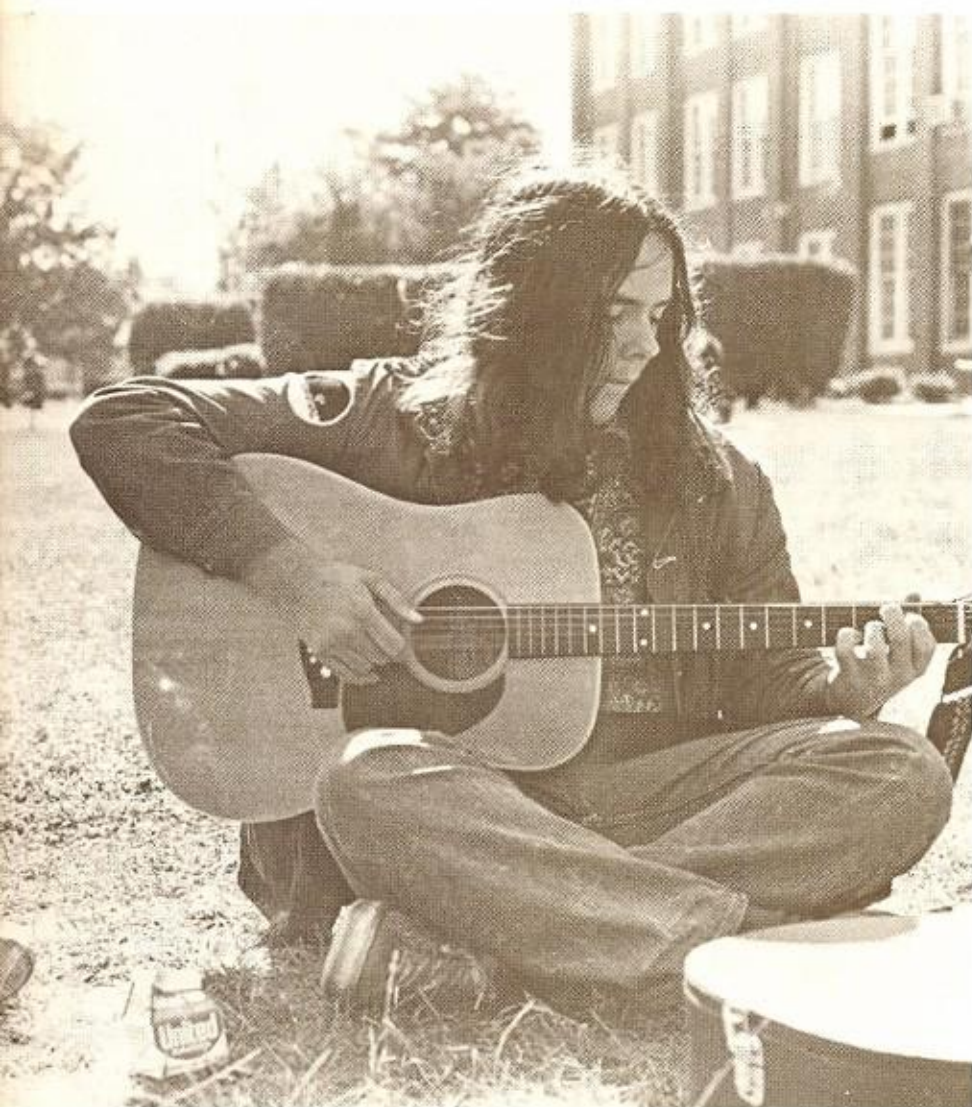

Memory-making, future-fantasying, fill junior days

We had attained another milestone—one not so lofty as that of being a Senior, nor so ignominious as being a Sophomore—we stood on a plateau, a position where graduation was not so far future and where the days of buying elevator tickets were hazy in our minds. Our status was such that we could quietly ridicule our underclassmen while reserving thoughts of the imminent responsibilities incumbent on Seniors. We had become (you guessed it!) the Juniors of Grimsley Senior High School.

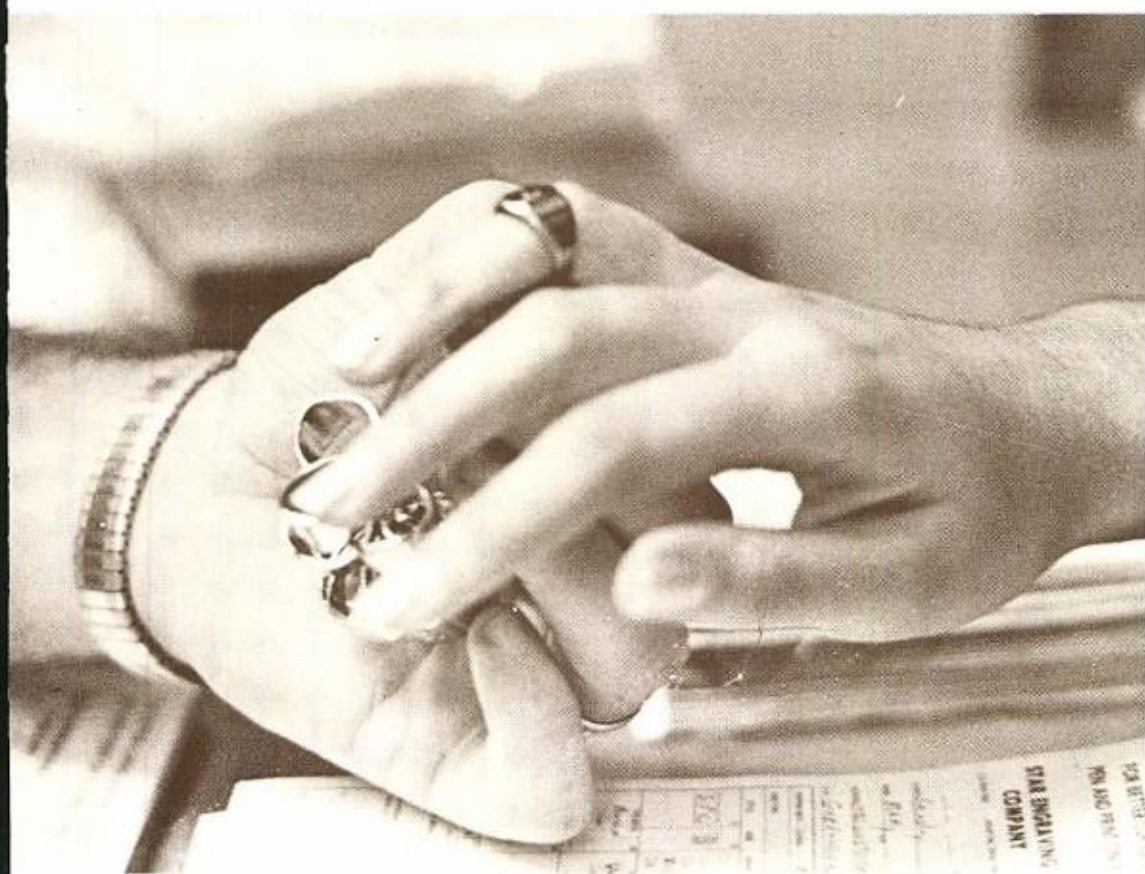

When the novelty of having lessers had worn off, we tackled PSAT's, labored through a successful Jr. Class play, and beheld with wonder those gold(!) class rings. Familiar with the campus and its many activities, we returned to school ready to participate in clubs and organizations. Our previously weak "Fight, fight!" gained strength, and next year we should out-yell even the present Senior Class. The "surprising Sophomores" of '73, returning as Juniors with more maturity and seasoning, contributed significantly to athletics. Apathy at election time was less conspicuous.

The experience gained from having "faced it" for two years could make the Class of 1975 Grimsley's most interested, educated, and cosmopolitan group of graduates ever!

Thirty-three Juniors share honor of serving as marshals

Of all our years, these are the shortest and the longest. What elders proclaim to be "the best years of our lives" have come and gone in a whirl of football cheers, algebraic equations, and club projects. These magical high school years—they have left us with a collection of bittersweet memories, the seeds of knowledge, and a lot of experience in learning about ourselves. It has been a long endurance contest, often disheartening, but just as often wildly exhilarating. And now—we have arrived. Standing on the brink of life, we have behind us all the concerted efforts of dedicated teachers and the seasoning of three years as intern adults. Memories of Homecoming games, Page-Grimsley battles, club dinner meetings, parking-lot sweeps, meaningful classes, hard-earned grades, and the everyday pleasantries of GHS life have endowed us with a happy high school heritage. Long after we forget about quadratic equations, symbolic relationships, and dangling participles, we will remember each special personality which has touched our lives and helped to shape our future selves.

And all the members of GHS faculty
Peter Byrd

and most of all

MRS. RACHEL MORTON and MISS VIRGINIA POWELL

for they deserve our warmest thanks, for it is their patience, endurance, and selflessness which are the essence of this book.
